Ann Bednarz

Mrs Bednarz,
I'm still not sure if you hate seniors or not. (Maybe just some of them.) Thanx for a great 1st period.

Love Amy Krause

PS Maybe sometime soon you will get another chance to go to China. Good luck with your future & have a great trip (I know you'll go) have fun!!!

Mrs. Bednarz,
It's been a lot of having fun you as a teacher. you are a great teacher and my favorite teacher this year. Thanks for a great year.

Love Chris VanOstenberg

MRS BEDNARZ
YOU ARE ONE OF THE BEST TEACHERS I HAVE HAD, AND YOU ARE THE BEST ENGLISH TEACHER I HAVE HAD IN ALL MY 12 YEARS OF SCHOOL. HAVE A NICE SUMMER

JASON WRIGHT

Mrs. Bednarz,
It's been great having you as a teacher this year. Even though it missed every other day. Maybe you'll get another student like me next year. Have a nice summer.

Mrs. Bednarz,
I'm glad I had you as an English teacher this year. And we got to learn a lot about each other. I'm sorry that I was such a pain in the butt sometimes, but I guess I deserved it. Thanks for a great year.

Mrs. Bednarz,
I have enjoyed English better this year than in the past. I think probably because I am a senior and I'm getting to leave. But most of all I think it was because of the teacher.

Jam Packed

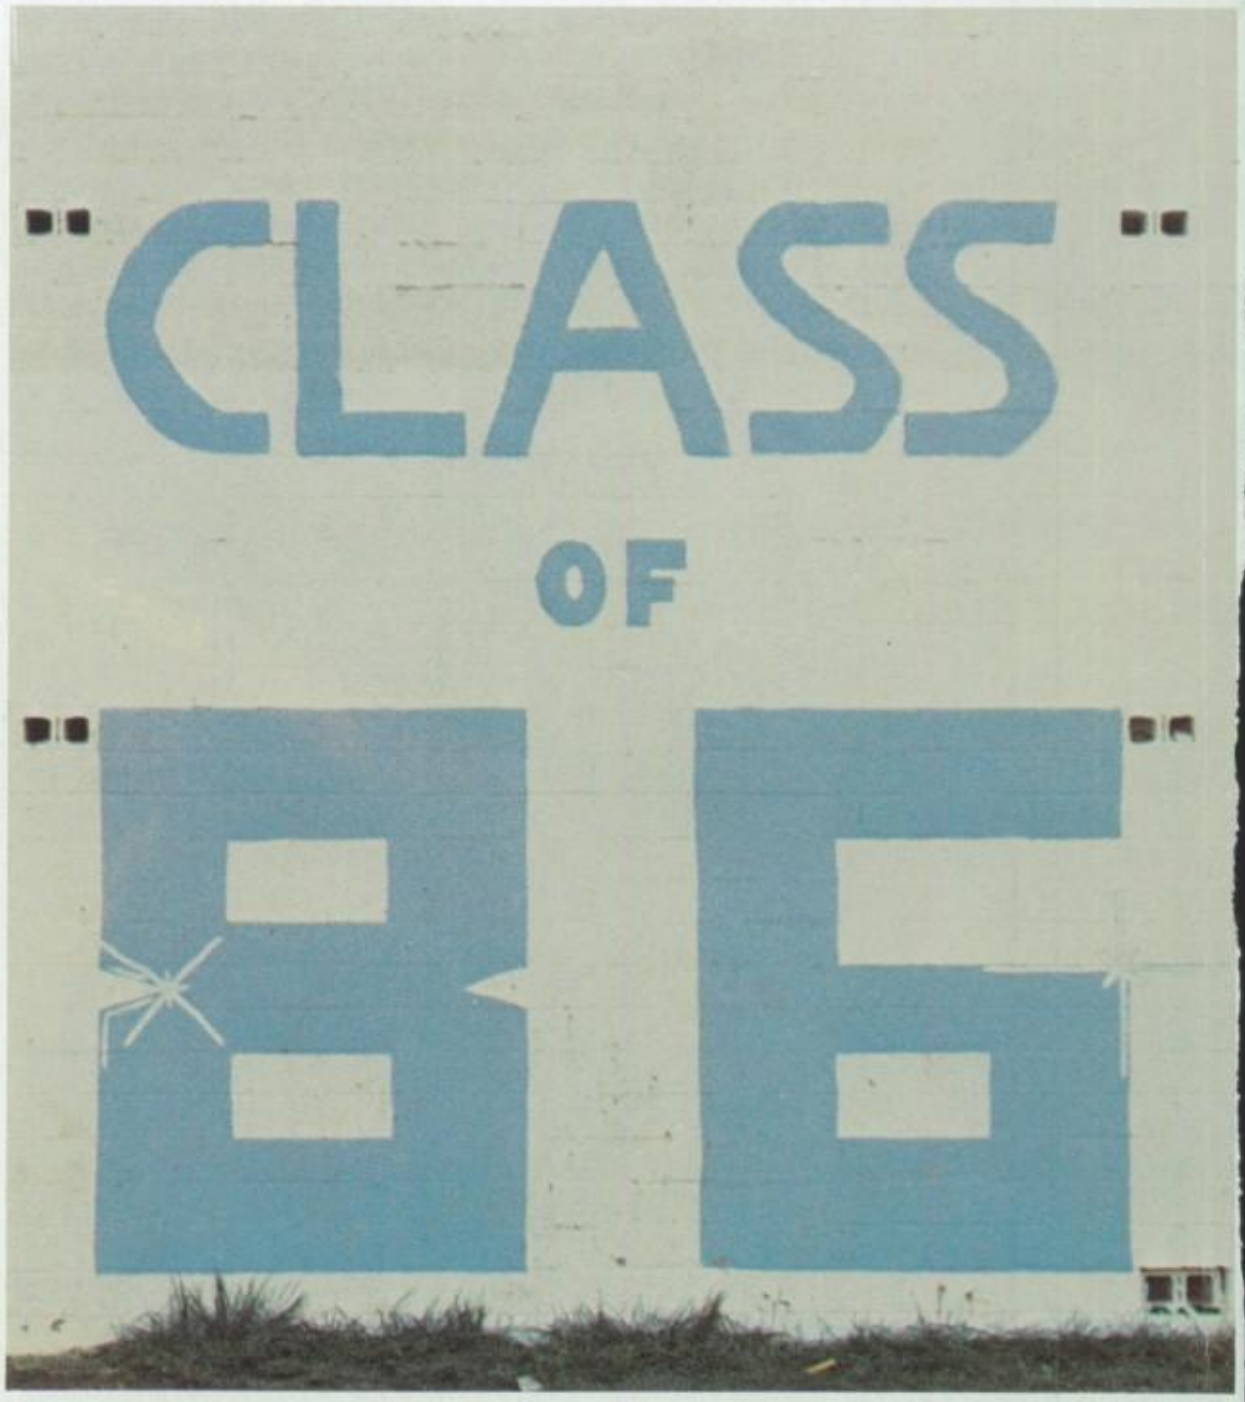
The year of 1985-86 had brought many changes to Chantilly High school. The biggest change that was seen was the increased amount of students arriving at the doors the first day of school. This brought on the jam packed feeling that strived throughout the school year. Through this feeling, more school spirit had shown through each of the classes, as oriented Chargers had packed new trophy cases with well deserved awards. And of course, JAMS being the latest craze, filled the halls with the colorful Hawaiian look. With more people, more effort to be the best at what they did made Chantilly strive to the top. And the best efforts put to — makes a school jam-packed with the best — and no less! C



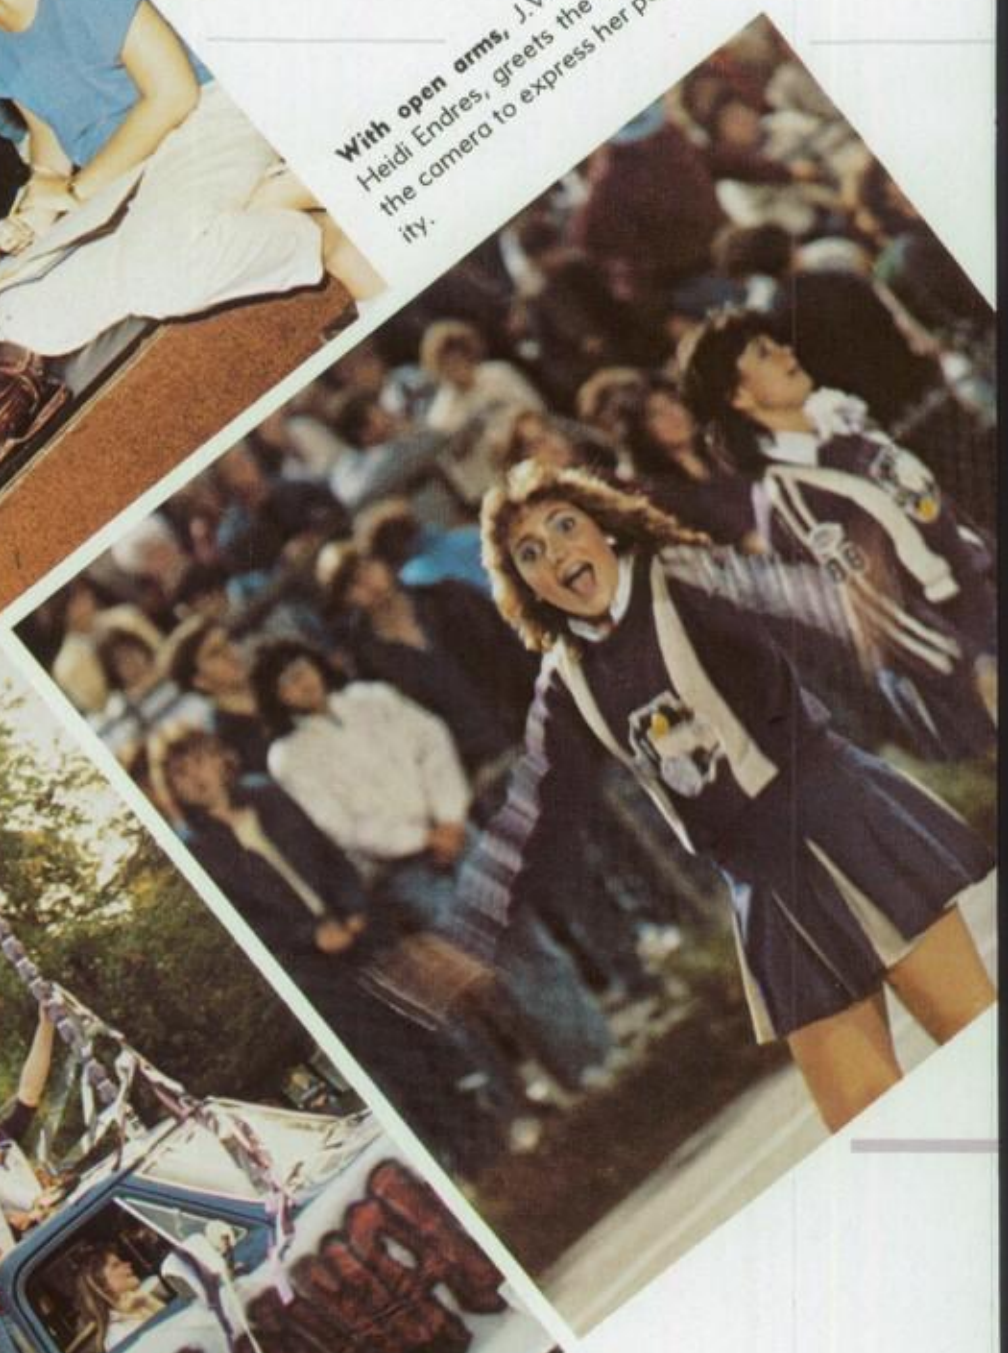
Once again, seniors at Chantilly have kept the tradition of painting their graduation year on the wall of the press box.

Students and their parents pack into the stadium bleachers to see another victorious football game.

To the sign of heavy metal, sophomores greet the photographer during "C" lunch to show their jam-packed capabilities.

Upfront and in person, the sign in the front of Chantilly High School, greets students and faculty every weekday morning. INSETS: The 1985-86 school year was Mr. Kiem's third year as principal of CHS.

Gathered around, juniors Sharon Lindsay, Heather Cohick, Judy Fridella, and Julie Frye sit and discuss how well the first day of school went.



With open arms, J.V. cheerleader, Heidi Endres, greets the crowd and the camera to express her personality.

Crush the Colonials, was the attitude of seniors riding in their first place homecoming float.

STUDENT LIFE

To highschool students, life revolves around classes, friends, jobs, and afterschool activities. After the six and one half hours put in, from 7:30 am to 1:50 pm. everyone is ready for some fun. To some, it might be an after school job or maybe practice for a sport, others just have the "fun" of going home and doing homework. What ever the situation, Chantilly students take Student Life in stride! But it just doesn't stop at the end of the school week, various activities, such as dances and sports events continue on throughout the weekend. Many things comprise student life at Chantilly. From the Halloween Parade conducted by the Child Care students to the Prom in May, from the Fall play to the performances by Jazzin' in the Spring Show, students devote their time to support life at Chantilly. But from the daytime to the nightime, the difference is extreme — from trying to find the nearest party to spending a quiet night at home or getting an early night's rest, nothing ever stops! Whether jammin' out or kicking back, Chantilly student life is definitely there! C

Four Days of Fun

The Freshmen demonstrate their spirit and unity as they display their Opus from "Charger County".

The Sophomores, not to be outdone by anyone, were just as spirited with their float. They say, "Chantilly is Number One!"

Catching the spirit and the ball before half-time, John Allison packed in an exciting touchdown!

Packing the streets of Greenbriar, The Marching Chargers jam their way back to the school for more festivities.

Have you ever seen so many people in one place at the same time? Next to Christmas, Homecoming was one of the bigger crowds to gather at Chantilly. It all started Friday afternoon, a week before the "big event". One could find students decorating their locker commons, burying the lockers in streamers, lining the ceilings, poles, and everything in sight! When Tuesday morning arrived, not a bare space existed. As students and faculty entered the building, you could sense the feeling of spirit. A few daring students began our spirit week with the bums of summer wearing their beach outfits. The question, "Has anyone ever told you that you look like someone else?" was asked all day on Wednesday, Twin Day. On Thursday, kids dressed as a comic or cartoon character to complete the idea of Cartoon Day. And on Friday, the classes dressed in appropriate attire and colors in order to exude their spirit and anticipation of the game that night. They successfully packed the pep rally and jammed the gym. However, soon the chants and claps succumbed to the more orderly music and routines of the parade through Greenbriar. But by half-time during the game, the crowd was on their feet, and there was little routine except for the class floats and the princesses. As the show neared an end, all applauded for the 1985 Homecoming Queen, Darlene Johnson, and the Senior's Number One prize-winning "Incredible Hulk" float. The perfect end to the perfect evening came as Chantilly crushed the Jefferson Colonials 24-0! Certainly, everyone showed their spirit on this Victorious 1985 Homecoming. C

The seniors, last in line but first in spirit, displayed their float in the parade. Little did they know that "The Incredible Hulk" would win them first place that night!

The Juniors also added their own sense of enthusiasm to the parade. All of Chantilly could tell from Captain Caveman that the Chargers are the best!

Girls Take Over the Field

Guys spent all day tearing up the field and finally went home, leaving the football field looking innocent. Little did anyone suspect — in a few short hours, two completely different teams of players would tear up the field once more, in Powder Puff fashion. For weeks prior to that night, practices had been held and spirit had mounted throughout the school as the senior girls prepared to take on the Juniors. The night was packed with screaming and shoving, with a half-time show starring a few sophomore boys — only the most talented, of course — who performed a dance in the style, and skirts, of the Drill Team. The game ended in a 7-0 victory for the Seniors, followed by a bonfire in the baseball field. The evening packed in a great deal of enthusiasm — all it took was a woman's touch! C

Eeek! They're here again!

The ghosts and goblins, witches and warlocks of Chantilly High School were back again. This year they were cuter or more frightening than ever before. The Child Care classes at Chantilly dressed up for Halloween and went parading throughout the school. Each child dressed up as his favorite villian, super hero, cartoon character, or idol. The students in child care walked with the children through the school, having fun and handing out candy. Upstairs in red, yellow, blue, and orange, students jumped out of their seats to catch a quick glance of the children.

"I took it because I thought it would be a lot of fun and it has turned out to be a great experience!" — Jennifer Boynton

Every Tuesday through Thursday at 11:45 sixteen children between the ages of three and four arrived. They did many things every day. The day started out with free play. After that the children had art. They got to paint, make ginger bread houses and many other things. They then divided into minigroups to calm down. After minigroups, the children were given a nutritious snack. Thursdays were always exciting because of show and tell. The day ended at 1:45 and the children left with their parents. C

Holiday Concert

'Twas the Night Before Christmas . . .

"'Twas the night before Christmas, and all through the house . . . ". The popular story of Christmastime, St. Nick, and the idea of peace on Earth were all spread through the music of Jazzin', the Jazz Band, and the Madrigals. This year, as every year, these talented performers put on a Holiday concert for an audience of all ages at Chantilly. Although mainly intended for children, this show was enjoyed by everyone who attended, from ages 2 to 92. After the performance, an early appearance was made by Santa Claus, who gave the kids an opportunity to put in their orders for Christmas. Frosty the Snowman also greeted the audience, but he did not stay after the concert with Santa. A variety of popular holiday favorites was sung by the Madrigals, and Jazzin' performed songs from the musical, The Wiz. In addition to the children's concert performed on December 18, the same groups went to the Kennedy Center on Christmas Eve to spread more holiday cheer in Washington, D.C. At the Kennedy Center, they were accompanied on several occasions by singers from other cities in Virginia. To spread their spirit even further, the Chantilly singers were hosted by WMAL Radio, which reached select cities in New York, Maryland, and Virginia. Cheer and spirit of the holidays spread quickly throughout the Washington, D.C. area, thanks to the performances of our talented Chantilly students! C

Raggedy Ann and Andy, alias Tommy Tolbert and Tami Tickel, delight the audience as Mr. Aversano directs the band in the background.

The Madrigals, accompanied by Jazzin' members, sing a variety of holiday favorites. The band expresses its talent as well, playing along with the singers. The audience was filled with people of all ages, and they all enjoyed the concert.

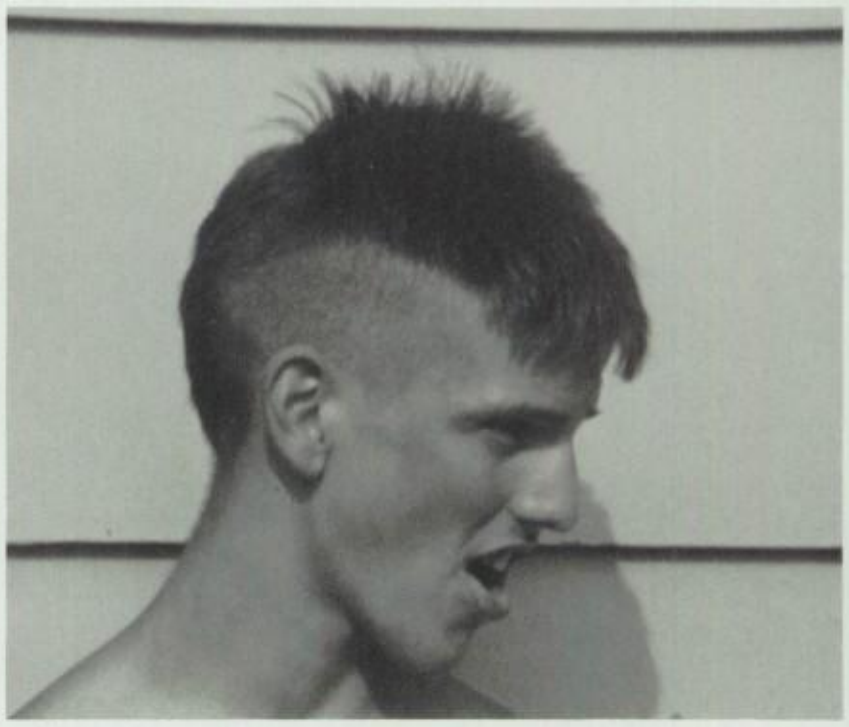
Backpacking it home, Kirsten Robinson and Ann Ball rely on the use of backpacks to carry the bulk of their homework.



Cut and shaved, Sean Mooney has a very contemporary look to his hair, making it a cool and carefree hairstyle to deal with.

Fads

Walking down the halls of Chantilly proved to be a unique experience for those with fashion in mind. Many ways of showing uniqueness and individuality came out through the clothes and appearance of the student body. Hair styles were wild, shirts were big, pants were anywhere from dressy to a few years old, and shoes were anything comfortable that would get a lot of mileage. The major theme for fashion was "anything goes." Stirrup pants were accepted as much as old flannel shirts, and the look of paisely came back once again. Many trends were set from the individualized way of dressing, and it spread fast throughout the school. Knowing what time it was was not a problem as most people had colorful, creative watches called Swatch. Fashion, indeed played a big part in the school year and probably would not have been as exciting without it. C

Splendor in the Grass

This year Chantilly's drama department presented the play, Splendor in the Grass, starring Sophomore Maria Hallahan and Senior Paul DeVoe. The play was about teenagers growing up in the "Roaring Twenties" and coming to terms with their maturity during the Great Depression. The play also dealt with the problems of first love and peer pressure. Many new faces were debuted, displaying great potential. The acting was superb, and really made the audience feel like students of "Central High School". The direction and set designs were magnificent, and special thanks went to director Mrs. Elaine Wilson and all who were part of the stage and technical crew. Splendor in the Grass brought out many different concepts of teenage life, as well as hidden talent in the young actors of Chantilly. C

Our Favorite Hobbies

How did the student body of CHS spend their free time . . . besides hanging out at McDonalds? Some enjoyed collecting all different things, from aluminum cans and stamps to postcards and coins. Others relaxed by doing their favorite activities — surfing, fishing, dancing, horseback riding, skiing and making designs on the beach. Of course, the hobbies of some people change as they grow older but some will always stay the same. C

Mid-East Struggle

During 1985 unrest in the Mid-East still raged on. The Lebanese civil war continued with great destruction throughout the country. Terrorists' bombings caused heavy damage and loss of lives in the Middle East region and even reached some capital cities of Europe.

Continued unrest threatened the peace initiates of the U.S., and the ever-present threat of the East was still a distant dream.

A 76 Year Journey

Once again, Halley's comet could be seen this year but dimmer than its 1910 showing. Because of city lights, the best way people viewed the spectacle was on dark, moonless nights.

Appearing in the sky in December and January, it travelled behind the sun and wasn't seen again until March. The best visibility of the comet was in early April, when it was closest to the earth. Most people had to catch it then because of its not appearing again until 2061. C

South Africa Protests

A white man runs from jeering group of stone-throwing Blacks in Johannesburg as violence continued throughout the country.

Racial violence was a daily occurrence in South Africa. A government policy of not allowing equal status for the country's Black population brought constant turmoil to South Africa. This policy, known as Apartheid, brought rioting, car bombing, and the destruction of property, a way of life in the Black section of South Africa. Condemnation of the South Africans racial policies by the entire world community through economic sanctions, cancellation of diplomatic ties, and public demonstrations at South African embassies became commonplace. C

Super Bowl Shuffle

After three-year-old Redskin banners and souvenirs finally had faded away from the stores, a new match refreshed the nation on January 26, 1986. The Chicago Bears played against the New England Patriots in Super Bowl XX. The Bears recorded their version of a Redskin "cameo appearance" on the radio with the song "Super Bowl Shuffle." The spirit of football returned to many in the Washington, D.C. area who had burned out on reruns of Theismann and Riggins interviews. A final score of 46-10 gave the Bears new recognition as they achieved a decisive victory over the Patraiots! C

Springsteen returned after a European tour to play 10 major cities in the states. This time Bruce graced D.C. at R.F.K. Stadium. Both concerts were unforgettable experiences. The four hour show left listeners overwhelmed and exhausted. C

Parking? . . . In This Lot?

This year at Chantilly High School was the worst for students and parking. Everybody HAD to drive to school. Students and faculty alike had difficulty finding parking spaces. For the first two weeks of school, everyone had to leave 15 minutes early to find a place to park. If you were lucky enough to bribe a parking sticker from Mr. McKinney or Mr. Higgison, you had a better chance getting a place to park your car. If you weren't lucky enough to get a parking sticker, you had to worry about getting towed or park on Stringfellow. Hopefully next year the parking situation will be better or there will be a lot more people riding the bus. C

And We Danced

The best way to express a football victory for Chantilliers was to have a dance after the game. Dances have been the scene of many good times. A common sight was people "getting wild" and dancing until they dropped. Whether you went to dance, talk about the game or just socialize about the latest gossip, Chantilly's dances were a great place to spend time with friends on a Friday night. C

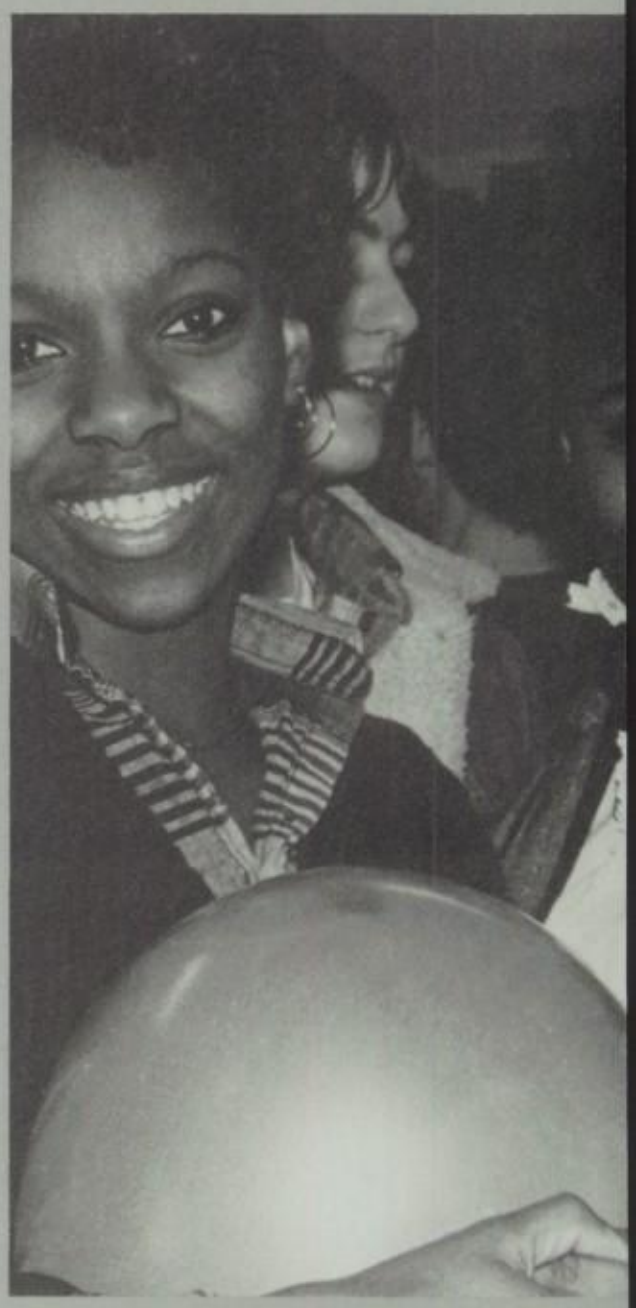
Getting the most out of it, two students take advantage of the free balloons and free food. Freshmen and sophomores spent their gym period trying to see every exhibit.



A Day at the Fair

The Vocational Fair — an awaited all day event — was held in the vocational wing on February 12. Sponsored by Mr. Webber, the vocational principal, the fair was aimed at bringing in awareness to the vocational program and to encourage the students to register in vocatonal classes. The Chantilly Vocational center serves sixteen feeder schools in the area and contains six areas of study. They are — trade and industry, marketing, business education, home economics, industrial arts, and health occupations. Many eye-catching and fun exhibits were displayed such as computer-made valentine cards from the data processing department and still modeling performed by fashion merchandising students.

"This was the best fair ever due to the hard work and enthusiasm of the faculty and students."

— Ms. Hinson

Food was also a big attraction with fettucini from restaurant trades and popcorn given out by the marketing classes after students returned completed surveys. Tasty food samples were prepared by gormet foods and restaurant trades. Many cheese cakes were given out by home economics. The health assistants program provided blood pressure tests and talked about health occupations. The cosmotology department practiced their skills through hair cuts and facials. The photography, carpentry, and child care classes also had interesting exhibits and information.

Other schools in the area provided special interests displays in the fields of horticulture, veterinary aid, and police and fire department occupations. Other occupations were presented through four armed services and community service booths. A new exhibit this year was a hotel and motel management display which featured hand-created ice carvings for center pieces.

For all involved the fair was a success which brought well-deserved attention to our outstanding vocational center. C

Siblings in School

As we see here at Chantilly siblings were a part of school as well as a part of home. It was often that you ran to your older brother or sister to borrow lunch money, and occasionally you even had a class together. Besides their brains and money, siblings were good friends. Despite the vicious fights that frequently ignited, siblings were always there for each other when there was no one else. They made times a little easier when each just flunked a biology mid-term or had a fight with their boyfriend or girlfriend. Their familiar face was always a comforting, appreciated sight. C

Caroline Ruyle and Terri Bohn are busy at work playing Cupid for some lucky couple. Friday, Feb. 14th, was a very exciting day for some people as they tried to figure out who the carnations were from.

Love in the Air

White?? Pink??? Red???? These were the colors of the carnations received by many students on Valentine's Day this year. The color of the carnation had its own meaning; white meant friendship, pink, secret admirer, and red, sweetheart.

Starting Monday, February 10th, you saw Freshman, J.V. and Varsity cheerleaders selling the different carnations in between each locker commons during A, B, and C lunch. Friday morning, during homeroom, everyone received their carnations, with some being surprised with a few pink ones.

Valentine's Day has always been a time to show your boyfriend, girlfriend, husband, wife, family and friends how much you love them. Although inexpensive, carnation were a good way for students to show that special person in their life how much they cared. C

Muncha Buncha

This year a new lunch, C lunch, was added to the Chantilly lunch schedule. All three lunch periods are still overcrowed. And because of this, chair fights broke out. Frequently, you saw people running in after class "saving" chairs for their friends. Childish as it may seem, it was the only way to get a seat during lunch. People guarded mountains of stacked chairs, as friends bought their lunches. A food fight was once started to distract people as their chairs were stolen while people fled. Lunch was a jammed pack affair! C

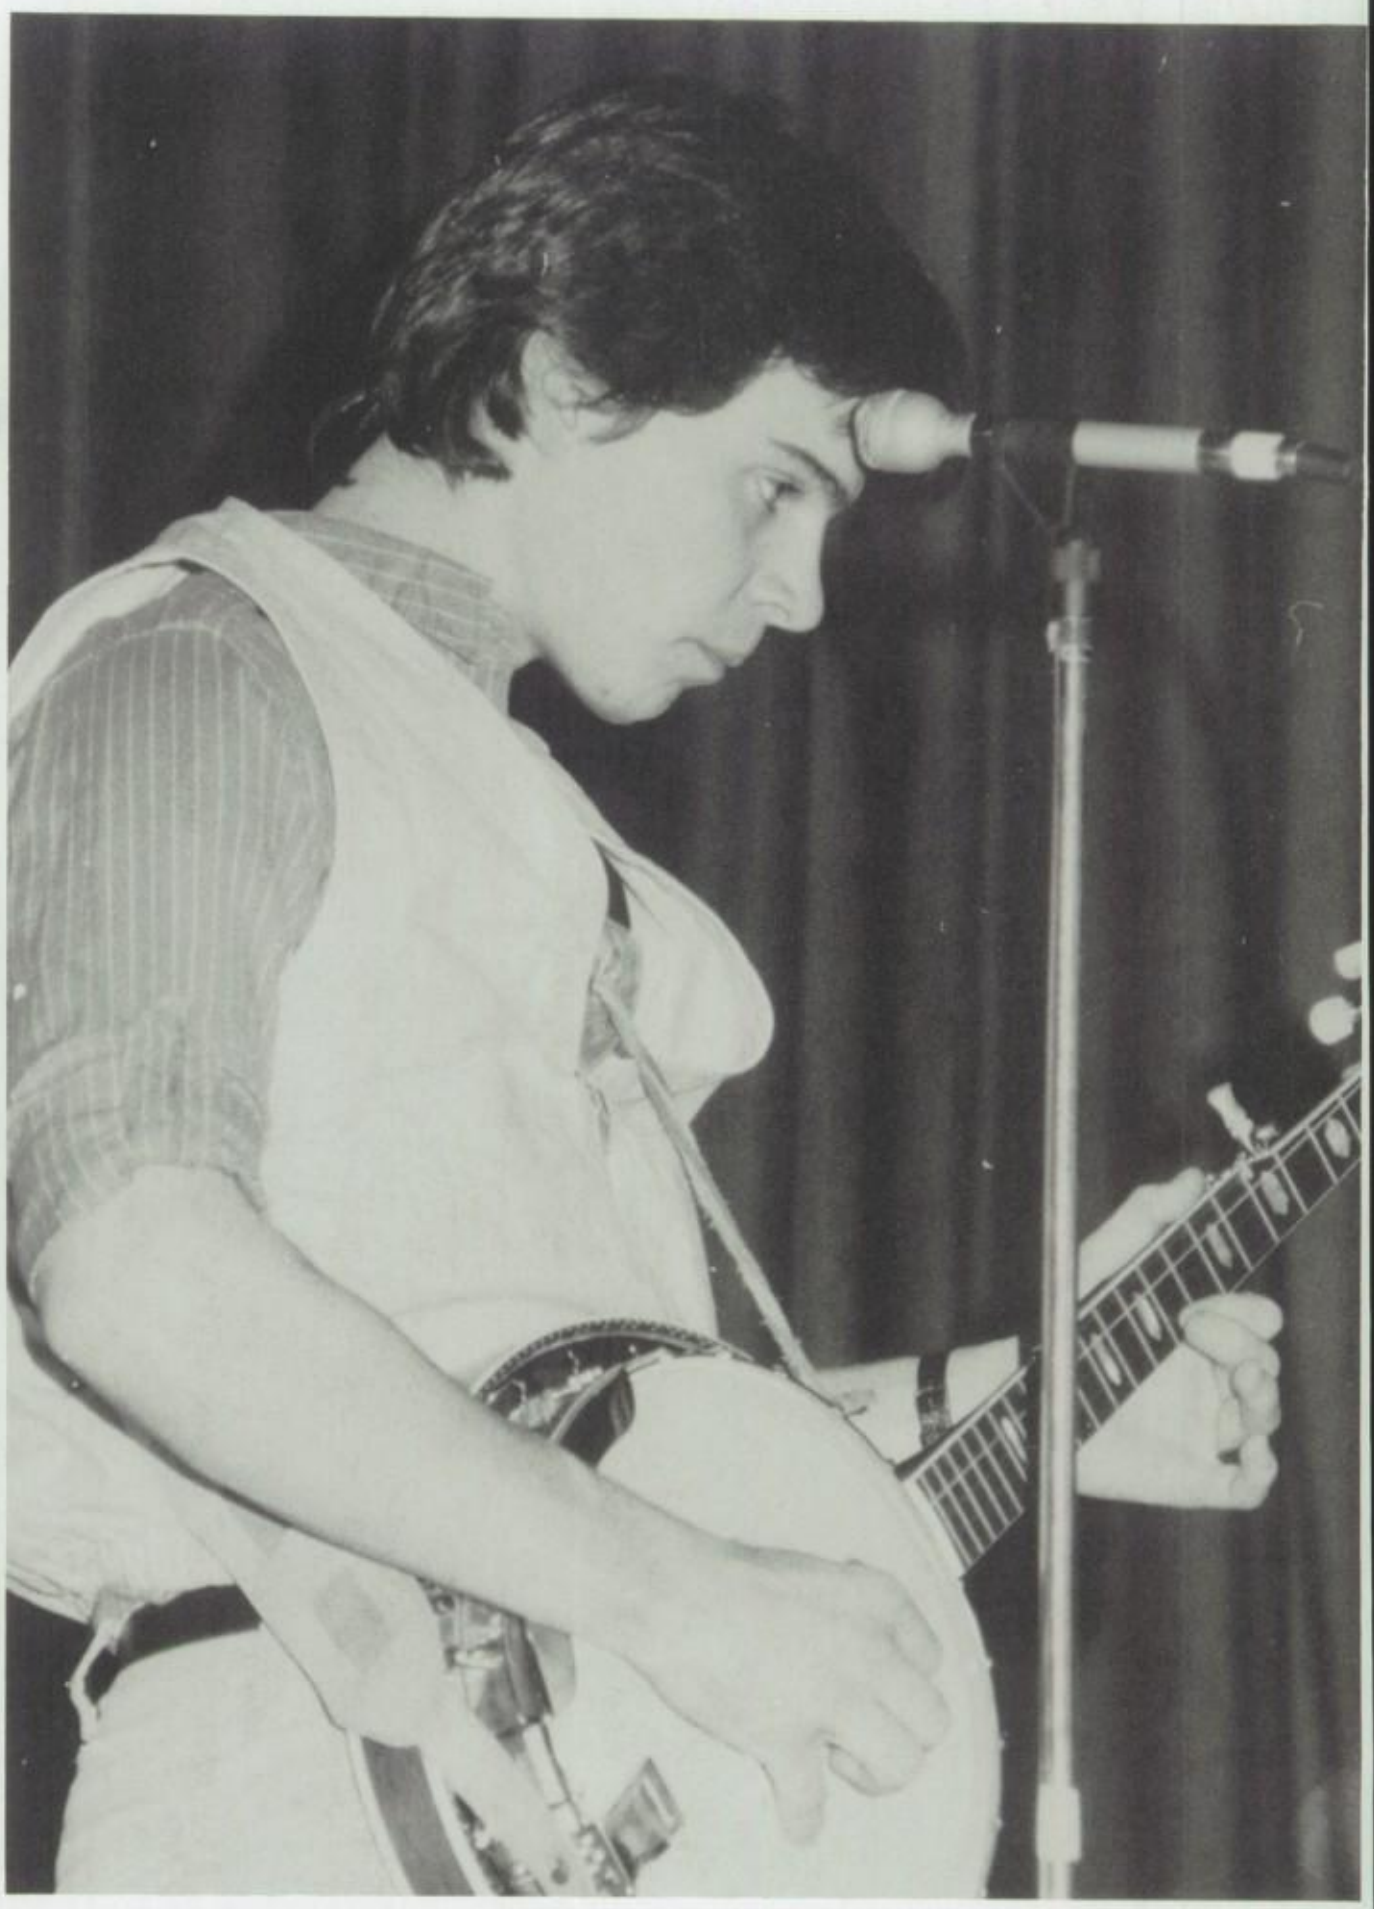
Strumming the strings, Melissa Garland begins her slow yet melodious song.

The last of the Dixie banjo player gives the audience a taste of real southern music.

Even Quiet Riot couldn't match the Jerry Morris band when it comes to rockin' the audience!



Jammed With Talent

The stars were out but they weren't in the sky but in Chantilly's auditorium. April 4 and 5 were the evenings in which latent talent were unveiled.

Creativity, artistic flair, and laughter were the elements to the Talent Show. On these two special nights, the students tore down the barrier between sane and craziness and gave everything they got. Dancers strutted across the stage leaping, bounding, or prancing. Whether it was ballet, jazz, or break dancing; they performed with style. The amateur singers brought the house down with their mellisonant voices. The audience were on their feet and cheered-on the singers whether they were solos or quartets. And they danced while the amplifiers were raging with songs. The bands rock-n-rolled and had lots of fun performing the latest hits or the oldies. Yet music had a soft side to it. The pianists hammered away at the ivory keys playing Chopin or contemporary music. However, the talent show was not complete without a Master of Ceremony. In this case, we were lucky and had two MC's, Mr. McKinney and Carlton Shutt. They announced the performances and cracked dumb jokes.

This only goes to say that practice makes perfect. These gifted performers practiced many strenuous hours to put together a masterpiece. However, their efforts rewarded. Besides the feeling of self-confidence and pride, first place winners received prizes.

So watch out Broadway because the stars are born. And those stars are the brilliant students at Chantilly. C

Laura Davies is on her way to a platinum record! Several contestants sang at the Talent Show, all of them expressing potential.

Dancing was another common talent expressed that night. Here three performers work their way to "Solid Gold".

These good ole' boys stomp their feet to the beat of their home-town Southern music.

Friends and lockers were like cheese and crackers — a twosome that was made for each-other. The most obvious reason for having a locker was for keeping notebooks, books, and school supplies. But for many people it was the nucleus for social activities. Friends left their notes in their friends' lockers or met their friends there. Some students used them to bridge the age gap.

Getting ready, Kim Peters and Robin Romine are prepared for the game ahead.

Longtime friends, Kirstin Messier and Denita Debore can be found paling around together in the commons.

In the commons, Belle Pontenello and Ashley Cole catch up the days news.

Caught by surprise, Richard Lindsay, Eric Tarzer, and Paul Melton hang around before class.

Lockers

People went to a lot of trouble to make them their own. Some students used the conventional posters, drawings, and various magazine clippings to decorate. Others used cloth, wall paper, shelves, name tags, and their own personal murals. Many future artists made memo pads, so if they shared a locker they could still keep communication lines open. All in all, they served many purposes. C

Jobs Jobs Jobs Jobs

A student who had a job had to be able to organize his/her time well. Balancing your studies and job obligations took a lot of planning. Going to school took up most of the day, so most students who had jobs worked parttime after school and on weekends. Some students had an arrangement to leave school and go to their job. Having a job enabled students to have spending money. It could also be used for future needs like a car or a college education. The mall served as a place for many job opportunities for many people. Many people worked in clothing stores to get benefits, sales, or employee discounts. Many students carpooled together to work in the many restaurants, book, and clothing stores. Getting a job could also have helped people meet other people and develop close friendships. It could also have helped to acquaint a person with a job in an area of work they were interested in. They could get on-the-job training and a feel for what the job was really like. In addition to money for spending, students saved for senior trips and other end-of-the year experiences. C

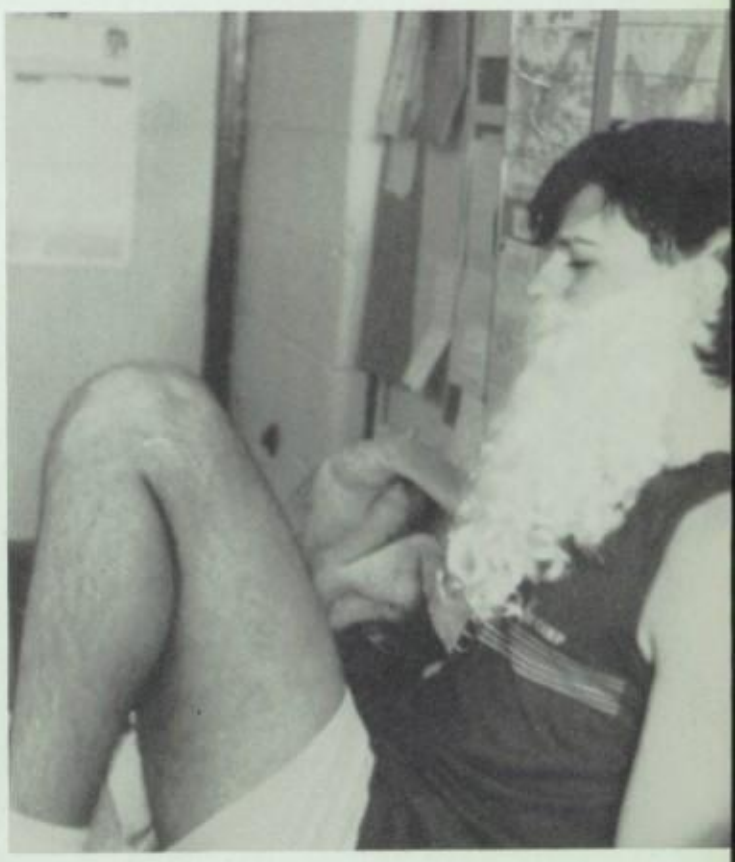
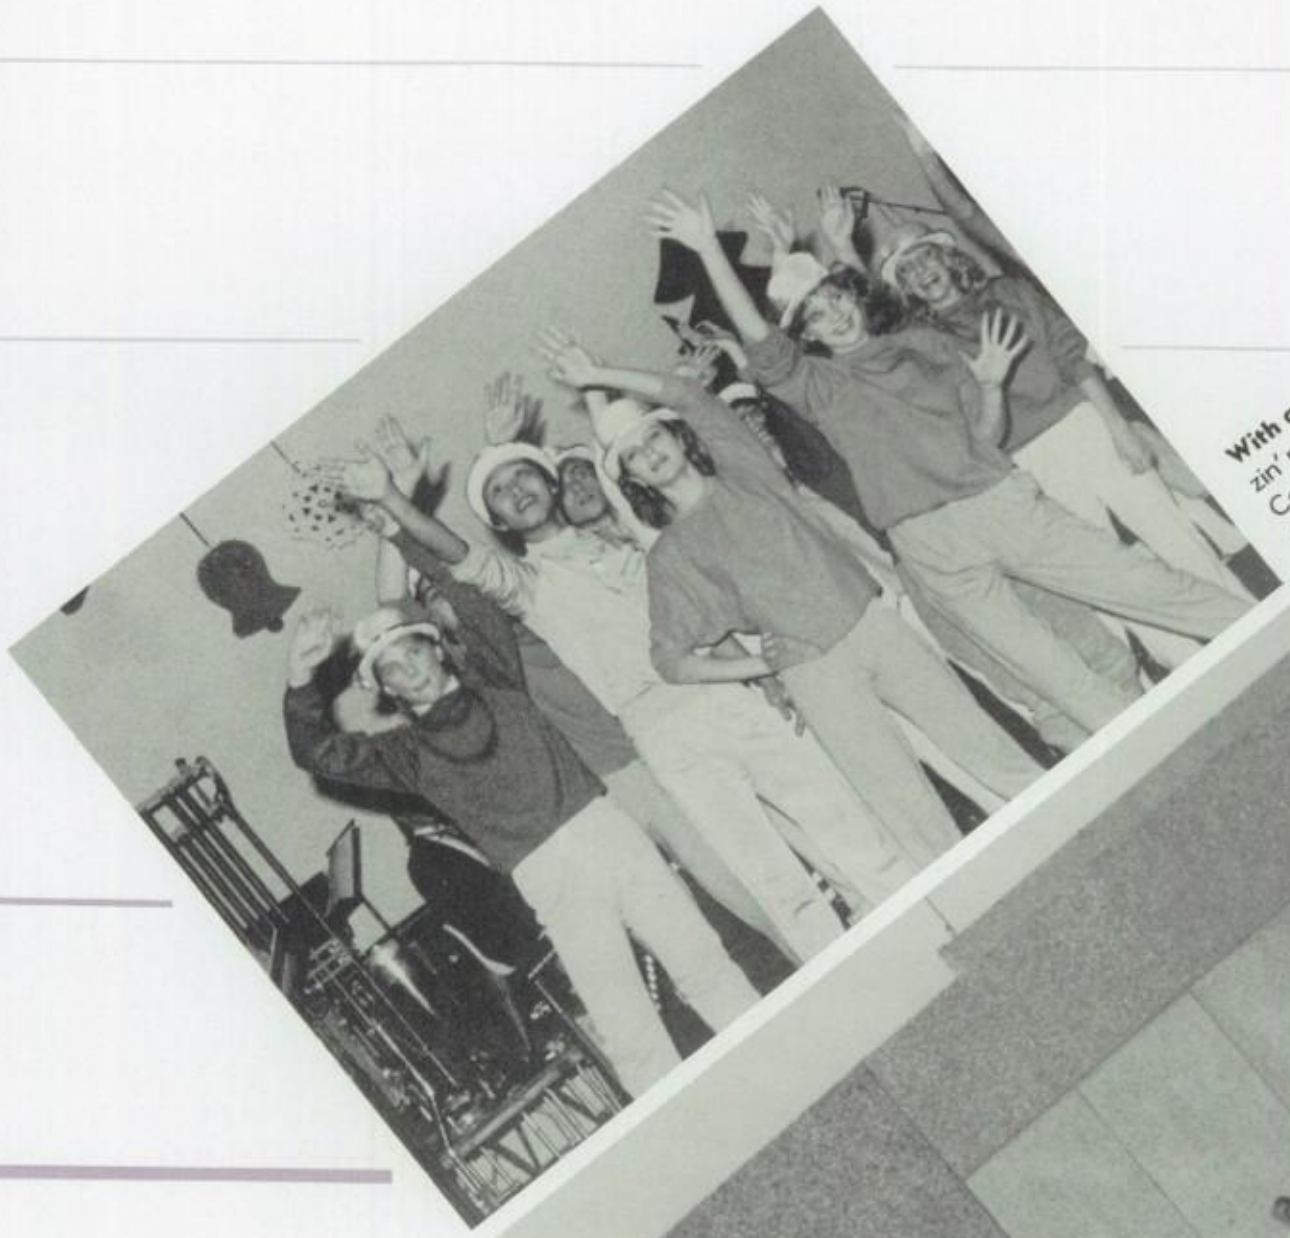
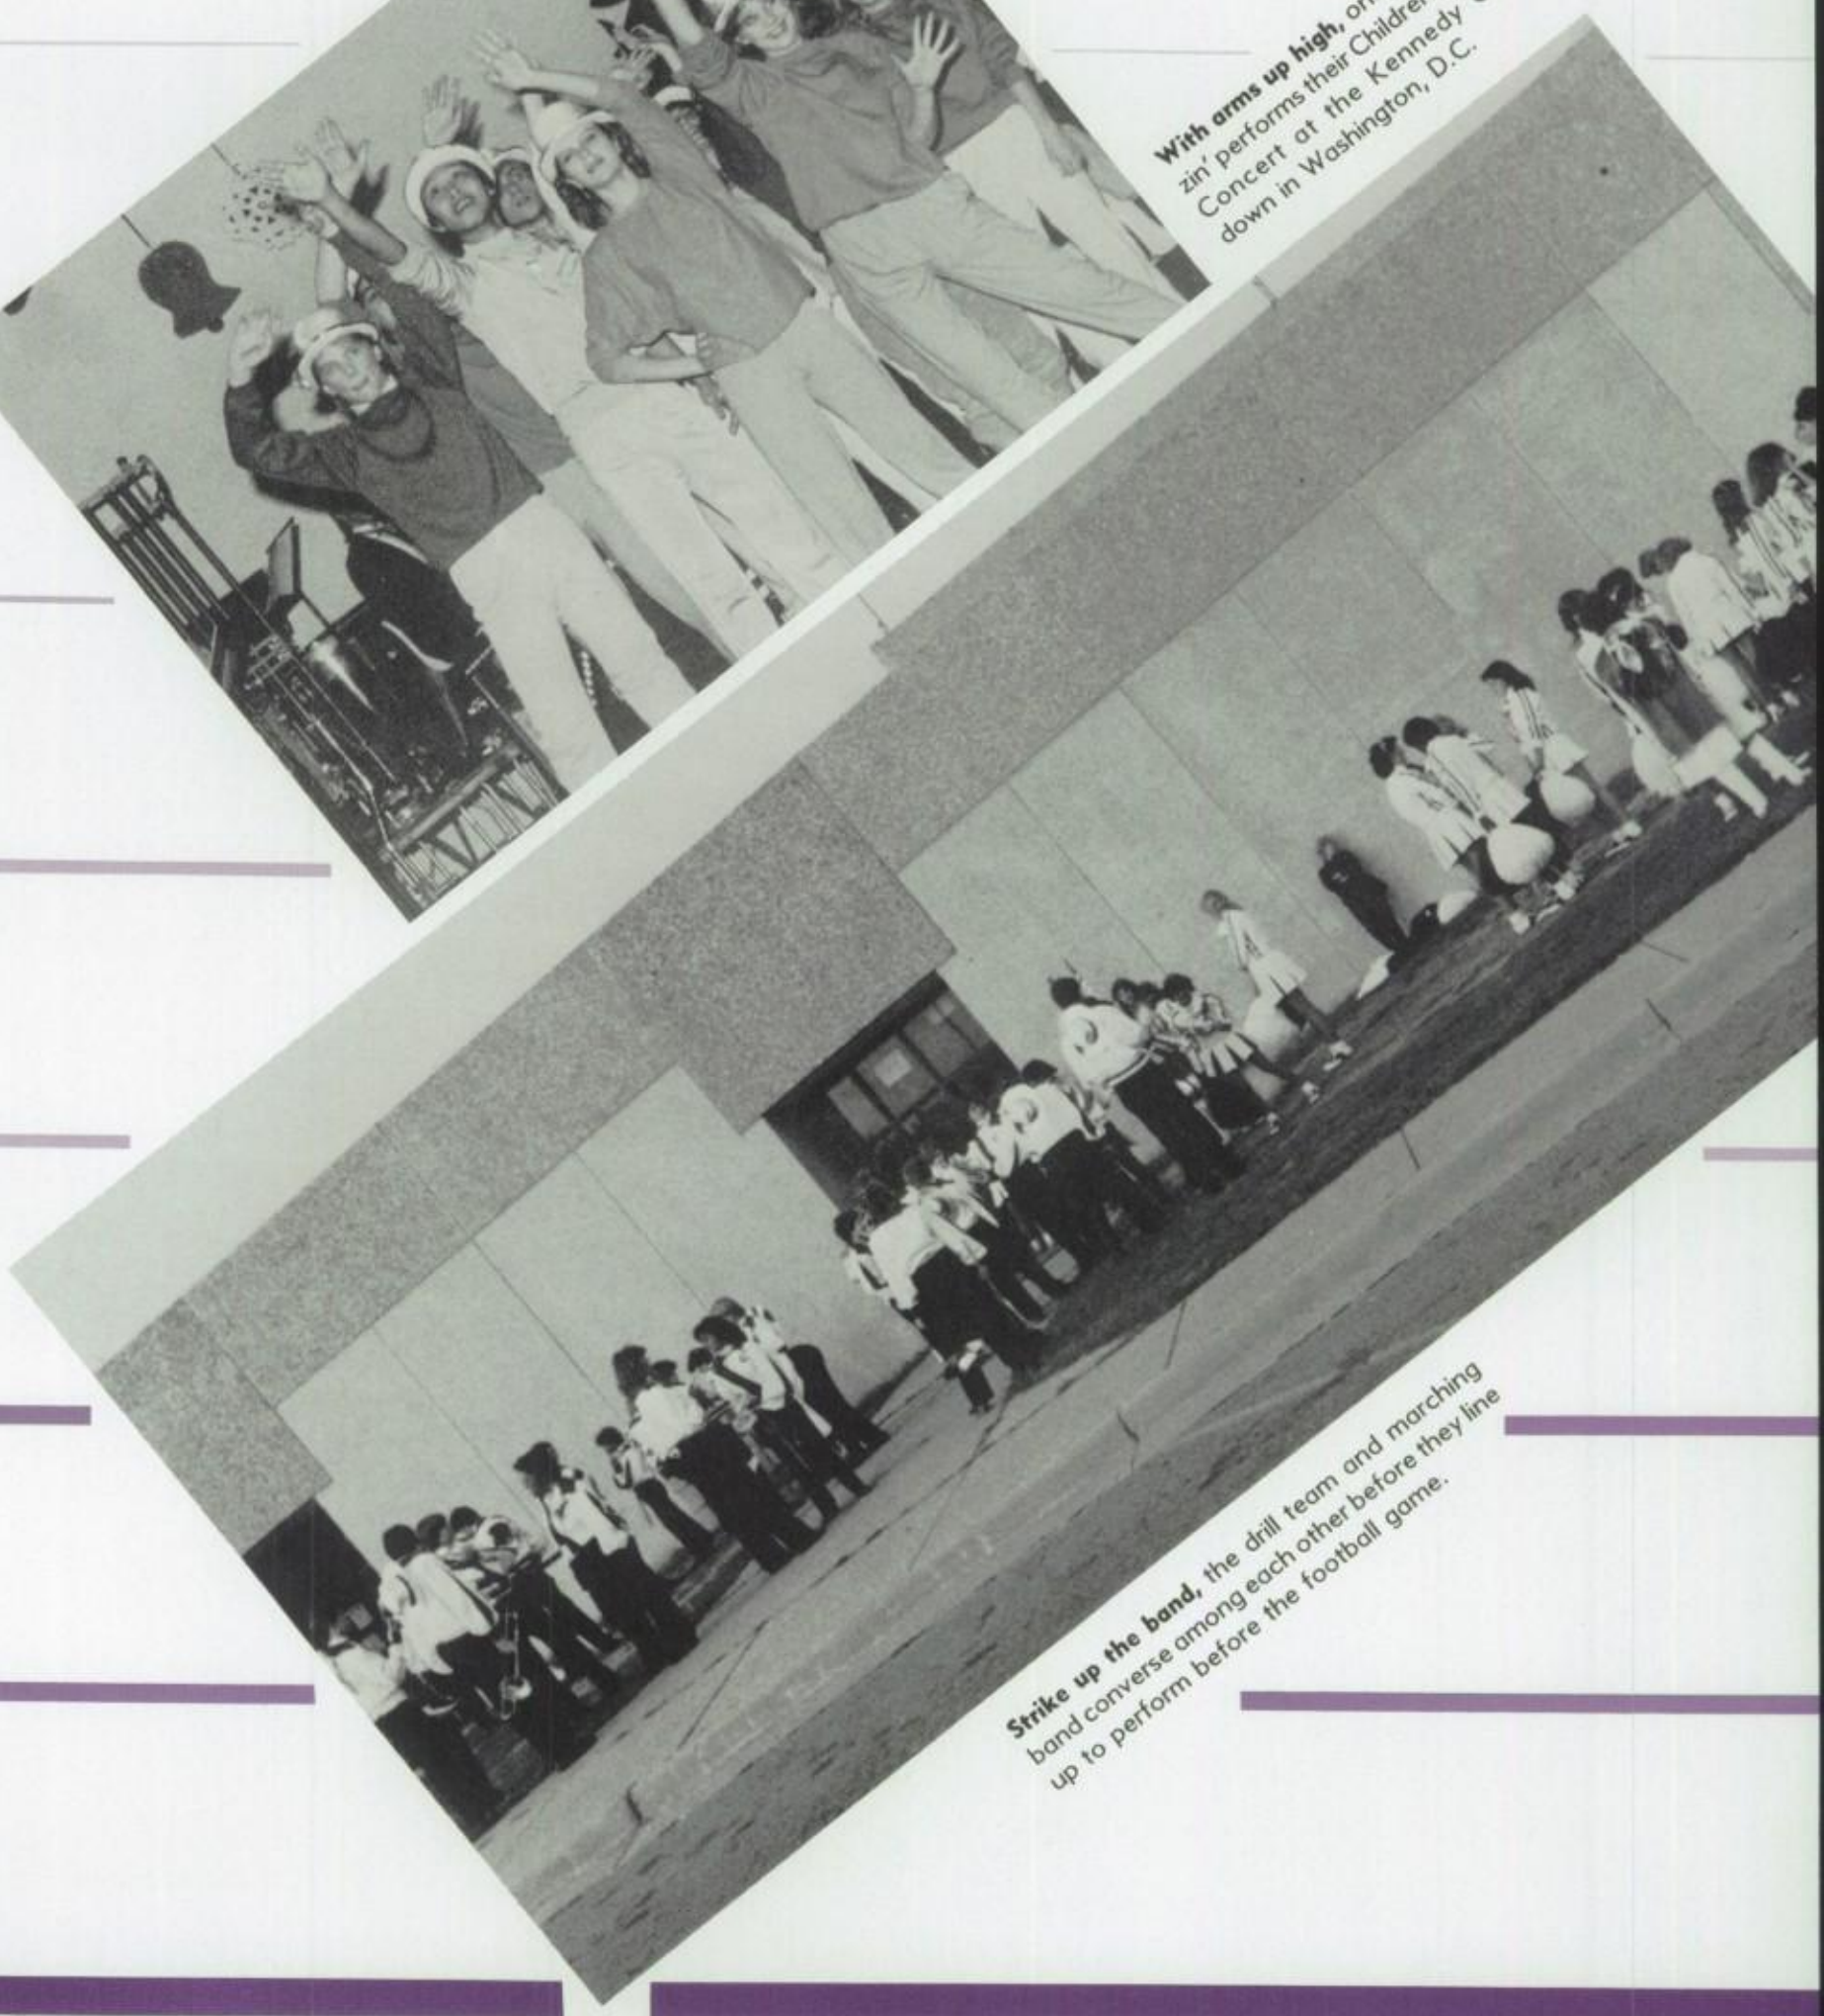
Jam-Packed Student Life

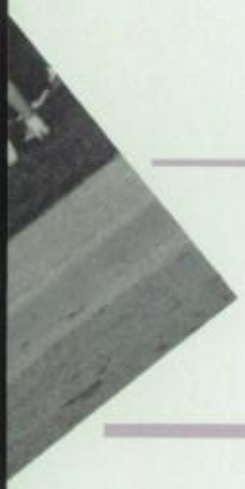




With arms up high, once again, Jazzin' performs their Children's Holiday Concert at the Kennedy Center down in Washington, D.C.



Strike up the band, the drill team and marching band converse among each other before they line up to perform before the football game.



Jam Packed in Activities

After-school activities sometimes gave everyone a break from an exhausting day of school work. Many students, especially freshman, found that joining clubs, playing in the band, or being in the drama department helped in establishing new friendships. In participating in activities, we were able to work together with others in hobbies that we like to do.

Because of the jam-packed number of students, clubs, societies, and other after-school activities flourished in memberships. The number of students in honor societies increased thus indicating students had a more serious approach to their studies. These same students devoted their time to tutoring those who needed help in certain areas. Then there were clubs, such as the Keyette Club, which sought to contribute help in the community.

With the increased number of students we had, Activities provided us with the basic goal of interests in preparing themselves for future years to come. C

CHEERS! A Toast To Spirit

The cheerleaders, sponsored by Mrs. Ford and Mrs. McCarthy, attended all football and basketball games, and wrestling matches. All football squads attended camp at the University of Maryland during the summer, where senior Darlene Johnson won the title of Miss N. C. A. The cheerleaders enthusiastically led their class in cheers at pep rallies. They also participated in many fund-raising activities, including selling programs at football games, and carnations for St. Valentine's Day. In addition, they helped support the school by attending the taping of "It's Academic!" and seeing the track team off to state competition.

Showing her enthusiasm, Ann Ball completes a cheer with a smile.

The Pep Club, a newly formed organization at Chantilly, helped promote school spirit by attending varsity football and basketball games. The members of the club, along with their sponsors, Ms. Watkins, Ms. Moss, and Ms. Scott, met every Thursday, where they made spirit posters and organized spirit-raising activities. The club officers were Ulonda Skinner, President; Dana Perkins, Vice President; Jennifer Rudolph, Secretary; and Sandy Burnham, Treasurer. C

Broadening new Horizons

The members of the Spanish, German, and the French Club were the foreign language students who carried their studies one step further. These clubs met weekly in their respective areas. The Spanish club studied the Spanish speaking countries, including culture, history, and customs. They gained this knowledge by visiting Spanish restaurants, and hearing speakers. In addition to this busy schedule they took part in different forms of fundraising. This year's elected officers were Kelly O'Brian, Kelli Lenihan, Kevin Denniston, and their sponsor was Mr. Amis.

Eye Catching posters are the main role a language club has to get people to take their language.

The French club was guided by Susan Gordon. It met its yearly objectives through the leadership of the following officers: President, Cydney Teal; vice president, Moosa Shah; secretary, Ingrid Beuter; treasurer, Diana Matthias. The French club just as the Spanish club did engage in many cultural activities. They studied French culture through song writings and forms of French culture. The German club also met weekly with their sponser, Mrs. Elke Gordon. Instead of club officers there was a committee in charge of their activities. The favorite product sold by the German club was Gummy Bears sold for fundraising purposes. C

VICA, Vocational Industrial Clubs of America, met every Wednesday to discuss all the job opportunities available in the trade fields. The club had three contests, the District, the Regional, and State Competitions. Chantilly hosted the District Competition. The Russian Club met every Thursday at 2 p.m. in S.L. Sojaka's room for weekly meetings. Through taking various field trips and taking part in several cultural activities, they learned the language and culture of the U.S.S.R.

This year's Russian Club Officers were Joy Vongsavanh, JoAnne Sullivan, Bruce Gnatt, Julie Howard. The Latin Club, sponsored by Mrs. Golder, also met weekly. They participated in many activities and an annual Latin contest called a Certamen. The contest is like an "It's Academic" in format except all the questions pertain to Latin. Instead of club officers, there was a committee led by Marjorie Fichter. One of their projects was to help make the International Float for the Homecoming parade. Another project was to set up tutoring for Latin students in need of help which was headed by Heather Dean. C

TAKING THE LEAD

In the fall of the year many future leaders gathered at Prince Williams Park to discuss matters of leadership with Mr. Keim. Most of these students were also members of SGA called the High School Council. These members were elected in the spring of 85' after all the students watched videotapes of speeches from the candidates. The officers of the SGA were president Heather West, vice president Allison Hedley, treasurer Trudi Ewing, secretary Ann Clare. The SGA organized all of the Homecoming activities. dance, arranged for the parade, and coordinated the half time show. In addition, they sponsered dances after the football games and the February Valentine Dance. The SAC or Student Advisory Council was a county wide board. The students that were elected to the board were Kim Abell, Andy Stross, Kent McLaurin, and Carlton Shutt. David Savage was the county representative for Chantilly High School. The board's main objectives were to research subjects and then report them to the county supervisor at the end of the year. C

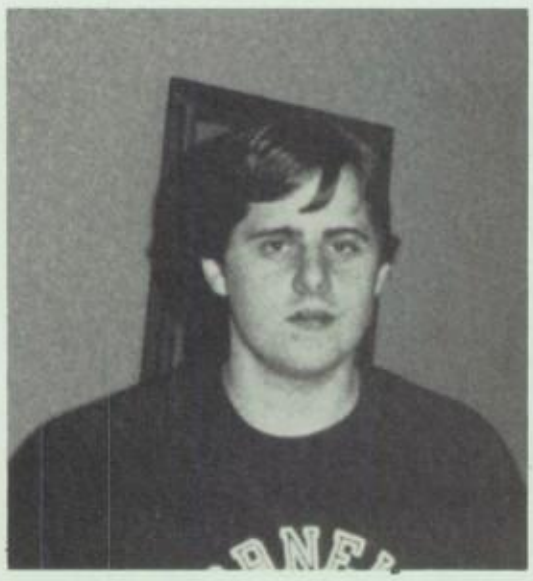
Going to the Head of the Class

Verbal jousting and the ability to persuade and convince was what the Debate Team was all about. Mr. Bratt, the coach, observed that the debating students developed a sense of self-confidence and an interest in public speaking. The team used the Lincoln Douglas format in which one debator was matched against another single debator from the opposing team. Surprisingly, the team put in many hours of hard work and preparation. All the effort has made the debators a strong and competitive team.



"Once the game got started, you forgot you were on television," quoted Richard Bernard

It was tough for the members of the Forensic Team to learn everything about prose and poetry, impromptu reading, original works, and dramatic interpretation. The thriving team led by Mr. Drayer put in hours of practice to prepare themselves for the meets. However, this did not deter the novices because they were determined to win every meet.

It was a race against the clock to see which team could correctly answer the question. It's Academic had a new and successful year. This was the first time it was a club and a team. Coached by Ms. Dowdy, the team contended against other schools and among themselves. She posed questions that varied from geography and literature. C

Making the Grade

In recognizing academic achievement students were named to various honor societies. One such society is the National Honor Society. The Scholastic criteria was a 3.5 accumulative grade point average. Each prospective member was also required to write an essay citing specific examples of their qualifications in the areas of leadership, scholarship, citizenship, service, and character. All of the members were then invited to an inductee ceremony. Ann Clare, David Savage, Heather West, Trudi Ewing, Terri Hickman gave speeches on the qualities that were written about in each members essay.

The French Honor Society Officers: David Savage, Kim Abell, Debbie Little, Allison Hedley

Following the speeches each member was called up separately and received their pin and membership card. All of the members are required to maintain a 3.5 for the remainder of their high school career. When a student masters a language they can become a member of the French Honor society. In addition to having a good grasp of the language, they also have to maintain an A average. In becoming a member there was also a special ceremony. When taking the oath for membership each person repeated the oath in French. At the conclusion of the ceremony candles were lighted and certificates were handed out to each member. C

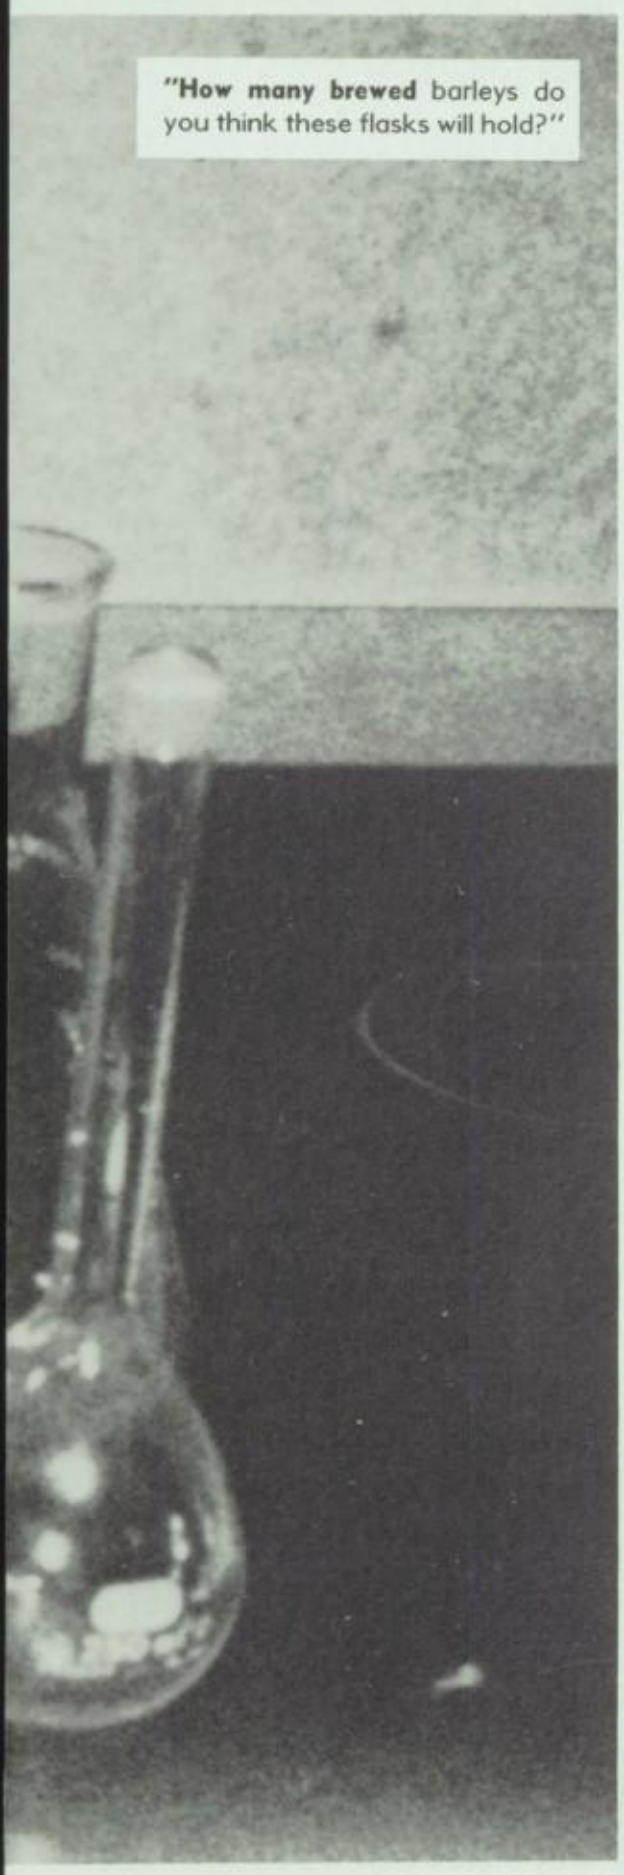
EXPERIMENTING WITH NEW IDEAS

The study of living matters did not end at the bell for the members of the Biology Club. They carried their interest with them to their meetings held during class. Heather Hewes, the president, aided Ms. Jones in planning the field trips to Georgetown University Hospital and to the Chesapeake Bay.

There was a certain chemistry among the members of the Chemistry Club. The chemists met in Ms. Byron's room and discussed chemically-related topics. But the action wasn't just in the classroom; they visited the George Mason University library to familiarize themselves with the resources available for research.

"The trip to Georgetown University taught us a lot about scientific research."
— Heather Hewes



"How many brewed barleys do you think these flasks will hold?"

The physics club gave off their own magnetism. The sponsor, Mr. Dewey, helped the students extend their knowledge fo physics by holding discussions related to the laws of physics.

HOSA, Health Occupations Students of America, may not be considered a scientific club, but the members dealt with the anatomy. The students worked to make their community a healthier one by offering their services to health agencies.

Whether they'll be biologists or doctors, these students helped enrich the school. C

The direction of all the Jazzin' shows is done by Mrs. Elaine Wilson. She has always done a wonderful job, and deserves a great deal of credit.

Jazzin' Combo accompanies Jazzin' in all their shows. They are: (L-R): Craig Gordon, Jeremy Dawson, Doug Hugo, Sharon Lindsay and Betsy Snider.

The Road to BROADWAY

This year brings more Seniors — mor exceptional talent and experience — than in the past.

A special, talented group of teenagers existed at Chantilly. Hidden most of the time in the drama department, they emerged to perform unique musical reviews accompanied by a small combo. Jazzin', as they were appropriately known, consisted of 22 students of all grades, and added spice to any occasion. A few weeks before the school year started, the students in Jazzin' received many invitations to perform at schools, hospitals, and military clubs, and before long their entire year's schedule was full. Among other places, Jazzin' has performed at Wolf Trap, the U.S. State Dept., and the Kennedy Center. Jazzin' met during sixth period every day with Mrs. Elaine Wilson, but most of the rehearsing was often done after school, sometimes on the weekends. The rewards were great when the last show of the year was finally over, and the cast headed for the annual cast party. Jazzin' also took a trip in spring to New York. Being "On Broadway" gave the students a better idea of the experience needed if they were serious about entertaining professionally. However, from seeing just one of their "amateur" shows, one would think that there was no comparison — Jazzin' definitely gave Chantilly a taste of New York, New York! C

Raising the Roof

To be a member in a choir was a very hard task. Being able to sing on key was one thing but harmonizing with 10 to 20 people and getting your cues was asking for a lot of hard work. But, the choirs at Chantilly did a very good job. The Madrigals and Mixed Choir exuded their qualities of talent and hard work. Both choirs performed seasonal concerts with a finale at the Kennedy Center. Both groups practiced after school twice a week, although participating students were given credit as these groups were classes.

Keith Havenstein — "Being part of a choir gets you into a school activity."

An added honor to the groups was having selected members named to the District 12 Regional Choir. The audition was held at Yorktown High School. Each singer was graded on a point system. Out of a total of 200 members, each singer tried to attain as many points as possible in different categories. There was a total of 20 members selected at the competition from this school district. This group met on February 22 to rehearse and polish up. The preceding Saturday the group gave a big concert. Tom Heffernan placed third over all and Patrick Nisco placed fourth. C

Getting the Facts

Being creative is a hard job but for those on the yearbook, newspaper, and art and literary magazine staff, it is a labor of love. These publications were sold in a block. The total cost was 25 dollars with two extra for name engraving. The yearbook and newspaper staff are taken as credited courses while the art and literary magazine staff met after school. The Yearbook was put out at the end of the year, and the staff worked hard all year to put out a book that chronicaled all aspects of school life throughout the year. Katie Burton and Stephanie Horn were the editors who put in many extra hours of long work.

Brainstorming, is the hardest part for putting together a unique newspaper.

The newspaper staff put out the school newspaper, the Purple Tide, six times during the year. The student reporters covered everything a daily newspaper does. The articles ranged from sports to editorials, to senior spotlights. "Our staff tried to put together an informative and entertaining publication," said staff member Tara Hess. The Art and literary magazine came out once a year and was composed of poems, and short stories. These writings were sent to the staff by students. The objective of the magazine was to give students a chance to have their work published and for students to be exposed to different forms of literature. C

Getting into the Act

When you think of drama productions, you think of only that which is visible to you on the stage show, a lot of the work has gone on behind the scenes. The stage crews did a great deal to enhance each production. The technical crew controlled the lighting, spotlighting, and sound from the back of the theater. While the stage crew worked mainly with the scenery and was back stage during productions. Both of these groups make productions at Chantilly first class.

Leaving a mess, behind them the stage crew discards unused props.

Chrissy Storer — "I do it for the kids, especially the little kids who really get something out of it."

The Thespians were a group of students who were very interested in theater. They became members by acquiring 20 points. These points were earned by participating in plays and helping behind the scenes. The story book theater sponsered by Mrs. Rendine practiced after school and preformed once a month for children at elementary and secondary schools and also at hospitals. The group performed nursery rhymes and favorite children stories. They perfected their stories by holding rehearsals every week after school. C

The FHA, Future Homemakers of America had cookbook sales, holiday parties, and other activities to promote an interest in all areas of Home Economics. The driving force of the club was president — Valerie Kautter, and sponsors; Ms. Mosher, Ms. Young, and Ms. VanOgtrop. They met once a month to organize their activities. The athletic trainers club's main goal was to promote safety in sports and learn how to treat injuries and help people prevent possible injuries. They attended some games with the help of Mr. Dement, the school's trainer. They were also available after school.

Janine Lane, secretary of the Keyettes, "The Keyettes is mostly a service club whose aim is to help the community."

HERO, Home Economics Related Occupations, sponsored many cooking activities and projects to further educate people in economic techniques. The Keyettes this year sponsored by Ms. Christianson, and Ms. Clarke, sponsored many service projects. They were led by Lisa Reid, Janine Lane, Mary Walsh, and Michelle Walmsey. The activities included the Head start program, a blood drive, food to the poor and various donations to organizations. People interested in joining the club were interviewed in front of a panel of Keyettes plus they had to endure the rites of initiation. C

Playing up and above the call of duty

The concert Band is a band composed mainly of underclassmen. They practiced one period a day under the direction of Mr. Thorp. They performed seasonal concerts and attended band festivals and competitions. They worked hard in hopes of moving up to the advanced band, the Wind Ensemble. The Wind Ensemble practiced during a class period and every Wednesday after school. They were led by Mr. Aversano and performed in concerts, with the highlight of their season being the annual Christmas concert. They attended many festivals where they competed against other schools. Both bands also participated in a variety of fund raisers such as selling candy, pizza, and fruit. Most of the money went towards their big trip at the end of the year. Both bands also were required to be in the marching band which performed at half time in home football games. The Marching Chargers practiced very hard over the summer with long hours of practice. Practice did not let up when school started, as they practiced twice weekly. Another musical group was the String Orchestra under the direction of Mr. Thornton. The group performed seasonal concerts and competed in string festivals. C

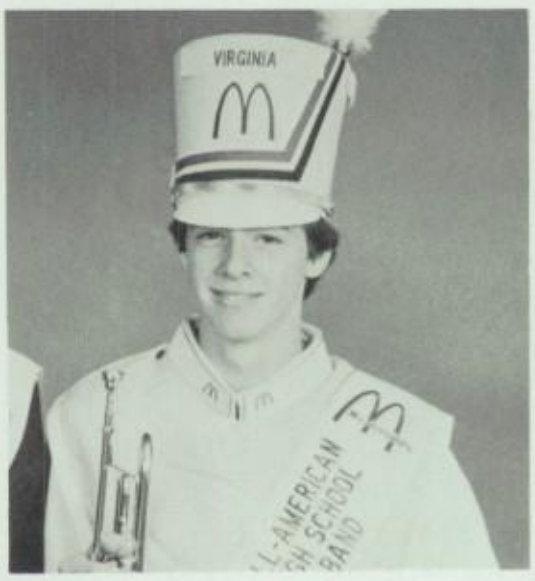
JAZZIN' IT UP

One word to describe Chantilly's jazz band was busy. It participated in many concerts and festivals. The Berklee, James Madison, and Anne Arundel festivals were some of the highlights. Most of the festivals are scored by an accumulation of points. Chantilly had it's own festival which they held in the winter. The group also gave Seasonal concerts. The band grouped with other prominent bands such as the Air Force, Army Blues, and Navy Commodores to put on very entertaining shows. It culminated it's concert season by playing with Jazzin.



Ken McGee was named as one of the members of the All-American High School Band.

The show was a four day show. It climaxed the band's season. The band got great results by practicing for one practice day during the school day and one practice a week after school. The band also sent in a tape to the Downbeat magazine to be graded with others across the country. Individual results also followed the band, with Ken McGee's being selected to the McDonald Band and Ken McGee, Joel Comer, and West Bloom being selected to the Northern Virginia High School Band. The Workshop Jazz band served as a practice and stepping stone for future jazz band members. C

Putting your best foot forward

Oh how I hate to get up in the morning. God, where are my pom pons? Pep rally Where? When? Who us?!?! No, not again this morning! 9:00 is early enough but 8:00 for Pep rally practice???? Is it going to be hot out or What? My hair's going to go flat and I want to go out with Bill after practice. Poor Bill — he's already out there marching with band, drumming his heart out. Marching Band practice is a lot harder than what I thought it would be!! When is our next break?? . . . This was the usual conversation of any show corps member at the beginning of the season.

"Band is a lot of hard work but it pays off to have a good performance." — Diana Matthias

The CHS Show Corps directed by Michael Thorp and clinicians Menzie Pittman and Tammy Vaughn had a very successful season this year — all the practicing paid off. The show Corps started back in August, learning dance and flag routines, field positions, drill commands, marching placement and musical scores. By the first game, the Show Corps had been practicing for over 70 hours!!! Besides practicing, some members had even more work to do! These people were the leaders of the pack — Drum Majors: Andy Stross, Julie Terrell, Diana Matthias; Captain of the Drill Team, Christi Nestor, and co-captains, Terri Hickman, and Debbie Little. C

The follow through is one of the most important parts of the game.

Getting into Good Form

Every second and fourth Wednesday of every month, the Humanities Club met under the direction of Anne Bednarz. A newly established club, it brought the study of Humanities into extracurricular form. The club took trips to cultural centers in Washington and New York. It also took part in many charitable activities. The group had a list of officers who were elected to administer committees in charge of the arts, dance, music, and drama. The officers made up schedules for present and future meeting to keep the club organized. The membership was open to any student who had an interest in Humanities.

"The Humanities Club is a club to learn about arts." — Jean Steadman

The Bowling club was also a newly formed club. It was established to give students a chance to bowl in a real bowling alley. The club met on various days of the week after school and took the bus to the bowling alley. The club was sponsored by Mr. Roberson. The club usually went to the Bowling alley and took turns in keeping score while the other students bowled. The team organized after an interest was sparked by playing in gym. Students learned to keep score and learned the techniques of good bowling.

Jam Packed in Academics

If a stranger were to walk into school during the day, he would probably have seen a quiet, empty commons. Upstairs, however, would have been a completely different scene. Rooms were packed with students doing any number of different things. Red largely housed Freshman English and Social Studies. Generally, Sophomore English, Journalism and Foreign Language were taught in Blue. Past the Reading Lab (surrounded by LD, math, and computer classrooms), the next sight was Orange, which consisted mainly of Junior and Senior English, History and Government. Next, if one visited Yellow, he saw the home of all math classes. Scattered among the lecture halls were various subject area classrooms. Downstairs from Yellow was the gym. Past the main office were the drama and music departments. Near the Red commons were classrooms for Cosmetology, Home Economics, and Real Estate. In the back of the school was a new variety of classes — from Biology and Business to vocational trades of all kinds. In between each department was a variety of electives such as Science and Gourmet Foods. No matter what time of day it was, dedicated students packed classrooms around the school. Academics was a large part of student life at Chantilly. C

Getting Technical

Jamming mathematical and scientific information into the brain may not be every students idea of a good time, but most students at Chantilly realize that technology is the key to the future.

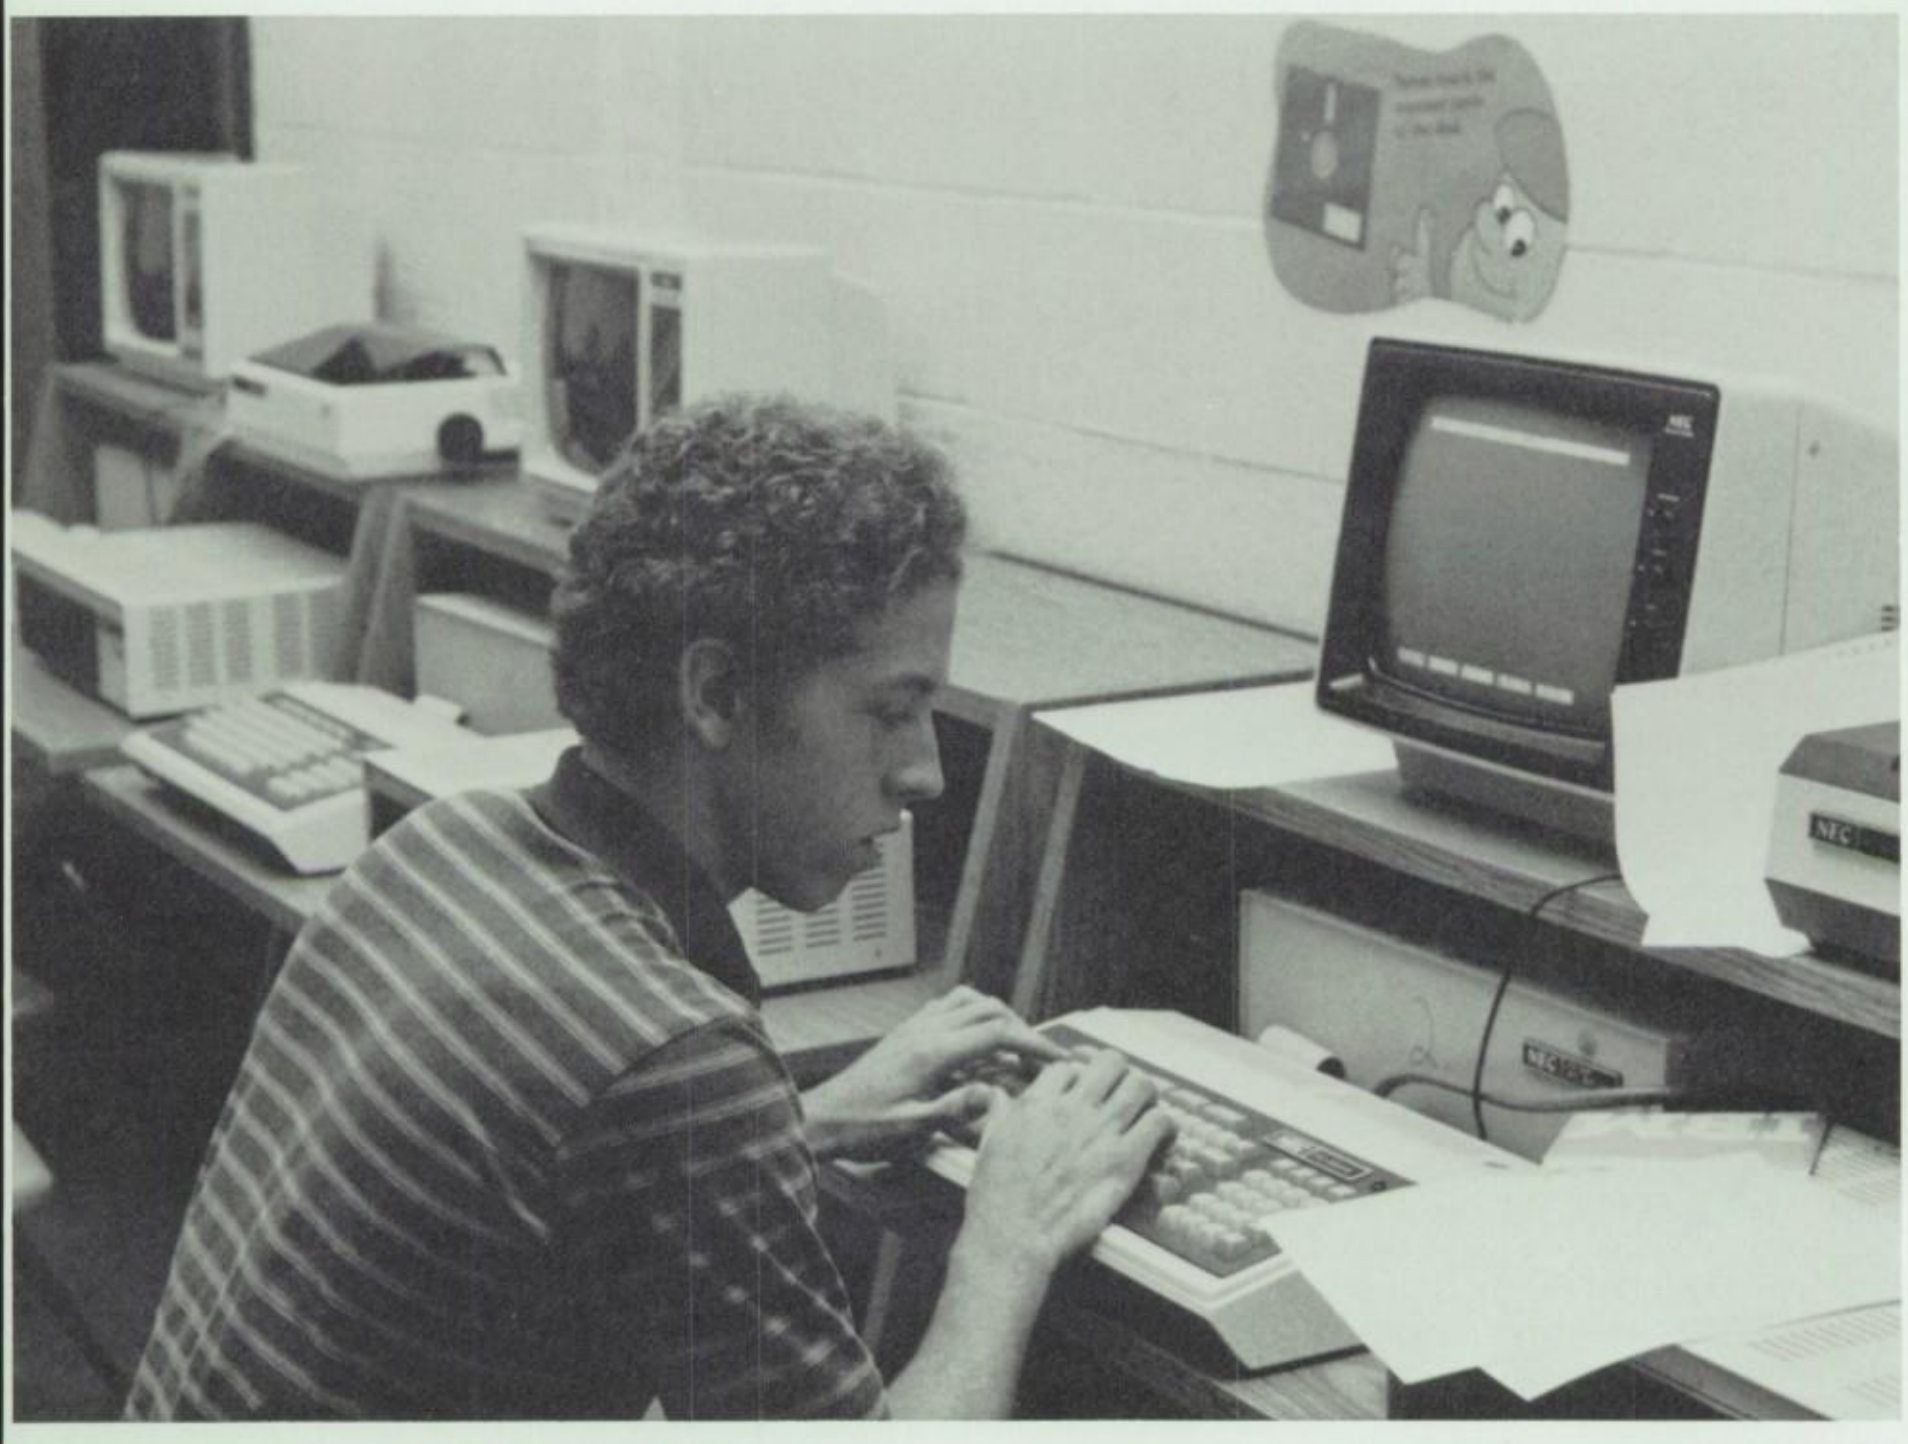
Math is a course every student is required to take for two years. This usually means that after Geometry a student's mathematical obligations are fulfilled, but most students feel like junior Debbie Levine who said, "I wanted to continue to take math for all four years because it is a very important subject, especially for college. "The general chronological order for math classes is Algebra, Geometry, Algebra II, Trigonometry, Analytical Geometry, and then for those highly motivated students, Functions & Calculus. There are variations to the set pattern such as taking Algebra I in two year parts or taking optional classes such as Mathematical Analysis and Consumer Mathematics. Even though it is important, most students think of it as a necessary evil. Said David Patterson, "Math isn't my favorite class, but I know it will help me eventually."

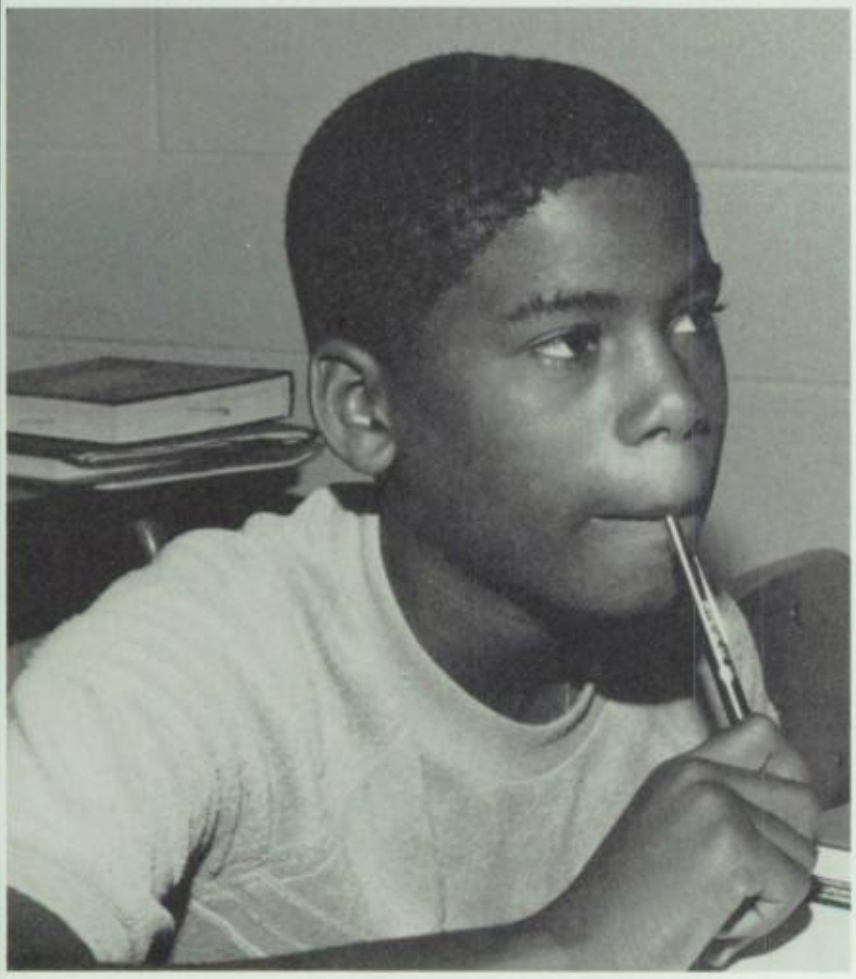
"I wanted to continue to take math for all four years because it is a very important subject, especially for college," — Debbie Levine

Science and computer courses are also stressed at Chantilly. The courses offered are Earth Science, Biology, Chemistry, Physics, and AP Biology and AP Chemistry. Requirements for graduation in science dictate that two laboratory sciences must be taken, but for the advanced degree diploma three science classes must be taken. Biology, the study of living things, is probably the favorite science class of most students. Said sophomore Indra Kancitis, "I like Biology because you're studying nature, and things familiar to you which makes it interesting." Computer courses are classes designed to develop the student's knowledge of the fundamental structure of problem solving, and programming. Most students feel that computers are keys to the future and they work hard to be a part of it. C

Computers are very important in today's business world. Students get a jump on learning about them through Computer Science and Advanced Placement Computer Science.

Nikki Johnson, a freshman, fills on of the requirements of the Hig School diploma. Most freshma take Algebra I which is one credit.

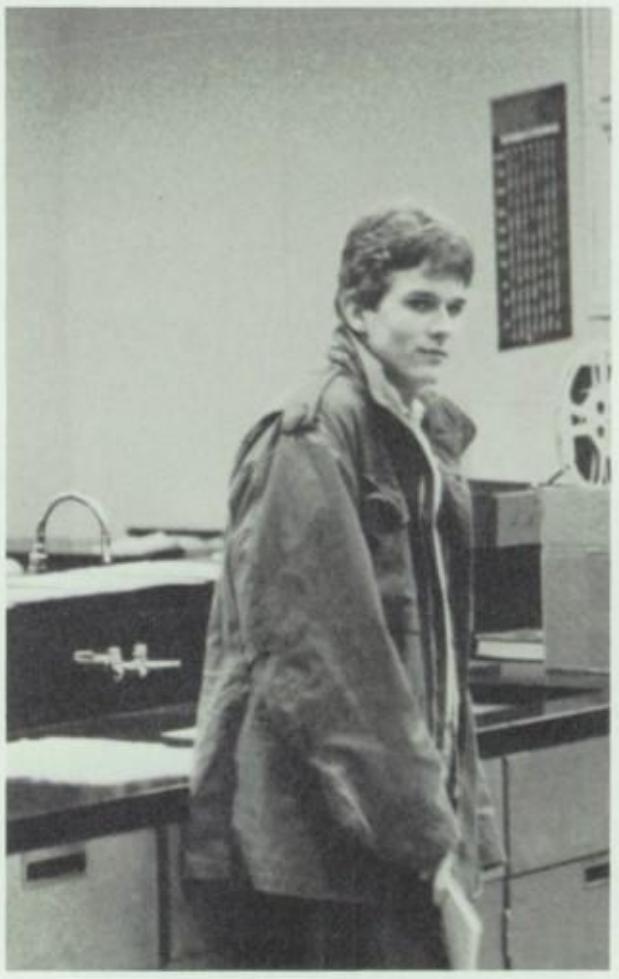




Rick Degen, works on a program necessary for his computer science class. The prerequisite for the class is Albegra II or Trigonometry.

Richard Hamilton focuses contently on the spoken words of his teacher. Freshman students interested in science usually take Earth Science.

Mrs. Byron is one of the teachers who teaches grades 11-12 in chemistry. Students learn about composition of properties and reactions of matter.



All around the world

The foreign language and social studies departments were an important learning part of the academic school year. The foreign languages, including French, Spanish, German, Latin and Russian, provided a chance for students to learn about and speak a different language. In classes, the language itself was taught with some of the advanced classes participating in field trips.

"Each time a man stands up for an ideal, he sends forth a tiny ripple of hope." Mr. Pechin

On these field trips, students learned more about the culture of their language by seeing how it is set up and how the people there are affected by it. Social Studies classes provided a chance for students to learn about their world, nation, and government. The various classes specalized in a certain area or section of history and government which gave students a better understanding of the world they live in now and the world as it was long ago. The foreign language and social studies departments offered students the opportunity to explore all around the world. C

Poetry in Motion

Research papers, literature, and grammar all remind us of the same thing, English. To graduate from Chantilly High School, each student had to take four years of English. It all started in ninth grade, with the grammar lessons, poetry, vocabulary, and other literature. In tenth grade the vocabulary intensified, the literature became more difficult and longer.

"English is only sometimes a foreign language."
— Mr. Kryston

In eleventh grade the students read more books and analyzed them. They also had many writing assignments. In twelfth grade the students read even more books than before; they wrote essays, and term papers. Journalism was considered an optional English course. The students learned about journalism, writing different types of articles, and analyzing them. Another optional course was Theatre Arts 1. The students explored the different components of theatre. The English courses offered at Chantilly really helped to prepare the students for college.

The Drama department offered many courses. One very special course was Jazzin. Jazzin was a musical and theatrical group. Another course was Theatre Arts 3 and 4. In this class the students worked on their performance skills. Technical Theatre was a class for students who wanted to work behind the scenes of theatre. The Drama department at Chantilly offered students many different forms of expressing themselves. C

Practice makes perfect is the motto of this group of drama students, found practicing one of the many skits they perform.

Creative Gears Clicking

For the creative student, Chantilly offered many courses. Juniors and seniors could take Junior-Senior Art. This was a "studio" approach for people who wanted to prepare for requirements in college in the Fine Arts. The class went into drawings, paintings, air brush, pottery, calligraphy, and crafts. Designing cartoon characters, and studying those of other cartoonists was a major part of the curriculum in

"Art is fun and relaxing and a break from academics," — Tracy Kaeppel

Cartooning and Commercial Design I. They also looked at poster, logos, and other designs. Working with your hands was part of Crafts 1, 2, and 3 where students worked with mosaics, ceramics, weaving enameling, and they worked on their own individual projects. Pottery 1 and 2 entailed different techniques of pottery design.

Chantilly also had many music classes which needed a prerequisite. The Concert Band and Wind Ensemble classes worked on developing musical skills. The workshop band covered big band jazz-rock music while the Chantilly Jazz Band performed more advanced jazz-rock music. They travelled to various sites to compete in many competitions, all of which they fared well in. The Concert Orchestra performed advanced orchestral productions and worked on technique and position. The vocal department contained many different classes. Among them were Treble Choir and Madrigal Singers, which both required an audition. Treble Choir put emphasis on current popular music, while the Madrigal Singers stressed literature and interpretation of music. The Chantilly singers, a small group, had many performances in and outside of the school with the Chantilliers. The Chantilliers, a more advanced group, performed a wide variety of musical styles from classical to modern pop to musical comedy. C

Kim Rann, a member of Concert Band practices deligently for the many concerts and festivals they participate in.

Ken McGee, a soloist performer for the Marching Band has also been names a standout in many other musical areas.

Cinny VanSleet takes special care to mold her clay into the precise shape she wants. Students get hands on experience in Pottery I and II.

John Jaksch waits for his cue in the music scores for Jazz Band. Patience is a virtue when working in various music fields.

Dana Oliva and Amy Mumma have fun even though working with your hands can be tiring.

Cooking & Calisthenics

"Cooking and calisthenics" . . . a catchy little title for two catchy subjects — Home Economics and Physical Education. But you may ask, what do Home Ec. and P.E. have in common??? These were both classes in which you learn practical lifetime skills. Home Ec. and P.E. go hand in hand with everyday life and in keeping health and fit. Here at Chantilly, there was a broad range of

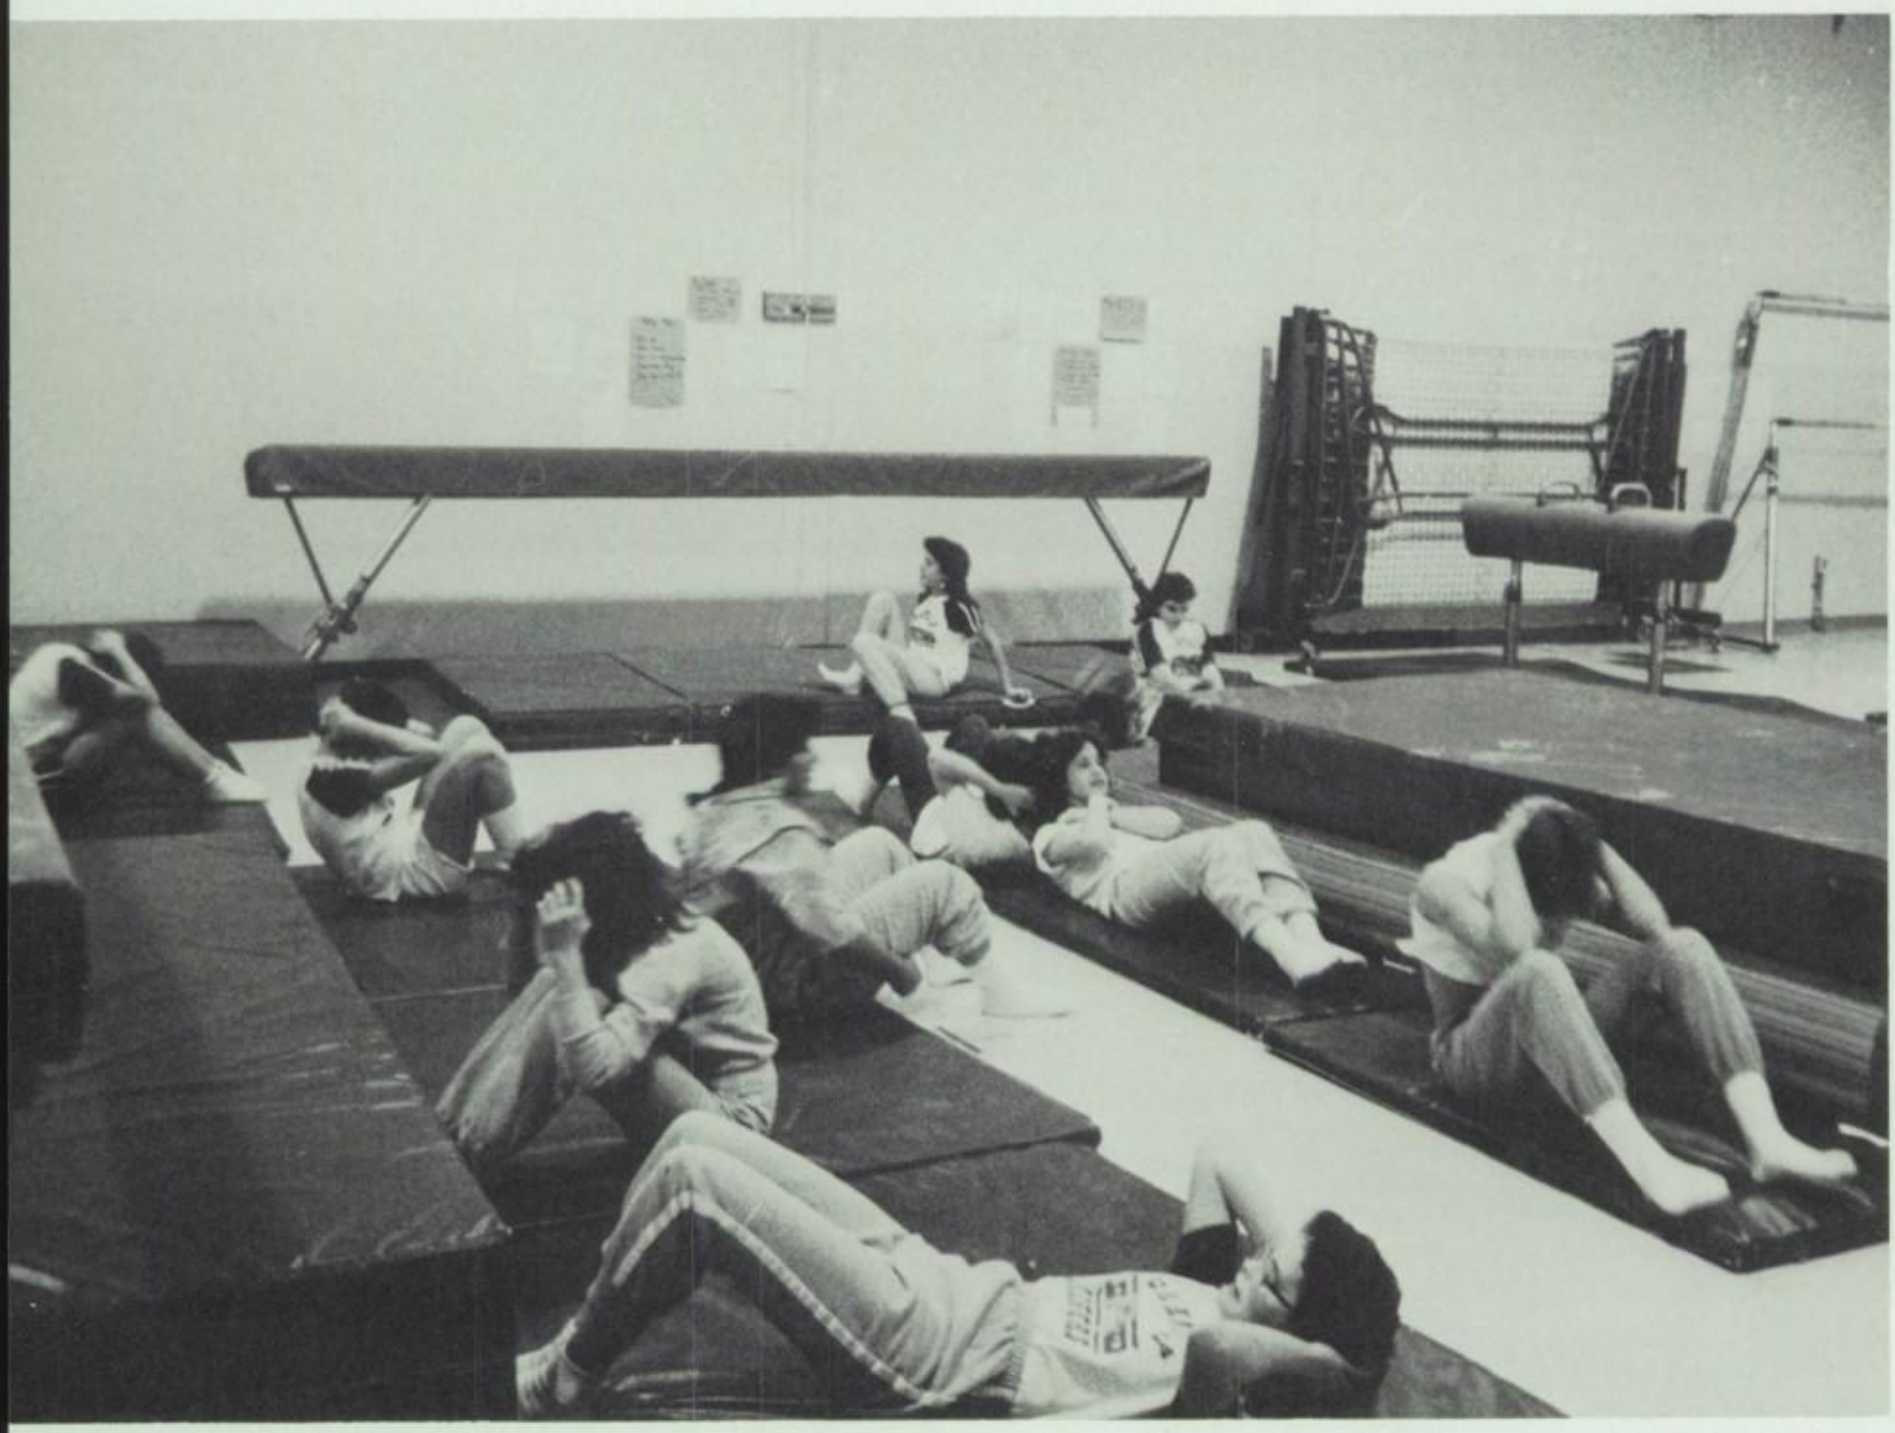
"I'm glad bowling was introduced this year because it makes gym a little more exciting."
— Ken Boyle

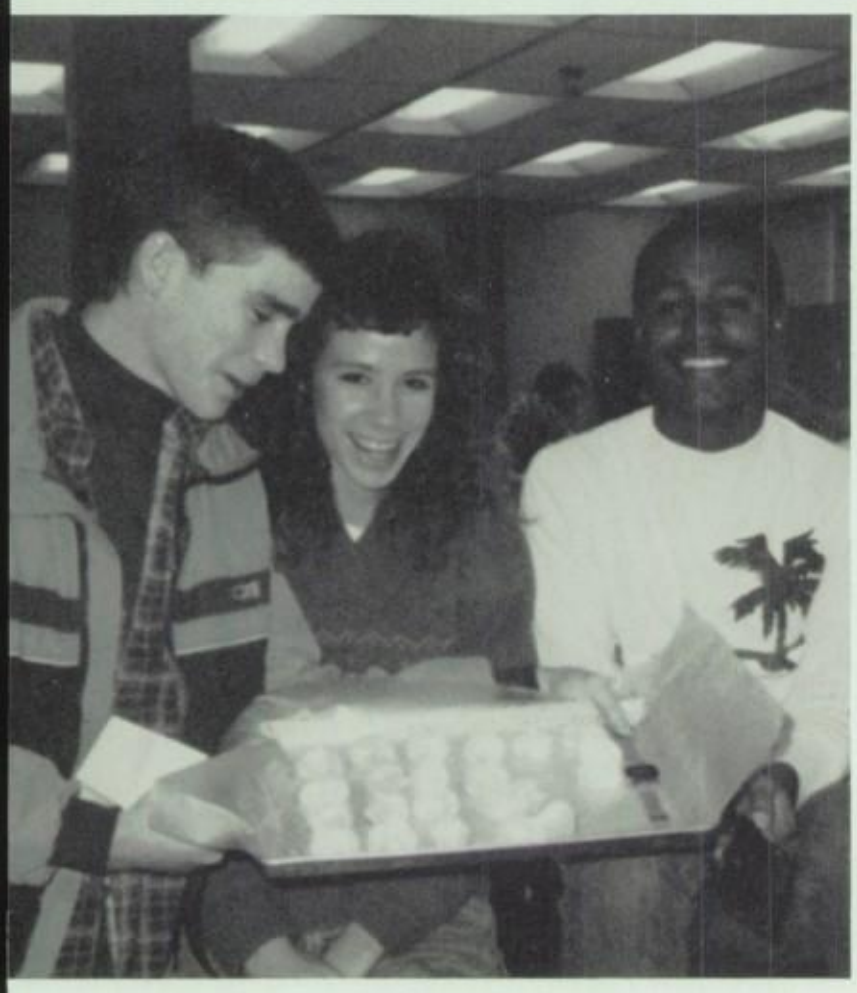
classes in each of these subjects. Some of the courses offered in the subject of Home Ec. were Contemporary Living, Advanced Foods, Sewing, Relationships, Child Development, and Child Care Nursery Lab.

Contemporary Living was a class for freshmen and sophomores which specialized in interior design, cooking, sewing, crafts, and child care. Gourmet Foods was a class where students learned to prepare typical American meals. Advanced Foods was an accelerated course in preparing international foods. Relationships was a class where students explored relationships with their friends, families, and future partners, while becomeing better acquainted with themselves. Child Development and Child Care were courses where students were trained for child-related occupations and parenting situations. (Basically in these classes, student teachers ran a preschool for children.) And then there's P.E . . . "What are we doing today?" There's so much we can do . . . football, volleyball, tennis, soccer, golf, gymnastics, archery, softball, handball, fencing, self defense, badminton, and of course, if it's Wednesday it's fitness day! This year, a new sport was added to this list — bowling! Every other week on Tuesday the gym classes in 9th and 10th grade went bowling at Fair Lanes in Centreville. In this aspect, Chantilly truly knows the meaning of "fun fitness." C

Preschoolers enjoy dressing up for Halloween with Lisa Grieve, Debbie Crissman, Kelly Moody, Tracy Colmes, Jennifer Boyton, and Tina Fagiani.

Home Economics allows students to be creative with food, as this candy house is an example of.





Warming up before their strenuous work-out of the day, these students are tested on their ability to do as many sit-ups as they can in one minute.

A variety of recipies become experiments for the students in Home Ec. Proud of their accomplishment for the day are Tim Laughlin, Kathy Ferguson, and Bryant Hatcher.

Sometimes the preschoolers are allowed to help out the big kids with the cooking. Here, Jessica Betteker displays her gourmet talent as she concentrates intensely on "just a sample" from the menu.

TOMORROW A CAREER

Business Classes this year included typing, Business Data Processing, Office Tech, Information Processing, and the newest class at Chantilly . . . Business Law. In Business Law you learned about criminal law, business contracts, and mock trials were also performed.
There were thirty three business classes, consisting of approximately 900 students. The FBLA club was made up of students who were interested in the club. There were over 275 members this year.
The FBLA club participated in many activities in the community as well as in the school. These activities consisted of a food drive at Thanksviging time, the vocational fair, the competitive Business contest open to all business students, the ice cream social, and breakfast with Santa. The FBLA and business classes also had guest speakers who talked about the different aspects of the business field. C

Does Kara Craddock really pay attention to the lectures in Business Law?

Building Tomorrow

Perming, tuning, nailing, and working gave students an extra edge and experience in a possible career. This knowledge helped to build a vocational arts worker who was capable of putting his skills to work in the future. Cutting, perming, and manicuring were the skills taught in Cosmetology. The students worked on other students' hair and they also extended their services to the public. They made some extra money while earning their Va. State Board of Registered Hairdresser license.

Knowledge of the function and parts of an automobile for those who drive now; and for those who build their career around it. Auto mechanics and auto body trained students did everything from changing tires to tuning cars. Besides working on the cars provided, they fixed cars brought in by customers who were confident they would do a good job.

Got a refrigerator, air conditioner, or electrical outlet that needed fixing? The students who enrolled in Refrigeration, Air Conditioning, and Electricity got a head start in their career. With the acquisition of knowledge they attained in class, they went to work. They procured jobs working for companies that repaired appliances or installed wiring.

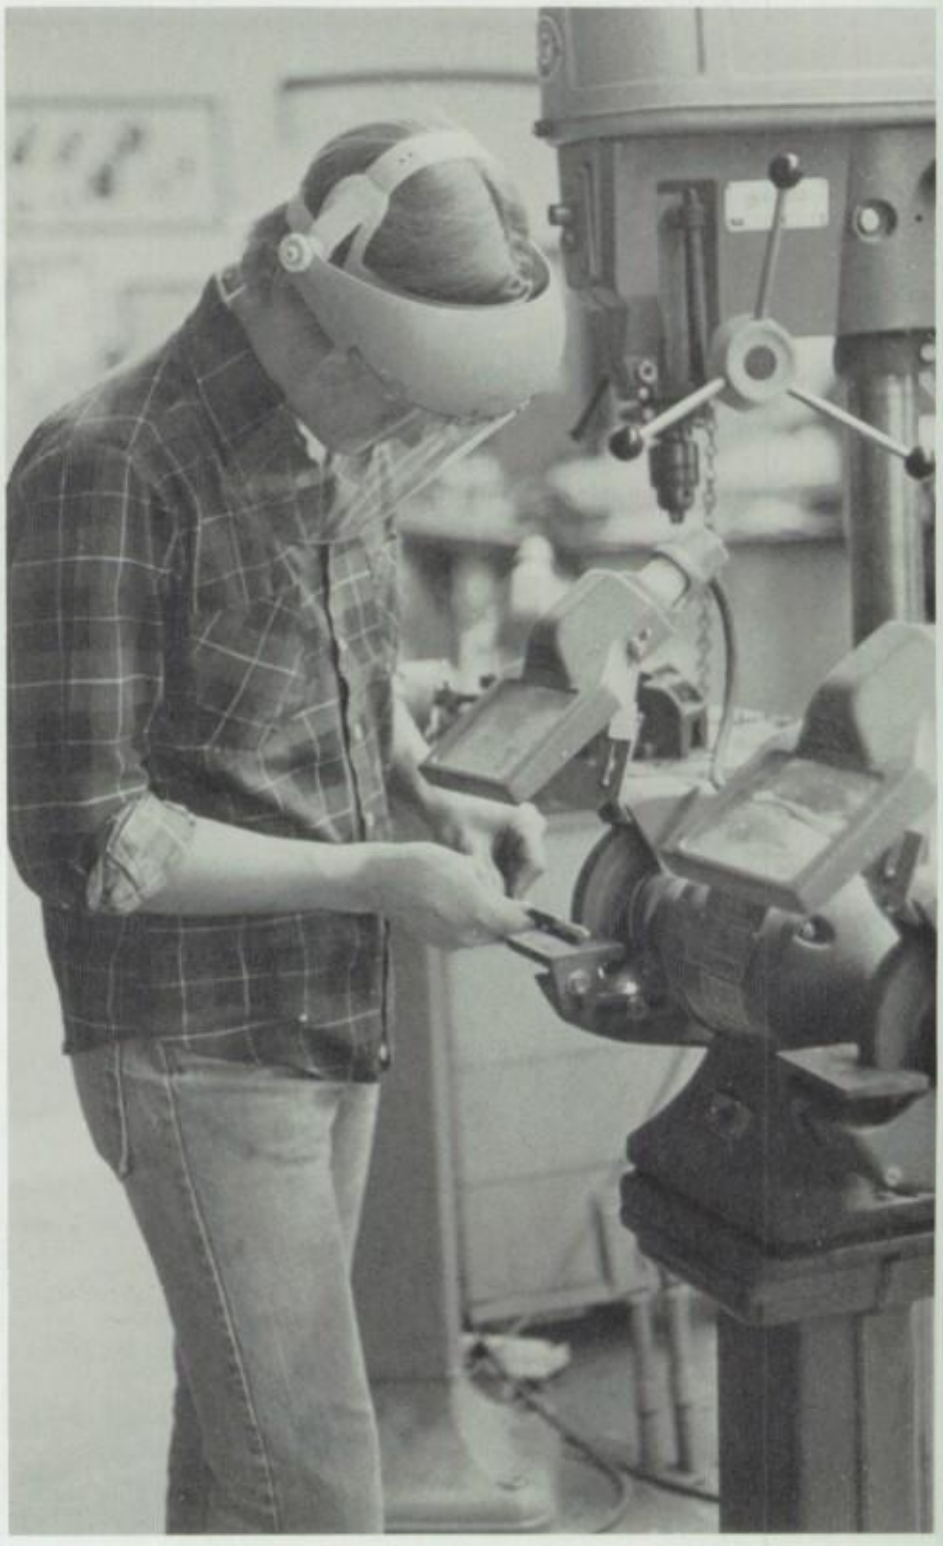
Whether designing a house or city, it was fun in Technical Drawing. Architecture, Engineering, and Carpentry. Students developed basic skills in drawing, and drafting skills in Technical Drawing. After taking those classes, students could develop their skills further by taking Architecture and Engineering. When someone designed buildings, they also need someone to construct them. This was what the students in Carpentry learned to do. They were trained to read blueprints and construct floor plans and even build the framework for a real house.

Them there were those who were confused as to what course to take but they were certain they wanted to build their future around a vocational occupation; Industrial Arts introduced a little of everything for these students, such as practical mechanics, electricity and photography.

Therefore, the vocational arts courses had a lot to offer students whether it was Plumbing or Commercial Photography. But whatever it was, the students built their career for tomorrow here at Chantilly. What a foundation! C

Concentration is a necessity for people who are intent on becoming technicians of all kinds, as this student shows here.

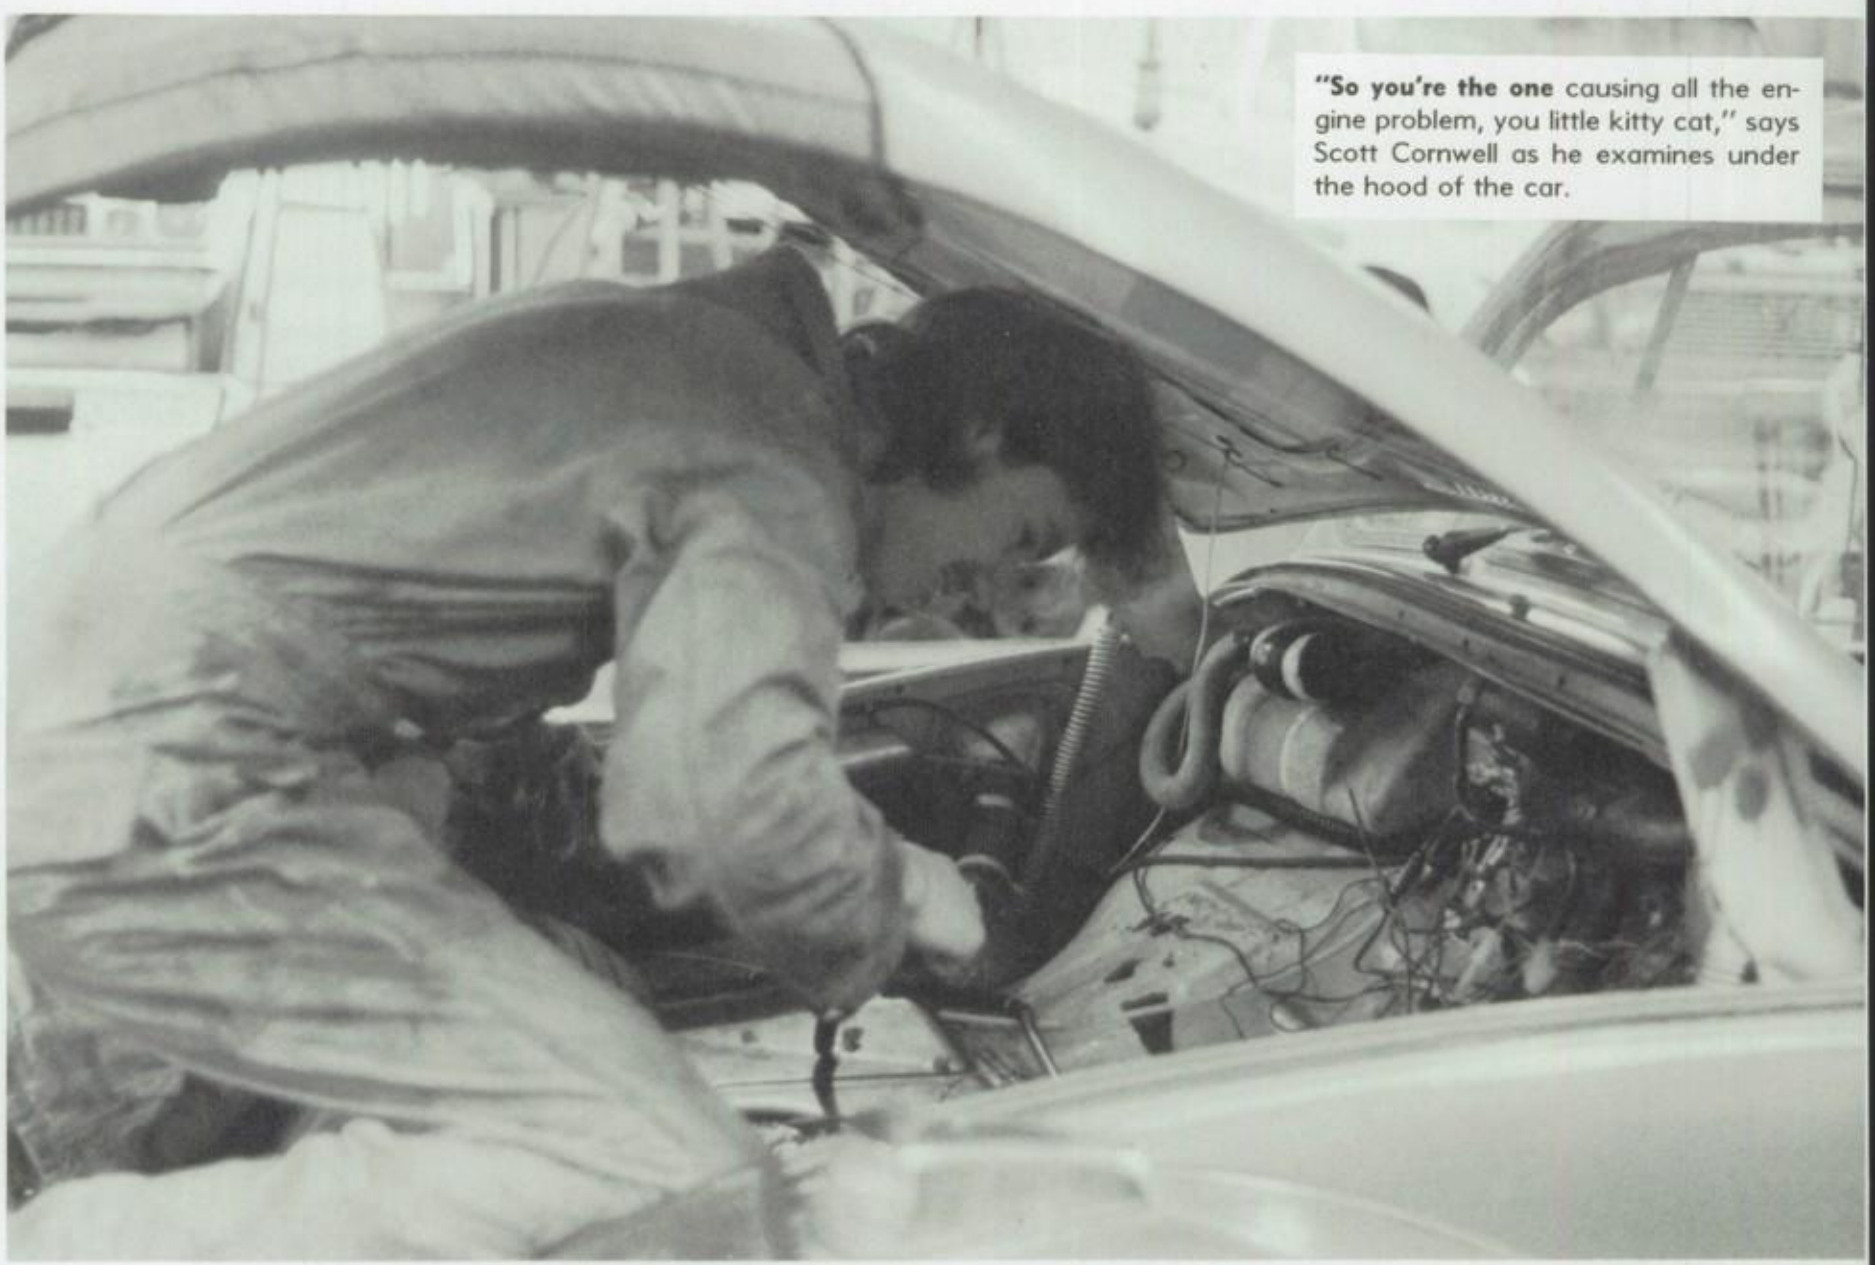
Shop is a popular course to take for people who are creative. Here a student welds part of a project, soon to be one he will be proud of.



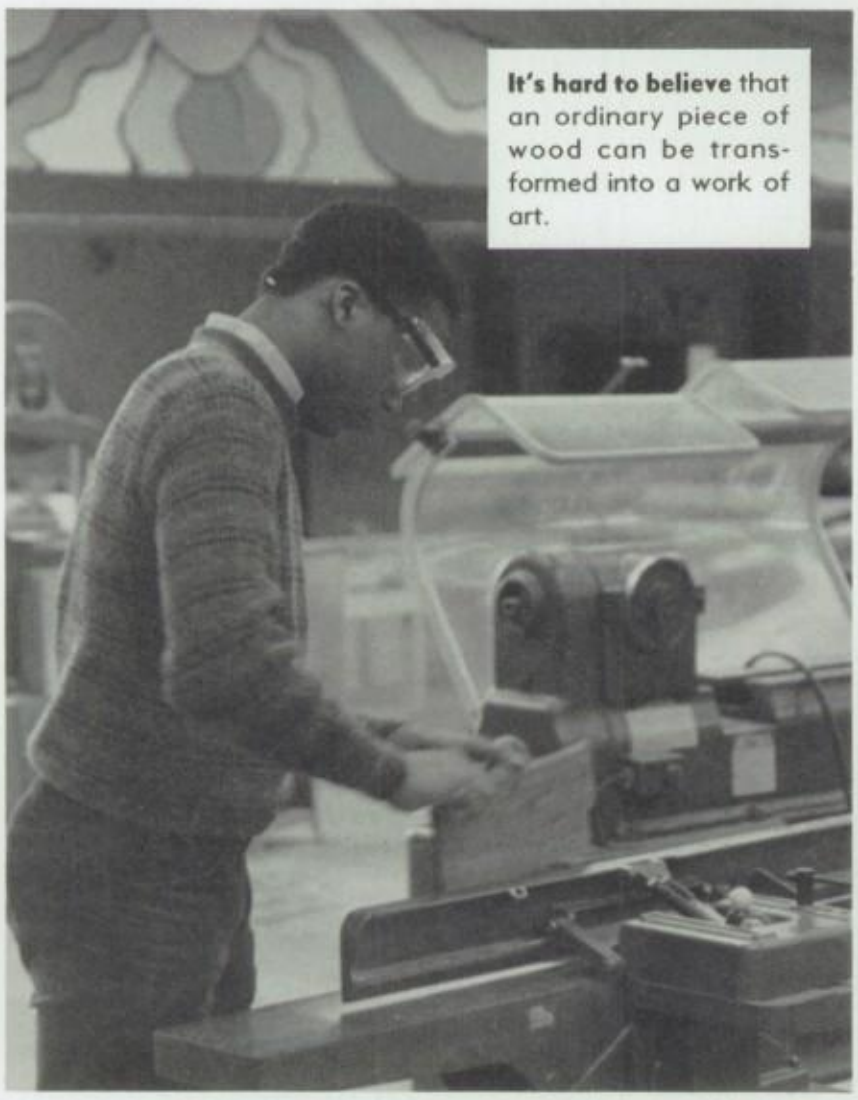
Two future carpenters work together to create a masterpeice. Many different skills are acquired in any of the vocational classes, such as working on cars, putting houses together, or taking professional pictures; each of these is a special talent.

Shelby Rainey, Bill Whittaker, and Richard Lindsey carefully distribute the chemicals necessary to develop pictures. Commercial Photography is another class offered in the vocational wing at Chantilly.

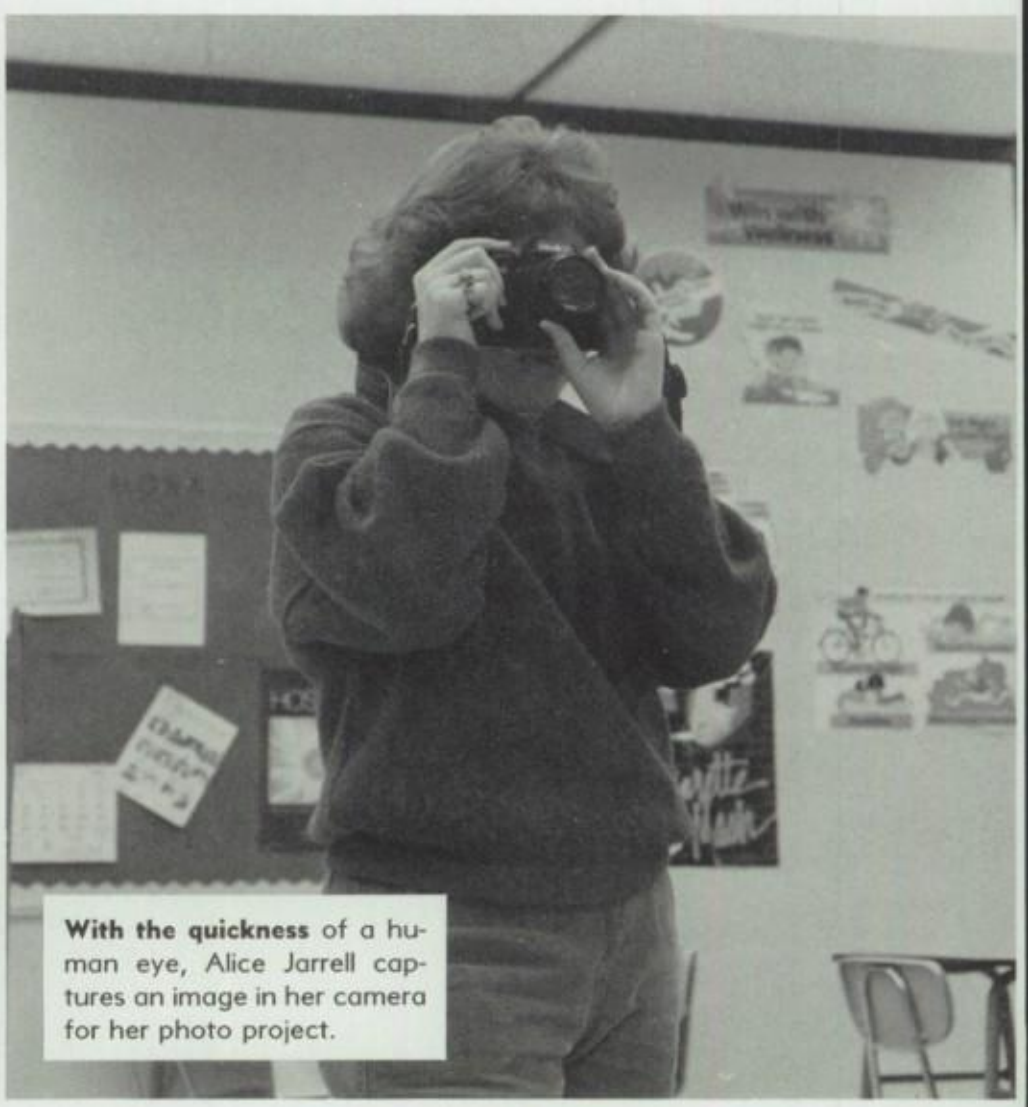
The next time your car needs a tune-up, consider going to the Auto Body Department at Chantilly. The students in this class learn how to care for cars of all kinds, and have done numerous repairs for the community.



"So you're the one causing all the engine problem, you little kitty cat," says Scott Cornwell as he examines under the hood of the car.



It's hard to believe that an ordinary piece of wood can be transformed into a work of art.



With the quickness of a human eye, Alice Jarrell captures an image in her camera for her photo project.

Well, it's not as hard as it looks. The blue wire is connected to the red wire which joins the green wire . . .

"Tara Hess, the only way you're going to learn to load a camera is if you look this way!" insist Mr. Kelleher.

"Live, from Chantilly — It's Monday Night Live!" The amateur cameramen bring the halls of CHS home to you from the vocational department.

GT/LD/MMR

Working to the Top

The Gifted and Talented program was offered at Chantilly to provide challenging educational opportunities for students. Once students were eligible for GT, many courses were opened to them. In ninth grade, English and World Civilization were taught as a block. The students analyzed various literary forms such as personal writing and essays, and examined political situations.

"Humanities gives you a chance to express your individuality; you always feel really relaxed because everyone gets along with everyone else."
Julie Smith and Katie Burton

English 10 was the continuation of reading literature by many influential writers. Vocabulary skills were also emphasized in preparation for SAT's. English 11 dealt with the in-depth study of American literature and language skills. The last English class offered was Humanities, which focused on an approach to classic literature. GT Math and Science had a lot to offer the students. The classes, from Geometry to AP Calculus, were more accelerated, which provided a challenge. The science courses went into more depth to explain concepts of earth science, biology, chemistry, and physics. GT History analyzed significant events and trends in American history and examined the cultural growth of the U.S. The next step was to extend their knowledge by taking Government. Students studied the structure and functions of American government at federal and local levels. In addition, the American political and economic systems were compared with systems in other societies. Whatever courses the students took, the Gifted and Talented programs helped expand their minds.

The Learning Disabilities program at Chantilly consisted of a number of classes set up especially to help those students who had some sort of disability in the learning process. After taking a few qualification tests, the students fit into their schedules one period of an LD class. This helped the students overcome their weaknesses and find alternative methods to learning. The success from this program has been overwhelming, as the students learned to achieve more in their other classes as well. Programs at Chantilly have helped students with special qualities, and have created new challenges for them to overcome in the learning processes. C

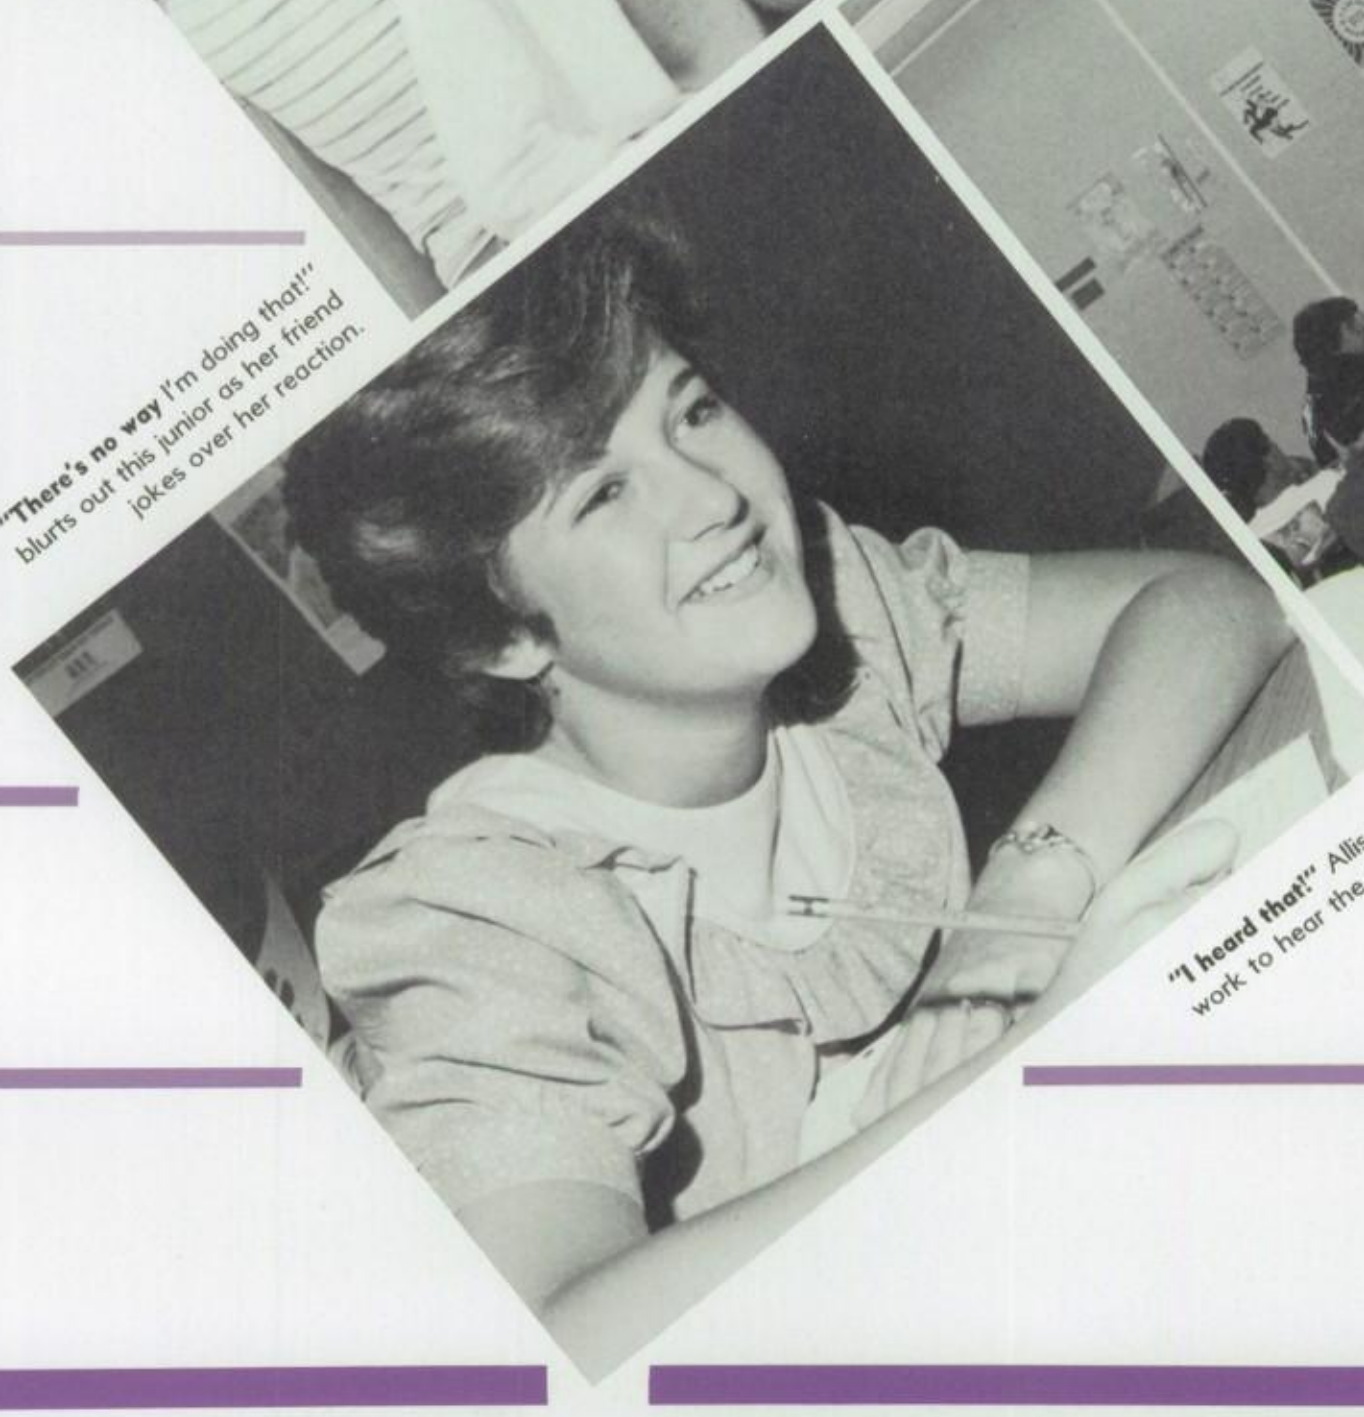
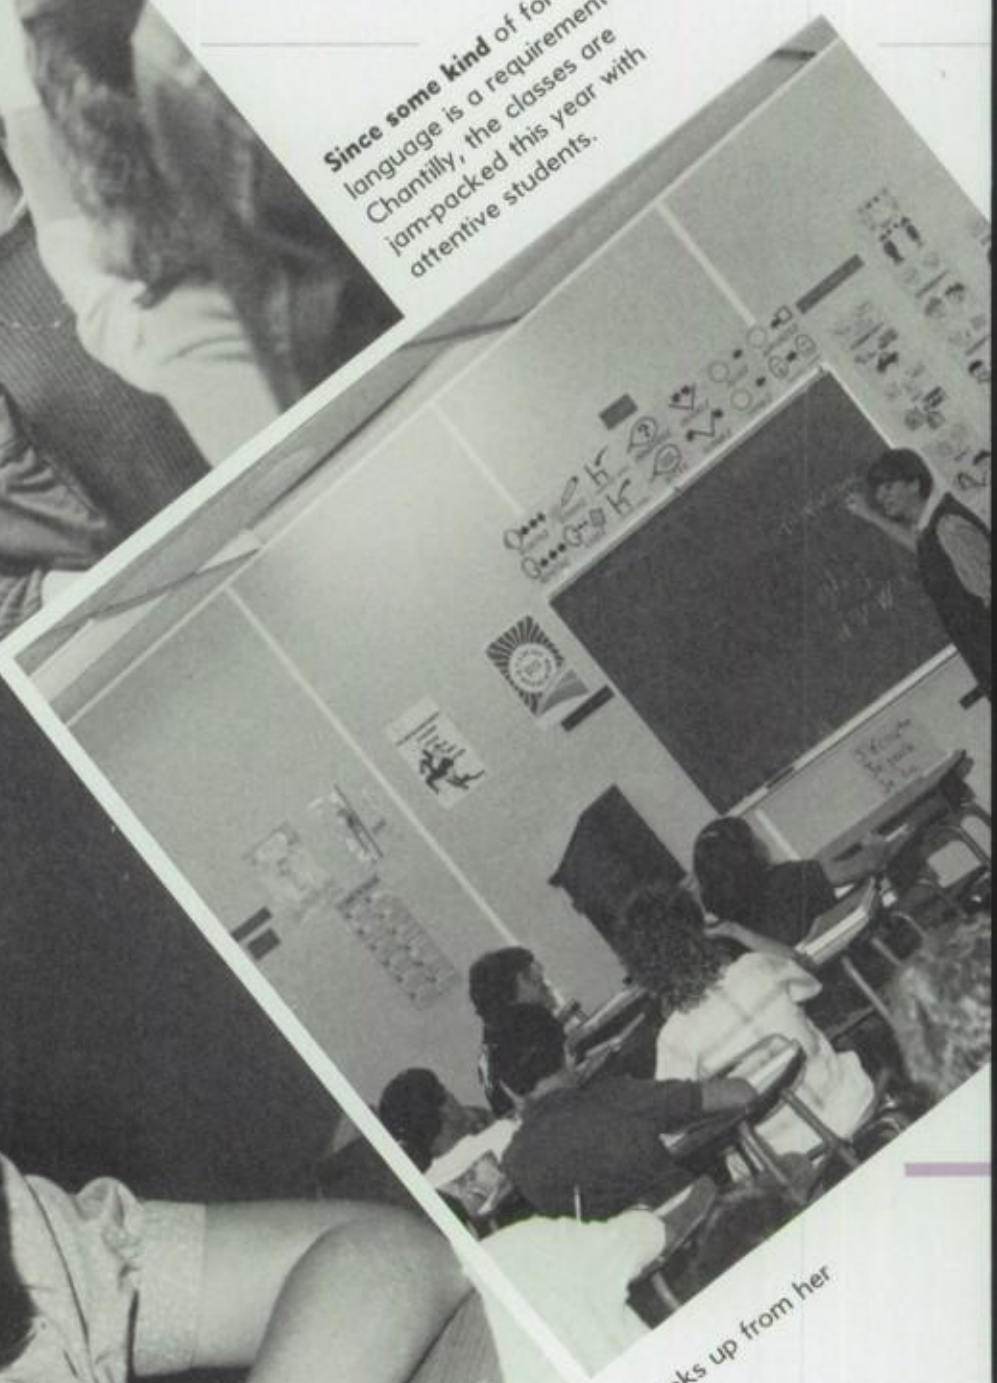
Since some kind of foreign language is a requirement at Chantilly, the classes are jam-packed this year with attentive students.



"There's no way I'm doing that!" blurts out this junior as her friend jokes over her reaction.



"I heard that!" Allison Hedley looks up from her work to hear the latest gossip.

Jam Packed in Classes

Often during the year you looked around and asked yourself, "Why Me?". The freshman class ran around, making themselves known. They often made fools out of themselves, but they didn't mind. Close by in the Blue Commons, the sophomores tried to recover from their freshman year. With a lot of pressure on them, they faced every day with new challenges. At the other end of the school, however, the juniors did their best to let everyone know that they were growing up and would soon be "in charge" of the school. They often walked over to the Orange Commons to see and get the feeling of what it would be like to be in the midst of so many seniors all at once. While everyone else went crazy, the seniors kicked back in their commons, laughing and remembering the past. The road to graduation seemed so long as a freshman, but every year it got shorter. Four years at Chantilly High School from beginning to end were jam-packed into classes.

"We Always Knew We Were Backwards"

It was a well known fact that this year's seniors were rebels. Tell them to do one thing and they'd nicely say thank you and calmly go do the opposite.

This trait of being "backwards" came through in just about everything, and things began bordering on the ridiculous. The most incredible fact, which really shows how contrary the seniors were, has to do with time. This year, a great majority of the seniors were born in the year 1968. Not so remarkable, everyone had to be born sometime — except that this class graduated in 1986! 1968; 1986. Even the numbers were backwards!

When asked how they liked being a backwards class, many seniors replied, "Well, at least we're different." C

The Young Diplomats At Work

Early in the year, there comes a time in every senior's life which he or she must face . . . the dreaded election project. It begins in government class innocently enough. The students are informed about a month or so ahead of the due date. . . . Suddenly it is the night before the due date. Friends are getting together to help each other with projects. The seniors are at it again, practicing the fine art of procrastination. But somehow, some way, it gets done. The dreadful, hideous government project is complete. C

JUNIOR MISS PAGEANT

Terri Hickman

It's 7:30 pm., Oct. 20, we've already waited all day to find out the results for this pageant — wait . . . shhhhh . . . they're going to announce the winner. Gosh, I'm so nervous! I know I didn't win. Hurry up, I can't stand it! "The winner of the 1985-86 Regional Junior Miss Pageant is . . . Wait! Before this announcement is made, let's go back to Oct. 19.

Chantilly's Tami Tickel and Terri Hickman were 2 of 12 girls chosen to compete at the Regional Junior Miss Pageant at Herndon High School. The areas that they competed in were: scholastic achievement, poise and appearance, physical fitness, creative and performing arts (talent), and a judge's interview. The girls worked hard all day Saturday 9:00 am.-1:00 pm. getting the pageant together, then performed at 2:00 pm. for parents and judges. But the surprising part was that the winner's name was held confidential until the banquet the next night. The banquet was held at Quicksilver's in Herndon. First, dinner was served to everyone, then preliminary awards in every catagory were announced. Terri Hickman was awarded 2: the physical fitness award and Miss Congeniality/ Spirit of Junior Miss award (awarded by fellow contestants). Then the finalists were announced. Chantilly was honored to have Tami Tickel selected as 1st runner up in the pageant and Terri Hickman as the Regional Junior Miss Winner. C

STUDENTS PACK IN SUPPORT

It all started with Mrs. Anwyll's 2nd period government class. A discussion was going on about the teachers wanting a 4% pay raise. The teachers said that they would "work to the rule" until their demands were met. The teachers' contract states that they have to work 7 hours a day, 5 days a week.

Karen McCullough decided to do something about the problem. She spread the word around to all the seniors. There would be a sit-in in support of the teacher pay raise, Friday, November 22nd, during 1st period. Signs were made and the Channel 4 News station was called. Underclassmen joined in, and the sit-in went on. Most said that if it weren't for the teachers, there would be no future for the students.

A Time for Remembering
A Time for Growing

The days are passing by us, bring our senior year to an end
And the times are now for remembering days spent with friends
School has shaped our future, leading us in the direction of our dreams Life is flying by us or that's the way it seems.
Going off into the "real world", turning into the adults we all know
Stretching out for more room for all of us to grow
Graduation has gotten closer; times of saying that put-off "Goodbye"
Making sure all the memories created have all been set aside
Never forget all the friends you've collected over the years
Keep in touch with them, make the memories all stay clear.

Senior Spirit Soars

"Four! More! More! More! One!", the ending to a popular pep rally cheer is not so special. But put it on the lips of the Class of '86 and it was.

The Seniors cheered, clapped, whistled, screamed, pushed, and stomped their way through a most eventful school year. When other classes rose up with a challenge, the senior class always responded in kind, out-yelling and out-classing their younger friends. Even with school spirit reaching an incredible high, this year's seniors soared above the rest. C

Rambos

The Graduating class of '86 picked "Rambo" as their class name. Showing their spirit throughout the year, many of the seniors used the Sylvester Stallone look by dressing up in camo's and wearing bandanas around their heads. When asked "What does Rambo mean to you?" most seniors replied — First Blood I and II, Sylvester Stallone, camping, guns, the jungle, camo's, and blood. Rambo was a name used in the movie, "First Blood" and "Rambo — First Blood II"; Sylvester Stallone played the part of Rambo, a lean, mean, fighting machine. C

Finally Getting It Together

. . . And first place goes to the Class of 1986! Starting out in their freshman year, over half of the class of '86 was failing. Attempted fundraisers, one after the other, failed because no one cared. As the class grew, they gradually became united. Not to be outdone by the preceding senior class, they combined effort and spirit to make the 1985 1st-place Homecoming float. The smartest seniors went to, "It's Academic", and won. The Class of '86 tried, and found that they could succeed. Slowly but surely, they have proven that even when times look bad, you can overcome them and rise to the top! C

In favor of the teachers, seniors unite to be heard as they protest for more pay for the teachers.

"Go ahead — I dare you!" Karen McCullough is a Senior who always comes through to help out her classmates.

Janine Lane, Danny Hornfeck, and Shannon Godwin are three Senior class officers who have worked to make it happen.

Sassy Senior Sayings

Senior year is a time for goodtimes, goodfriends, growing up, graduating, and goodbyes. — Chris Soderberg

Senior year is a time for realizing what you should have done your Freshman, Sophomore, and Junior years — Mary Walsh

Seniors are a different type of people. They can't wait for June, yet in June they wish it was September again. — Mike Boyle

Senior year is something that you look forward to all through high school. Some things were worth waiting for, some weren't. — Kristi Gwin

Everyone says that Senior year is something to look forward to, but everyone I know is really looking forward to Beach week! — Waine Craddock

Being a Senior is kind of like an adventure — we make new discoveries, broaden our horizons, and expand our knowledge — hopefully to be rewarded someday. — Terri Hickman

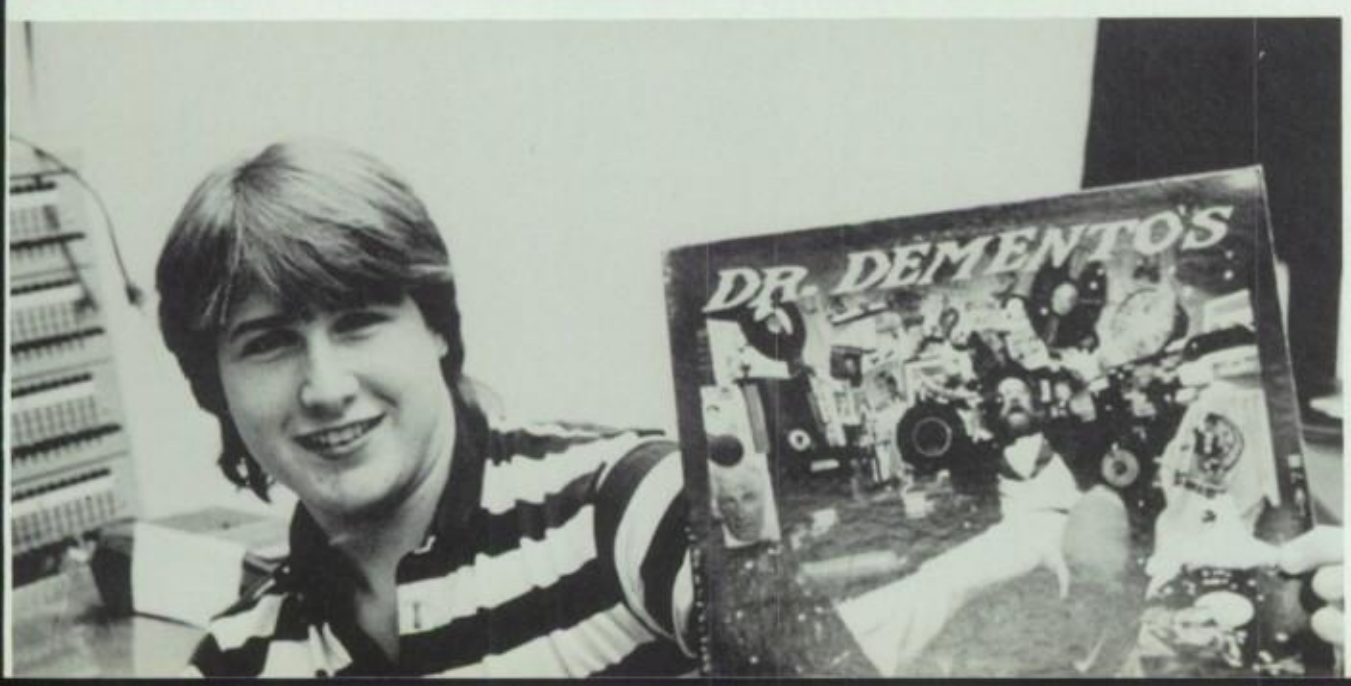
WCHS — The One And Only



"Which one next?" is a good question when one is forced to choose from this collection. (left, above)

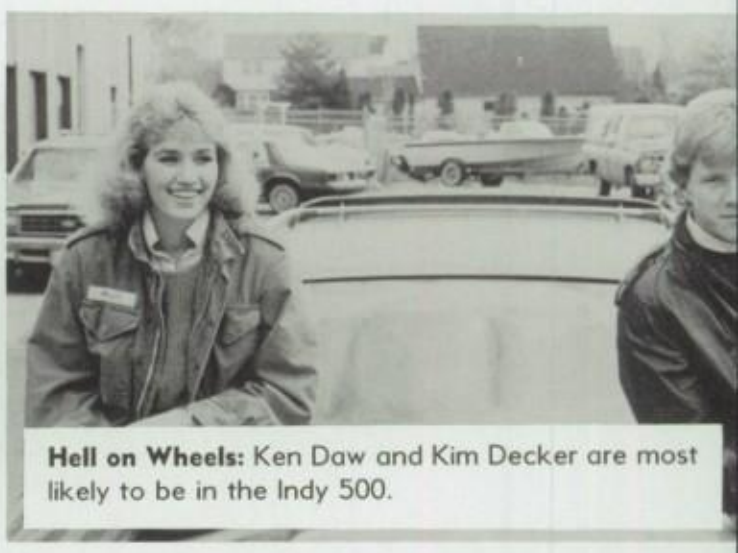
"Any requests?" ask Michelle Walmsley and Lisa Kozuch.

"Now we'll hear some real music!" says Greg Haddock.

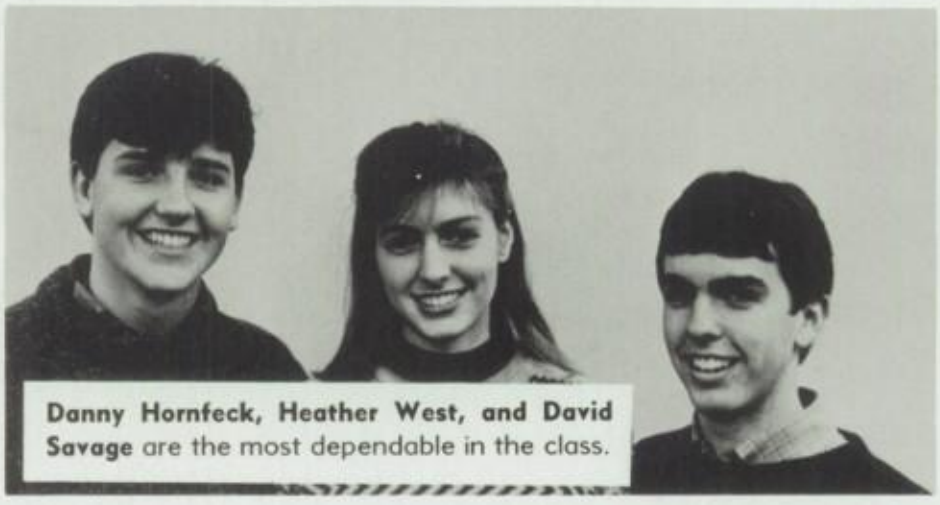
Senior Superlatives: A Class By Themselves

What's wrong now? Robin Romine and Kent McLaurin are always complaining.

A rare scene, usually Julie Chester and Jon Gibson can't get each other to stop talking.

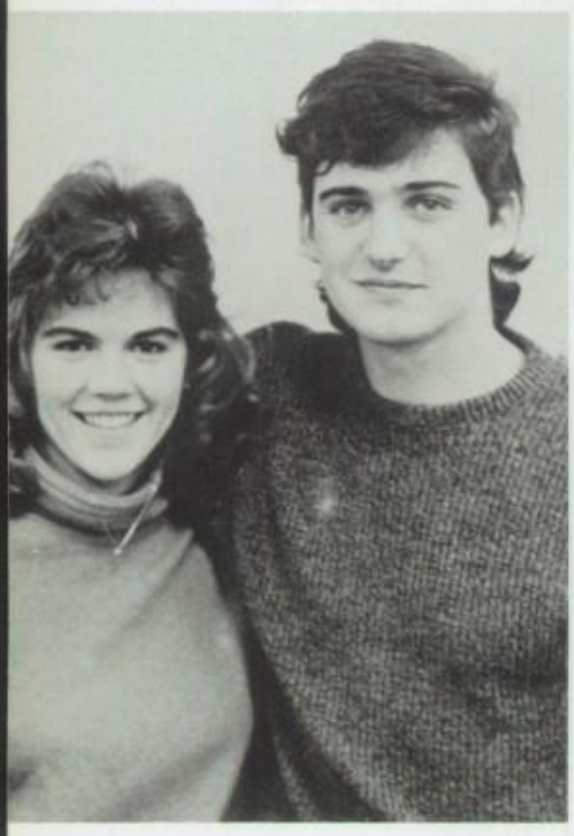


Hell on Wheels: Ken Daw and Kim Decker are most likely to be in the Indy 500.

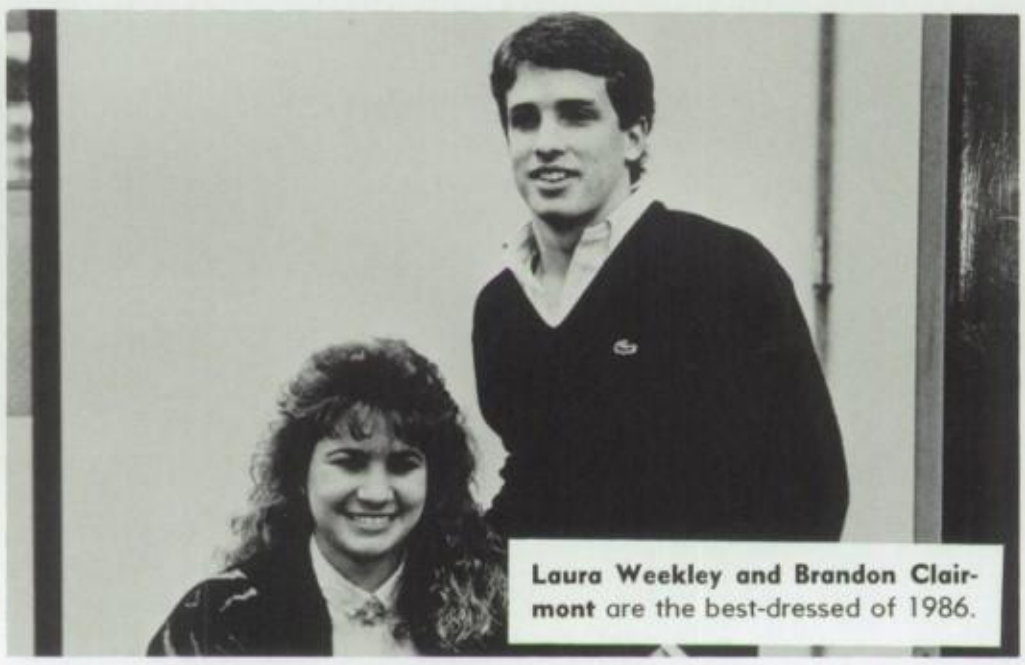


Danny Hornfeck, Heather West, and David Savage are the most dependable in the class.

Jim DeProspero and Kirsten Robinson are our most athletic couple, with football, basketball, baseball, soccer and tennis.

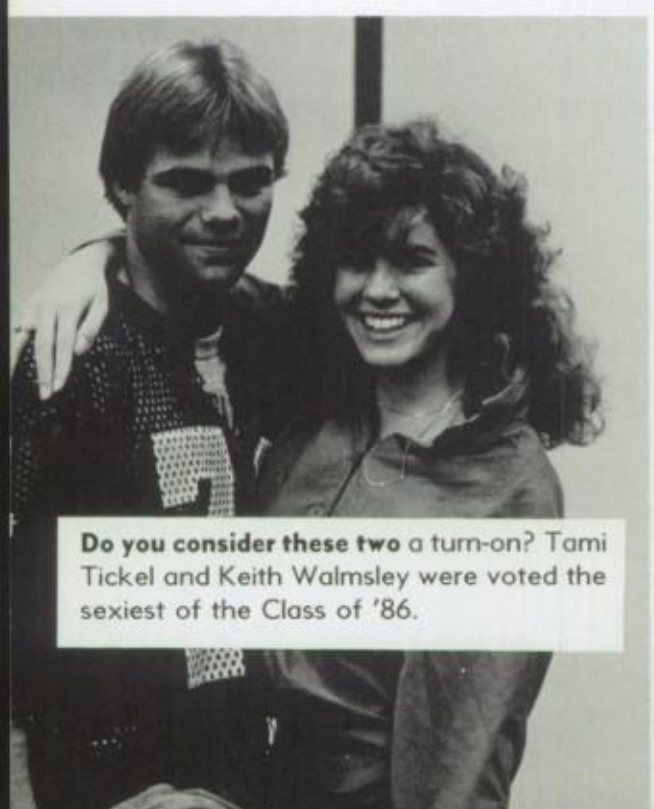


What twosome receives the stares? Well, Beth Dantonio and Rob Dean are considered the best looking in the class of '86.

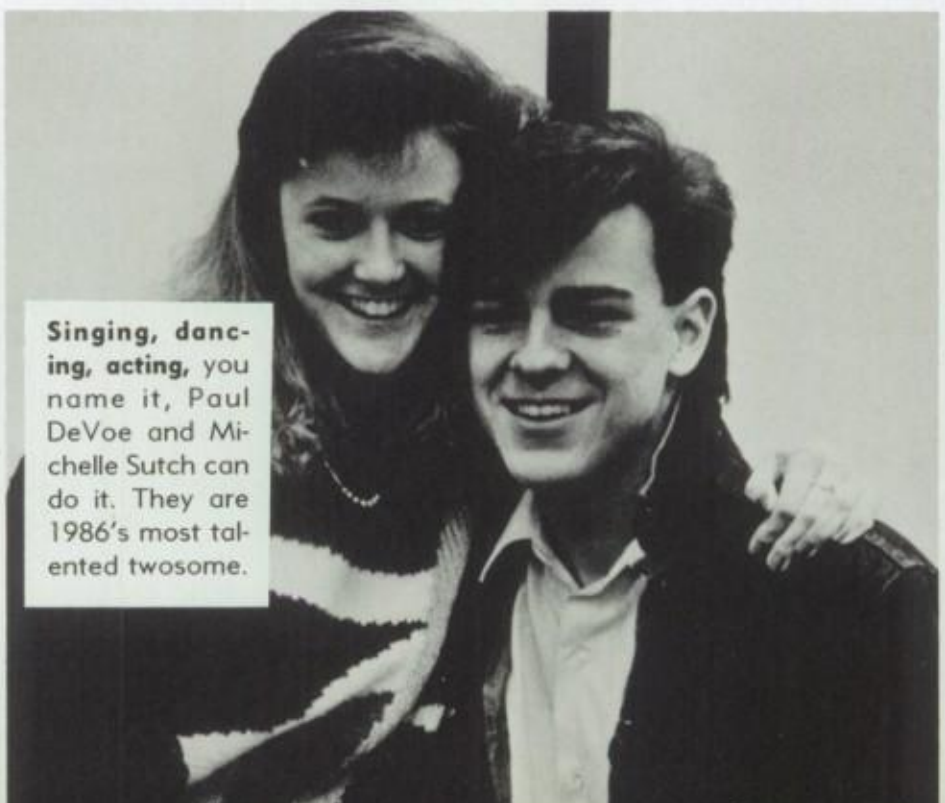


Laura Weekley and Brandon Clairmont are the best-dressed of 1986.

Back to your cages! Laura Sciscione and Jon Gibson are usually found being obnoxious; they're the most obnoxious for 1986.

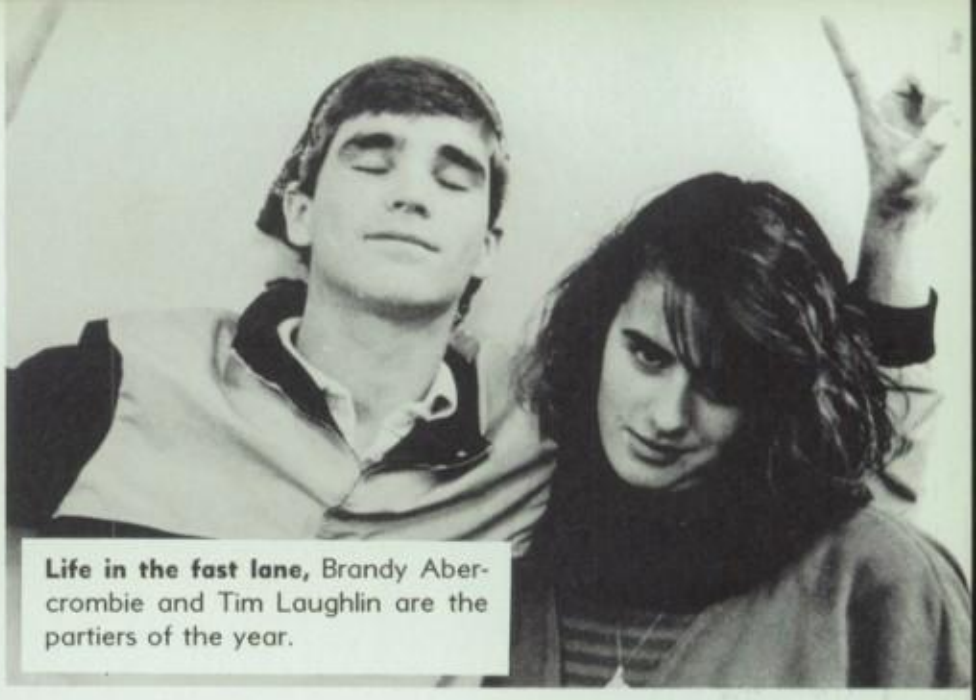


Do you consider these two a turn-on? Tami Tickel and Keith Walmsley were voted the sexiest of the Class of '86.



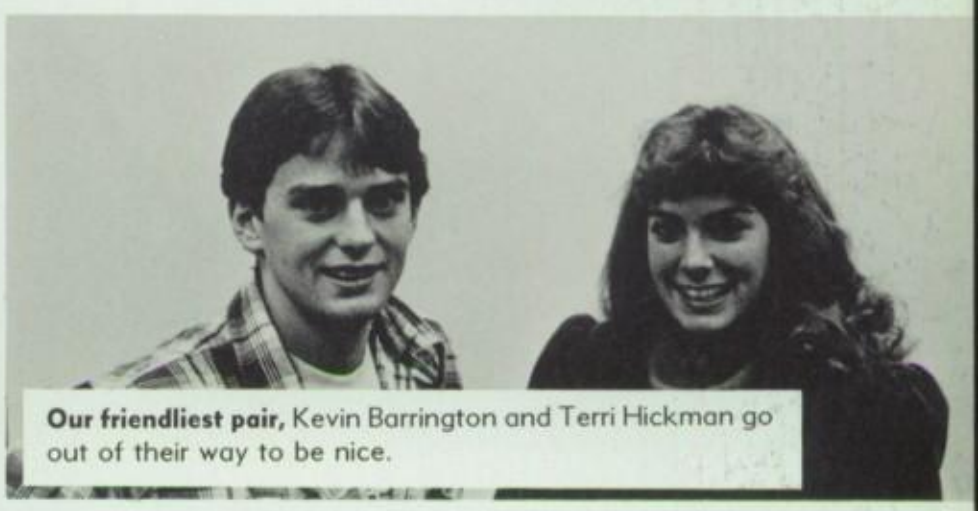
Singing, dancing, acting, you name it, Paul DeVoe and Michelle Sutch can do it. They are 1986's most talented twosome.

Have you heard the latest? Shannon Anderson and Waine Craddock are 1986's biggest gossips.



Life in the fast lane, Brandy Abercrombie and Tim Laughlin are the partiers of the year.

Obviously not going to class, Tim Laughlin and Holly Morgan are most likely to be a senior again.



Our friendliest pair, Kevin Barrington and Terri Hickman go out of their way to be nice.

Who's the smartest, gets good grades, has a great personality, and still has fun? Michelle Sutch and Danny Hornfect are best all-around.

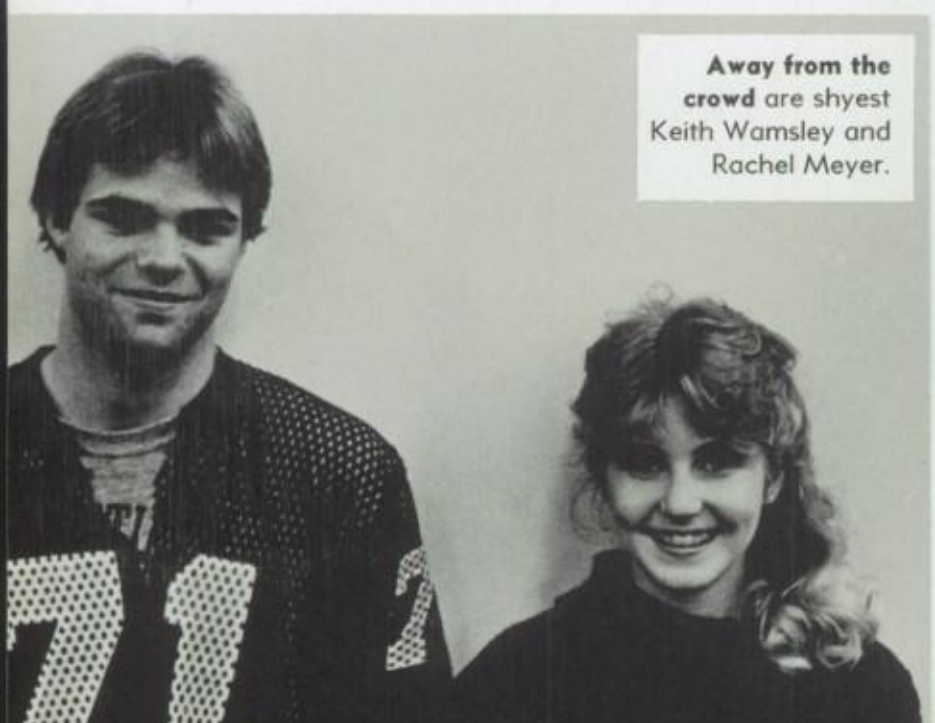
Always cheerful and nice, Laurie Norris and Buster Peyton flash a couple of friendliest smiles to the camera.

From Homecoming to fundraisers to dances, Danny Hornfeck and Janine Lane have done the most for our class.

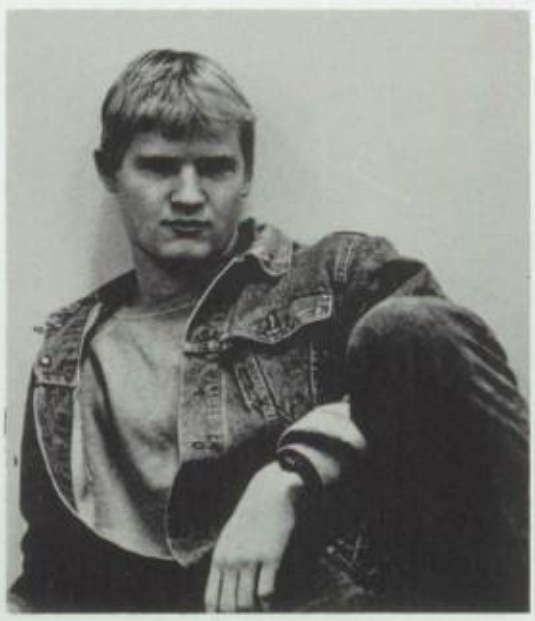
Kristi Gwin and Mike Campbell always get the whistles; they are the couple with the best buns.

Gimme a C! Gimme an H! . . . Craig Stark and Terri Hickman led the spirit for the Class of '86.

Usually in class, but never paying attention, Debra Strain and Mike Albritton are the 1986 Class Clowns.



Away from the crowd are shyest Keith Wamsley and Rachel Meyer.



Work? What's that? Scott Baxter and Kim Peters don't want to strain themselves too much — they are the laziest pair of 1986.

"Oh, right! What?" is a typical statement from two of the dizziest seniors, Jolynn Sfameni and Chris Soderberg.

With the best grades and highest class ranks, Pat Brown and Kim Abell are the most likely to succeed.

Always looking on the bright side are Mike Albritton and Mary Walsh — they have the best personalities.

Hands off! One can find Laura Sciscione and Brian Oliver with someone constantly; they are 1986's biggest flirts.

Look out, they're the class klutzes! Something always seems to go wrong when Kelly Dunleavy and Steven Fisch are around.

When they've got shorts on, they've also got the stares — Tami Tickel and Jason Simon have the best legs.

Tim Laughlin and Kerri Lane are never calm; they're the spazziest couple of the class.

After Graduation . . . What Then?

Beach! There is no doubt that 95% of this year's senior class will be on the sand, soaking up the rays and frolicking in the surf during the week after graduation. Ocean City and Myrtle Beach are predicted to be the most crowded spots, but Nags Head and Virginia Beach won't be far behind. Some graduates may even go as far as well deserved Hawaiian or Bahama Beach.

After the most celebrated week is over, some feel lost as what to do next. Some go off to college, leaving the security behind the walls of CHS or at home to find new horizons. Others will enter the working world immediately and get a job. Still others will go into the military to be all they can be. But whatever the seniors of 1986 decide to do on their own, it will be a scary but exciting experience. C

At the top of the heap

Outstanding Seniors in the arts: Ken McGee (music), Natalie Roberson (chorus), Terri Hickman (dance), Carmel Norcom (music), Jenny Abel (chorus), Anne Gladding (music), Tammi Tickel (dance), and Lisa Reid (music).

The Senior class was full of students who excelled in academics, music and extracurricular activities. Chantilly High School was proud to have eight 1986 Merit Program Commended Students. They were Kim Abell, Richard Bernard, Mike Best, Anne Gladding, Ted Kroll, Stacey Parker, Kyle Smith, and James Stith. Special congratulations went to these two National Merit Semi-Finalists, Pat Brown and Kathleen Fridella. Both Terri Hickman and Tammi Tickel were in the Junior Miss Pagent of Northern Virginia. Chantilly took the first two places. Terri Hickman dazzled everyone, winning Miss Congeniality, Most Physically Fit, and the Junior Miss Northern Virginia Representative. Tammi Tickel was first runner up. Ken McGee was selected to represent Virginia for the McDonalds' All American Band. Anne Gladding was selected for the Regional Orchestra. Carmel Norcom was selected for the All State Band. Lisa Reid, Mary Beth Stevenson, Jenny Abel, Natalie Roberson all sang in the District XII Regional Chorus. Congratulations went to all these outstanding seniors! C

To My Senior Class

So much will I miss thee
As missing thee shows
My love for thee

So much do I love thee
That to love thee
Brings misery

So much do I need thee
That to need thee
Brings wanting thee

So much do I want thee
When wanting thee
Means here with me

I will cry many tears
And the tears to thee
Will be sweet caresses

I will write many letters
For I will share with thee
Words of wisdom

And your future will call upon you
Be your own North Star and take a chance
And your friends will be with thee
Within the smallest glance

The seeds which were sowen have now grown
And friends must now part
And their own seeds will multiply

So long will life continue
That friends will be made anew
But I will never forget a friend
And others such as you.

And then I shall reunite with thee
And look upon these memories
With open heart and open mind -

M. Cobb

Seniors: Heads Above the Rest

The measurement 22" is not a waist size but a head size. Why do seniors need to know their head measurements? For caps and gowns of course.

Representatives for Herff Jones were in the senior commons armed with tape measures and rulers ready to record heights and measure heads.

The caps were fitted specifically to each individual in the senior class, but gowns were assigned according to height with one size fitting all those at the same height.

The caps and gowns were paid for by the 15 dollar senior fees collected at the beginning of the year. Most seniors liked the idea of getting to keep their caps and gowns. Senior Terry Hickman said, "I think it's a nice momento to remind me of high school and especially my senior year."

There were also other graduation necessities you could buy, such as formal announcements to send to family, name cards to give to friends at school, and memory albums to keep all your pictures in also. Thank you notes, informal announcements, and class keys were sold too. All in all, you could buy a variety of things to commemorate your graduation.

The fitting of caps and gowns was just one of the many preparations seniors underwent for graduation. All these activities reminded seniors how soon graduation was approaching. Senior, Kerri Lane said, "When we were fitted for caps and gowns, I realized how little time we had left until we were going to be gone from Chantilly."

After School

What did Juniors do after school? Well, there were numerous activities that Juniors were involved in. After all, "School isn't everything", said Junior Danny Hall who spoke for many.

For those who went home after school, t.v.

"I have to keep the remote control handy so I can watch my 3 soap operas at once."

and snacks, and socializing went hand in hand. For some, soap operas served as an entertainment staple. Some Juniors even watched more than one at a time. Randi Ritter said, "I have to keep the remote control handy so I can watch my 3 soap operas at once."

A wide range of r extracurricular activities were also offered. Sports took up a lot of time for most Juniors who spent on an average from 2:30 to 5:30 at practice. Amy Hasselkus, a Junior, who was a member of the track team said, "It takes a lot of time, but it's worth it to be on a good team and be involved with the school." C

Cat's got their tongues

The gymnasium rang out with noise, loudness, and excitement. Every class chanted their lungs out in the hope of capturing the Spirit Stick and help bring home the victory for the Varsity football team. Everyone except the junior class.

"I think the junior tradition shows more spirit because we have the unity to save it all up for our Senior year,"

Quoted Heather Cohick. Silence was the only thing that rang out from their corner of the gym.

The juniors upheld the tradition that started long ago. They were not allowed to cheer until their Senior year. There were many mixed opinions. Some liked it because it sympolized their grade. Lisa Mitchell thought it was

"Boring!"

Others felt the excitement was gone and only made them look forward to next year. So whatever was held back will be let loose when they're SENIORS! C

Working Hard for the Money

For most juniors, a regular part of their daily schedule included having a job and going to work. Many found it positively necessary to have a job to cover their immense spendings and to provide for boosting their "spirits" when the school work-week was over at 1:50 every Friday. The money earned was used mainly for cars (which they were now legally allowed to drive), and for those late-night parties, dates, and Midnight Madness movies. Working was not all fun and games. There was a serious job to get done and the employee was expected to accomplish their given job to the fullest extent. Additionally, many odd and late night hours were spent to provide for the fun and enjoyment later. If asked, most juniors would have agreed that they couldn't have gotten through their third year of high school without the added extra earned from a job. C

A Step to the Future

Having asked any junior about the PSAT's, you would have heard a variety of responses. Most regarded them as a pain, although a very necessary one. As the beginning of the process of entry into college, the PSAT's were a practice and preparation exercise. They helped juniors to get ready for the upcoming SAT's which most began taking in April.

The PSAT, which stands for Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test is a sort of a preview of what to expect when the juniors did take their SAT's. About six weeks after taking the test, the students were called into their counselors' offices to receive and discuss the results. The students discovered their weaknesses and how they could improve upon their scores.

Beginning soon after, most juniors began to receive information from colleges, trade schools and the military. It is part of the long road to senior graduation, and the first step toward the future.

Notes — Keeping in Touch

Want to keep in touch with your friends, but just can't find the time to talk to them between classes? This was a common problem with the Junior class, but being the clever students they were, they came up with a solution. And that was writing notes. Whether it was a short message scrawled on the back of a bubblegum wrapper, an icky sweet love letter, or an intricately detailed, typed composition, notes kept communication flowing with the class of '87.

All in all, notes kept the junior class together and pretty well informed of everything going on. Probably with the disappointment of many a Chantilly teacher, notes have made their mark on student life at C.H.S. — one that will stay around for quite a long time!

Throughout the junior class, there are several outstanding athletes. Among these are Terry Warren and Nancy Panaggio. Terry participates in football, basketball, and baseball; all on a varsity level. He had a very successful season in football this year, receiving all-district and all-region honors, and he plans to continue playing sports at the college or university he attends. Nancy has participated in swimming, soccer, and cheerleading, however she excels in and prefers basketball. She has been very successful in the past as she was a starter on the varsity team her sophomore year. She is looking forward to a prosperous season this year. Chantilly wishes both Terry and Nancy the best of luck in their futures as athletes. C

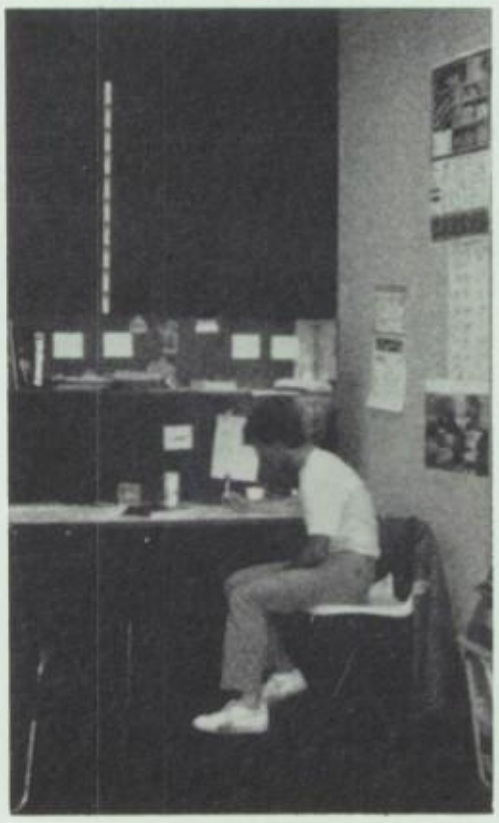
HELP: Assistance Needed

"I need these thirty parents called in a half an hour and also five class periods of chapter tests graded by the time you leave!"

"But I need to study for my Algebra Two/Trig quiz coming up next period plus finish my English paper! I thought that's what I could use this aiding period for."

If teachers or secretaries needed an errand done, a messenger, a grader, or a miscellaneous worker, their student aid was an invaluable. Often the day was saved because vital errands were performed by an aide. Aides did not get credit but took it as a pass/fail "course." Students became aides for various reasons: They were good friends with the teacher, dropped a class and needed a filler class, didn't have enough courses and needed one, or needed an easier course to balance out an otherwise heavy academic schedule. Picturesque bulletin boards, decorative handouts, and other odd jobs that were seen throughout the building were mostly completed by the teacher aides. C



Another failed test. World Cultures teacher, Mr. Pechin, has his aide Dave Patterson grade test papers during 4th period.

What's his fifth period class? Blue subschool aide, Kelly Wade points out to Amy Adcox the file card needed to find the teacher of a fellow classmate.

COMMOTION!

It's nearing 7:25; you can feel the atmosphere getting more tense. People start filing in an area, for lockers, left and right. This area is known as the commons. Sometimes when it's crowded you feel like a ball in a pinball machine and the lockers are the walls the ball bounces off of. Some students get frantic to get out of the commons — they push and shove, slamming people into lockers and leaving bodies everywhere. Most juniors agree 55 minutes in between classes is not a long time. It takes some people 5 minutes just to maneuver themsleves out of combustion and into cluster-free halls. Jenny Zins said, "You need at least 3 minutes just to get into the halls and out of the jam packed commons." It's not a place for people with claustrophobia or impatience. Allison Abell states she has an extra added problem. Her last name is such that her locker is at the end of the first row and she's always getting cut off with people going around the corner. "Lockers are not made for people to get squished into," replies Carole Gilbert. Many calamities and health hazzards wait for you in the commons shriek a group of juniors! All in all, it's a place that takes getting used to! C

An Affair to Remember

Home coming — the Queen and her court, princesses, halftime, razzel dazzel, floats and the game are all part of the sophomore homecoming. Debbie Ruth was elected sophomore princess, and looked dashing in her red and black suit.

This year's homecoming theme was cartoons

Under the direction of Mrs. Santmyer, The sophomore float was built at Cedar Crest Country Club, and took twenty-five hours to make.

During the parade, sophomore princess, Debbie Ruth, looks on towards the crowds of spectators watching the parade.

Jammin' on the Weekends

Friday, before sixth period:

"Hi Jenny, what are you doing tonight?" inquired Peggy.

"Nothing that I know of. Why?" answered Jenny.

"I was curious to know if you would like to go to a movie?" asked Peggy.

"I'd love to! Now I won't have to sit at home and play Candy Land with my little brother," replied Jenny. "I'll see you after school to talk about what time."

Same day, during sixth period:

"Hello, Jenny! How are you today?" inquired Mark.

"Yes, I am dying," Jenny thought to herself. "Hi, I am doing all right." she answered.

"Um, I was just wondering if you had any plans tonight," mumbled Mark.

"No, not that I know of," stuttered Jenny.

"Would you like to go to the movies tonight?" squeeked Mark.

"I don't believe this! He just asked me out! Oh no, what do I do about Peggy?" thought Jenny. "Sure, I'd love to!" replied Jenny enthusiastically.

After sixth period, that day! "Hi Peggy. I don't know how to tell you this, but I can't go to the movies. Mark just asked me out!" shrieked Jenny.

"Oh wow, that's great," mumbled Peggy. "What am I supposed to do now?"

"I am really sorry, but this is important," said Jenny.

"I understand, bye." Peggy answered sadly. "Oh well, another Friday night at home."

Chantilly's sophomores had many things to do on weekends. Some went to the movies or a football game. Others went to parties or babysat. Whatever it was, sophomores had outrageous weekends. C

Creatures in the classroom . . .

a hairy experience

Upon entering a classroom, one noticed frogs everywhere — on the table, on the floor, or in the teacher's chair. What was this odd class? Biology.

"Biology is an incredibly interesting course and I'm going to let my kids take it."

Partners worked together hoping to catch a glimpse of an amoeba race across the microscope. Biology deals with the study of life, and there was a lot of life in the students as well as the organisms. Studies included the examination of the internal organs of crickets and their functions, the dissection of a flower; science projects, and everyone's favorite — human development.

For many sophomores, the subject was either a challenge or, for others, a struggle to live through a monotonous fifty minutes. Many took biology because they did not take Earth Science in their freshman year and needed the credit. This was not to say that no one enjoyed the class. Expressed by Terry Alger, "Some of the organisms in my class are more interesting than those under a microscope." C

Sparkling With Anxiety

A sophomore studies some class rings and picks up some pamphlets to help her make that crucial choice.

"Just three minutes early please!" This was a popular plea the day sophomores were to order their class rings. Everyone was in a rush to get out of class and be first in line. The blue commons were alive with talk of blue zircons, peridots, and sapphires; how they had worked overtime to pay for the ring; and of course, which boy was to give his ring to which girl. From the beginning of "A" lunch to the end of "C" lunch, the Class of '88 piled in their order forms, positive of their choices, some nervous, but all happy they were on their way to owning that very special class ring. C

Many sophomores tried on class rings for size — and just for admiration.

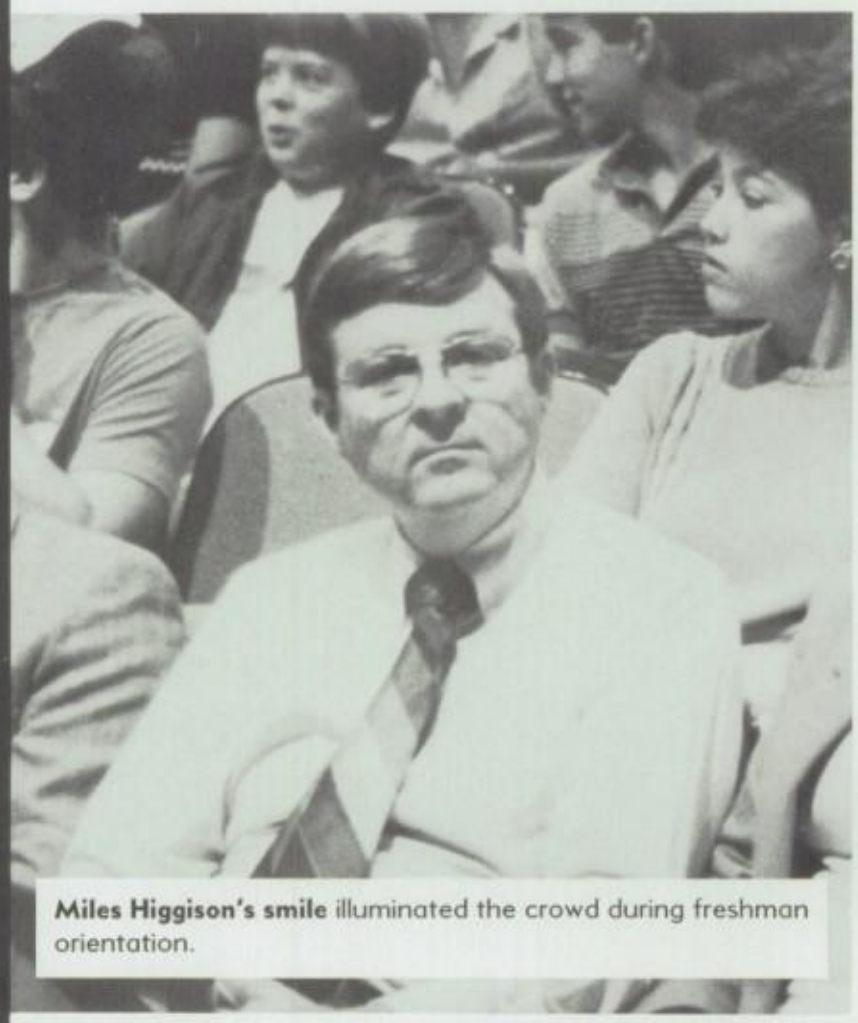
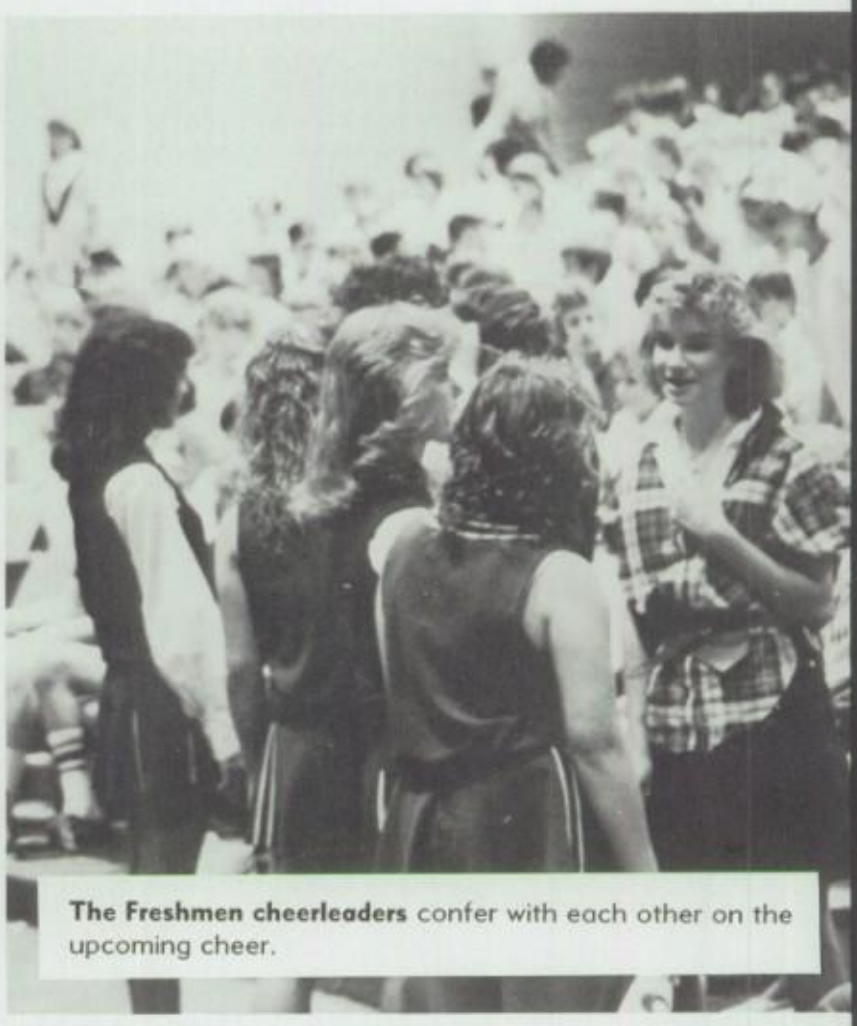
Freshman orientation was an event not to be missed. It began with a speech in the auditorium from the always effervescent George Keim, our high school principal. Mr. Keim spoke about the upcoming school year, and what was expected of the freshman class. The freshman class sponsor also spoke about such things as fund raisers, sports, clubs, and activities.

After the assembly, students received their schedules and were allowed to go around to find out where their classes were. They were also able to meet their teachers and find out what the curriculum for the year was going to be. Orientation was designed to give new students the opportunity to find their way around.



Miles Higgison's smile illuminated the crowd during freshman orientation.



The Freshmen cheerleaders confer with each other on the upcoming cheer.

Busting At The Seams

Where are the Red Commons? How do we know where to go? I can't find anything in this school! Help!!

What's it like to be a freshman? It's not the easiest thing in the world, but 656 of them made it through the 85-86 school year. It proves to be a unique experience, but most freshmen find it's really not too bad after the first week of teasing and wrong directions by the upperclassmen. Being the biggest class helped them to gain popularity as the Red Commons was usually in a state of commotion between classes and after school. Showing their class spirit was not hard to do, but it didn't prove well in pep rallies where the freshmen never ranked. Being the largest class ever posed some problems along with the good points. Extra lockers were needed out in the halls and this still didn't solve the problems of traffic jams throughout the hallways and subschools. Lunches were also not a strong point. Having three shifts separated friends even more, and the commons was still full of people. All in all, being a freshman wasn't the end of the world, but it was certainly one to chalk up for experience. C

Not Just a Metal Box

"What?! We only have five minutes to wade through this crowd?!" Six times each day everyone has the fun-fulled experience of plodding through people in a race against time to reach their destination — the locker. Usually, with one or two minutes to spare before getting to their next class, each student goes to his or her locker to avoid the unnecessary burden of carrying books with them at all times. When they finally get to their locker, hopefully they haven't forgotten the combination. (This case of amnesia is very common after a weekend or holiday!) Then the door is opened to any number of interesting displays. Some people simply have books and papers scattered throughout their locker. Others, however, have decided to be a little more creative. Lockers are decorated with posters or knick-knacks on home-made shelves. Then locker doors are slammed shut throughout the school as students race upstairs to class before encountering the jungle of people in the commons once more. C

People-packed commons are what one will find while everyone has fun with their friends at their lockers during lunch.

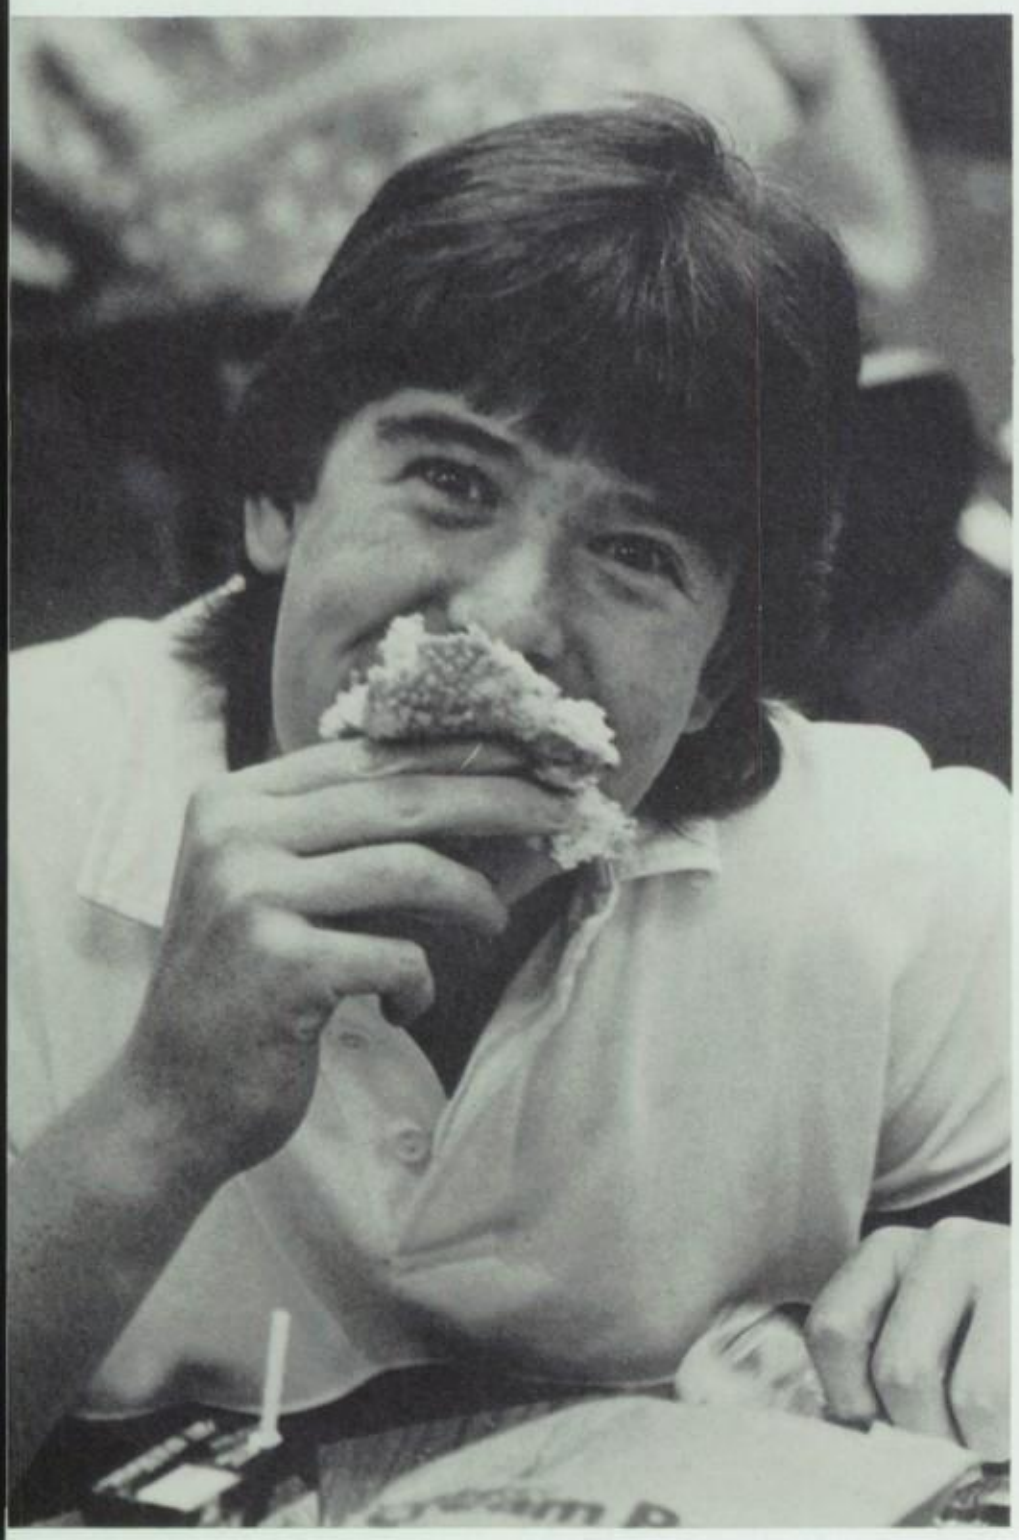
Freshman Lunch Is a Jam Pack Affair



Zooming down halls, colliding with other students, ric-o-cheting off the walls, hurdeling chairs, quietly walking past the lunch advisor, then lunging toward the doors to be first in the lunch line, is a frequent lunch sight in the freshmen commons. Friendly shoves and cut downs, exchange of gossip, joking around, an occasional splat or two of ketchup to the forehead pass the time of the long food lines. There is definitely no sign of famine in this group of students as they jam every edible substance into their mouths. C

Starving Jon Havey jam packs coffee cake in his mouth like he hasn't eaten for a week.

Brian Johnson displays his strategic wrestling moves as he pins his South Lakes opponent.

Jam Packed in Sports

"... And it's another victorious night for the Chantilly Chargers!" Among the many programs offered at Chantilly was the infamous sports program. Anyone who enjoyed physically exerting himself found at least one sport to participate in. Starting in the last month of summer, one could find teenagers exercising and getting in shape for the season to come. Anxious as they appeared, one would never have thought that they dreaded the arrival of the new school year. Enthusiasm built and spread quickly within the first few weeks of school as the various sports began. Football, field hockey, tennis and golf were among the fall features. Old Man Winter brought with him basketball, gymnastics, wrestling, and indoor track and swimming. With the April showers and May flowers blossomed baseball, softball, soccer, and spring track and tennis. Coaches were eager to help everyone do their best. The countless victories that were made were not just handed to our fellow Chargers. Together hard work, determination, and Charger pride worked to form a unique Sports year. C

The 1984-85 Football season left many people hanging . . . we were District Co-Champions, but why couldn't we advance in the playoffs? power points?? we were good enough — well, we'll show'em all next year — just wait! "The players were very excited when they returned to preseason camp this year (85-86) and from the start, the Chargers anticipated success," Coach Fred Welch stated. "In practice and game time, they were mentally concentrating on what they had to do at that time, which showed lots of maturity, devotion, and added to the Charger success!" There was no individual leader on the team, just 59 strong, determined young men working together to lead the team on toward the District Championship.

The Varsity Football season really proved to be an exciting one! There were many key games where the Chargers seemed always to come through. The Chargers fought their way to the top spot of the District and earned their chance to play Northern District Champs — Herndon Hornets. The tension and excitement of the match up was overpowering! Many great plays were made while many great athletes were out on the field. This final game vs. Herndon exemplified the spirit and talent of this year's successful team. C

This year Chantilly was honored to have many Chargers named to the All Potomac District and All Region teams. Congratulations to the following players:

1st Team Potomac District

*Andy Wilson
*Bill Bryce
*Keith Wamsley
*Walter Jones
Terry Warren
Scott McDonough
Bill Bartanowicz
Bryant Hatcher
Jim DeProspero
Mike Campbell

2nd Team Potomac District

*Honorable Mention All Region
2nd Team All Region
1st Team All Region

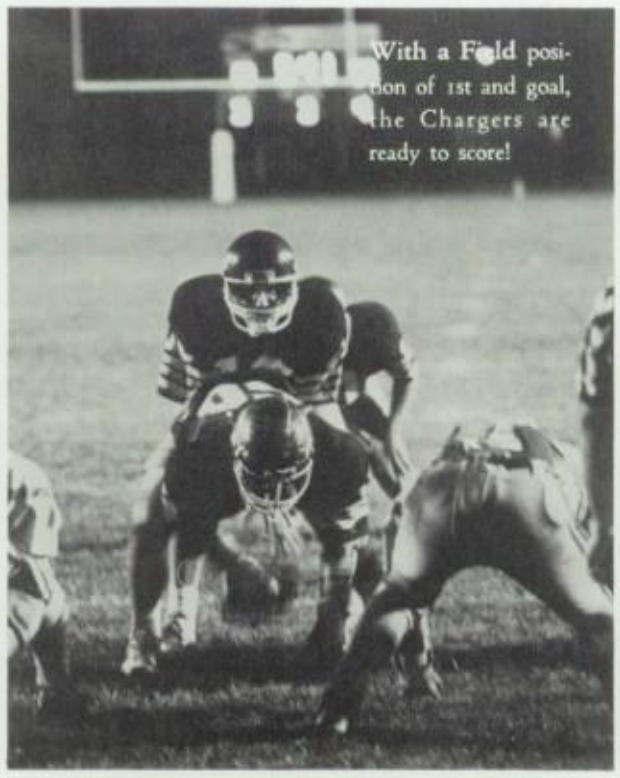
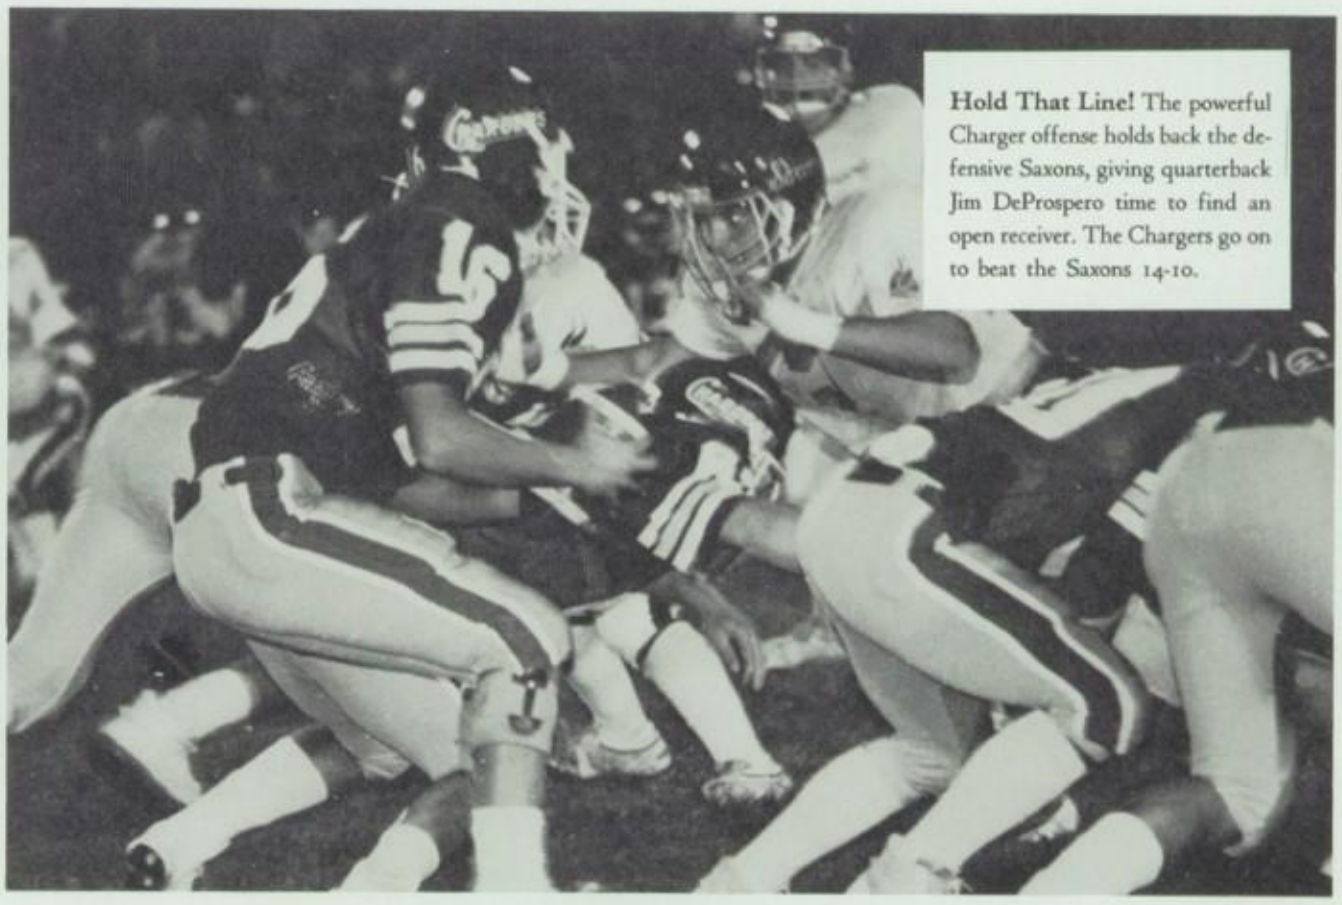
With the Help of Tackle Bill Bryce, Mike Campbell evades the Jefferson defense to gain crucial yardage in the Chantilly Homecoming battle.



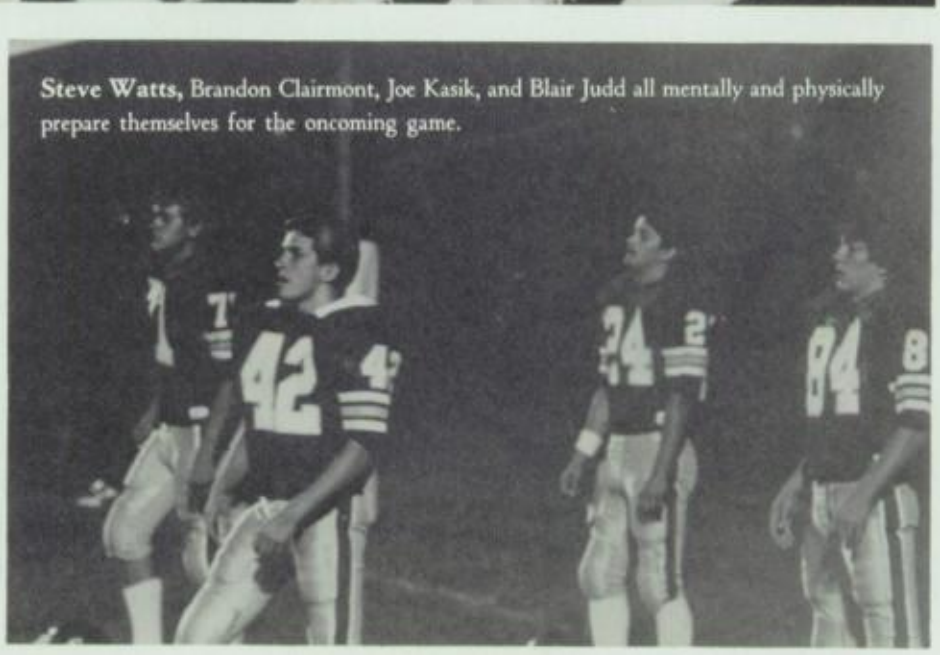
Wide receiver Bryant Hatcher waits for his signal to speed down field.

. . . went through Chantilly!

Mr. Football Hero is a special award given to an outstanding football player as voted on by the student body. The 1985-86 recipient is Mike Campbell.



Hold That Line! The powerful Charger offense holds back the defensive Saxons, giving quarterback Jim DeProspero time to find an open receiver. The Chargers go on to beat the Saxons 14-10.

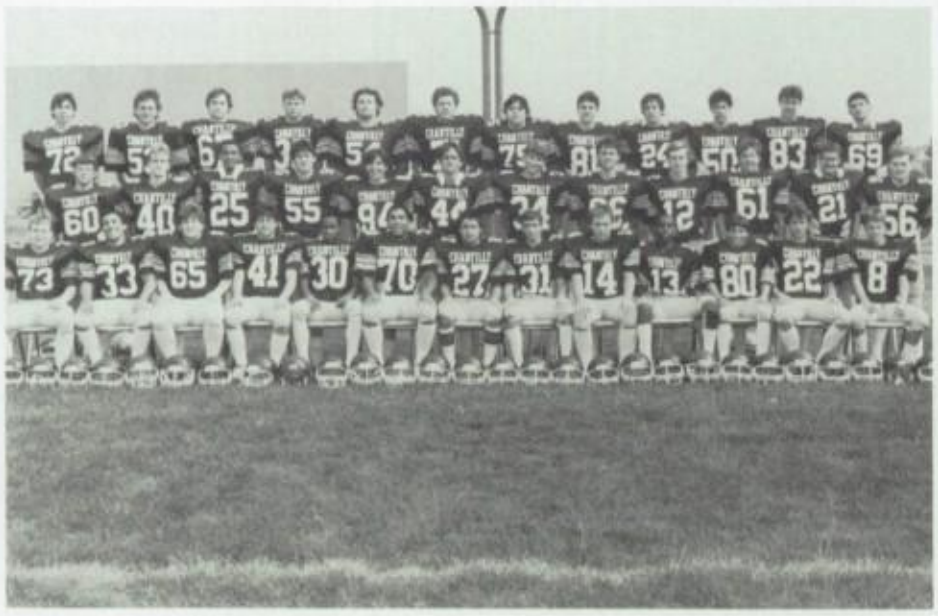


Steve Watts, Brandon Clairmont, Joe Kasik, and Blair Judd all mentally and physically prepare themselves for the oncoming game.

The Senior Chargers demonstrate one of their many difficult maneuvers done during preseason training to build endurance.

As Chris Foreman strides past the last two Rams, a Charger victory comes into sight!

Building For Varsity



The 1985-86 Junior Varsity Football Team Row 1: Jack Vick, Ron Hickman, Kenn Jenkins, Troy Crosby, Terry Ewell, John Williams, David Deeb, Chris Haddock, David Williamson, John Thomas, Mark Shriver, Brian Woolfenden, Quen Lanier, Row 2: Mark Bechtel, Drew Bilisoly, Ernie Trammel, Steve Markwith, Pat Sheehan, Ken Boyle, Chris Armstrong, Ron Stevens, Steve Grannis, Erik Burgess, Craig Hayes, Dean McIlwee, Row 3: Pat Coyle, Josh Webb, Scott Montgomery, Craig Smith, Steve Crouch, Mike Newton, Chris Johnson, Bryan Riley, Mike Fitzgerald, Matt Smith, Reed Miller, Fred Vasquez.

It all started back in early August . . . the two-a-days in burning summer heat . . . hitting, running, catching, and blocking . . . practicing hard with the Varsity to help build the Chantilly football program. All that time was spent sweating and working hard to produce a team that Chantilly could be proud of. And the J.V. team did just that! Under head coach Stan Meadows, the J.V. football team took on many a challenge and battled their way to a respectable 5-3-1 record in the Potomac District. This year's team produced many talented players, both on the offensive side of the field as well as on the defensive side.

If the talent and determination of thi year's team has anything to do with it

"I feel our record didn't indi cate how good we really were We had a hard-hitting defens and a well-balanced offense Next year, the class of '88 wil shine!" — Ron Hickman next year's varsity season should prov to be a promising one! C

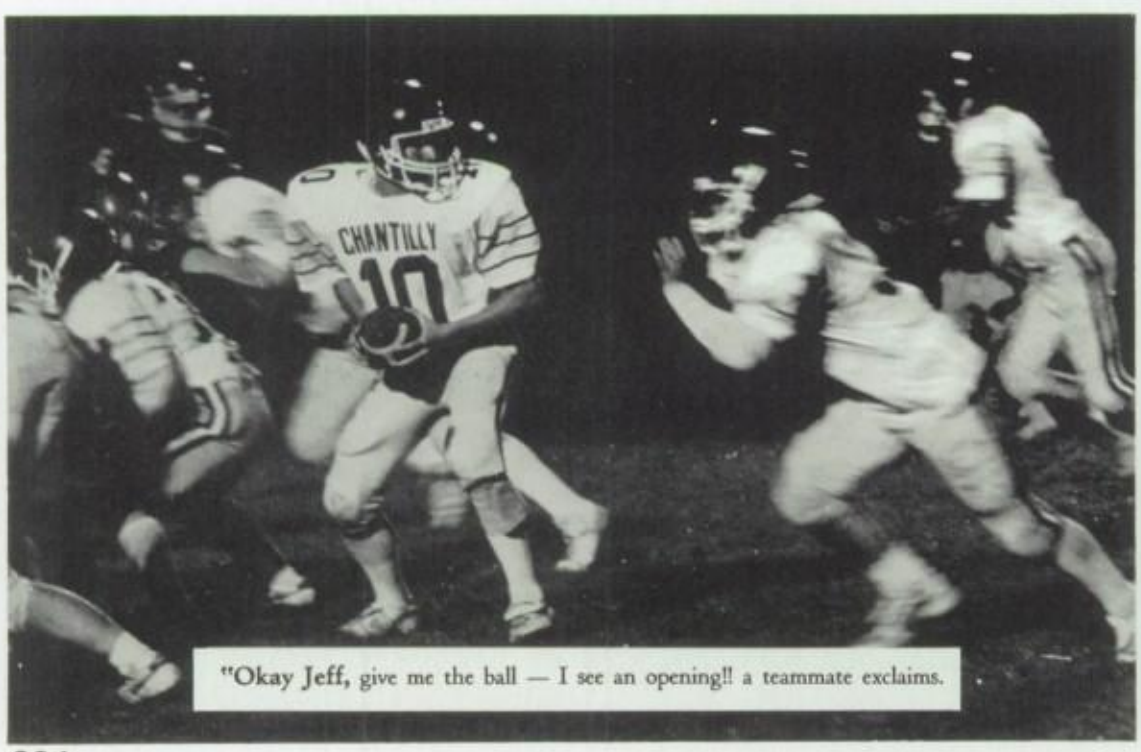
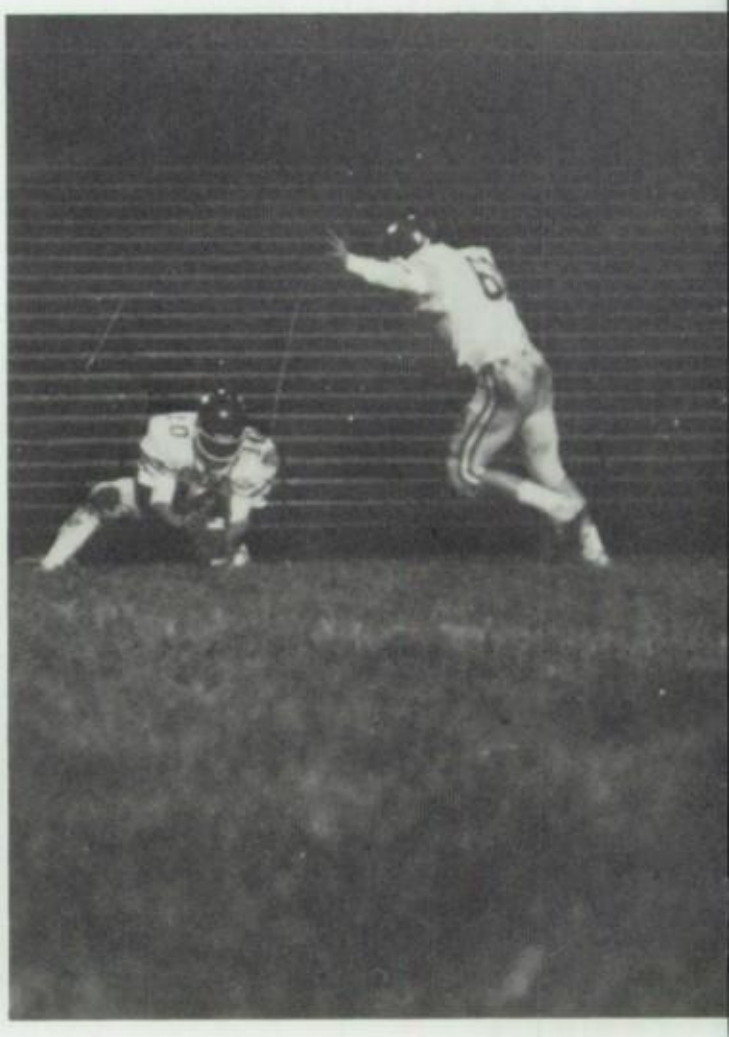
After seeing the ball being snapped, the Chantilly defense charges in to stop their opponents.

Jeff Ryckert holds the ball steady while Eric Burgess attempts to put on through the uprights.



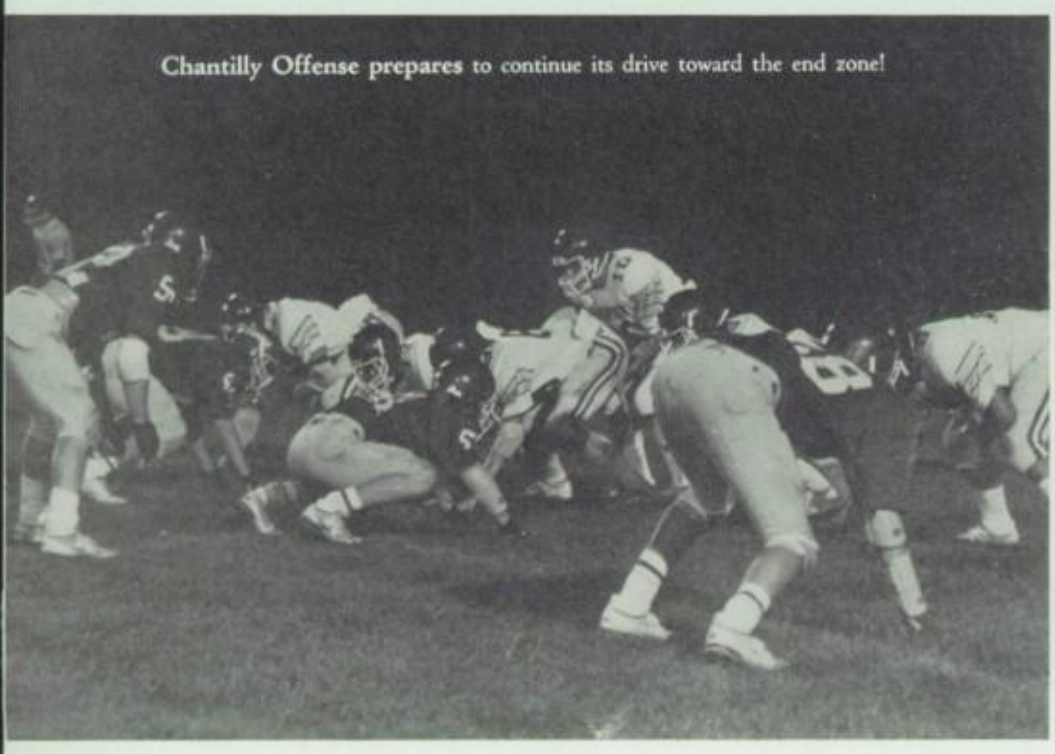
"Okay Jeff, give me the ball — I see an opening!! a teammate exclaims.



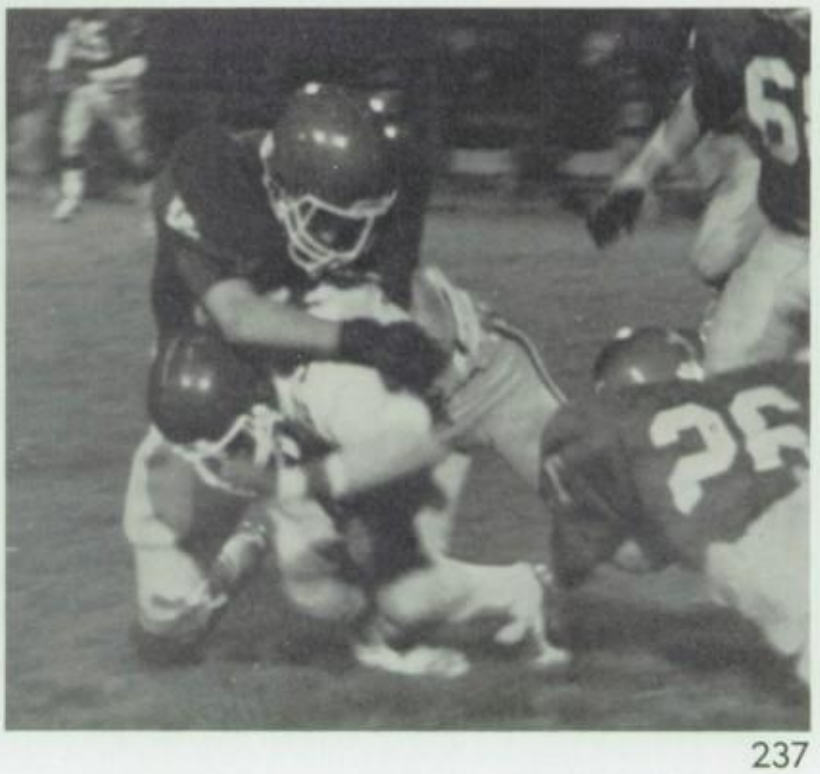
Stick'em Ready, Break!!! After the huddle, the CHS offensive unit is ready to play!

"We got him!" Ron Hickman, Pat Coyle, and Eric Burgess exclaim as they stop a Wakefield play by tackling the runningback before he can even get started.

Runningback Ernie Trammel busts up through the middle to gain a 1st down for the Chargers.



Chantilly Offense prepares to continue its drive toward the end zone!



Nobody Beats Us But Us

The 85-86 Freshman Football Team: Michael Atcheson, Joseph Baehr, Mike Bailey, Brennan C. Barr, Jeffrey S. Boos, Pole Chan, Christopher Cho, Scott R. Cole, Joseph R. Cox, Brad Davis, Christopher R. Davis, James A. Dixon, Andrew T. Ferguson, Paul L. Fontenrose, Bradley O. Ford, Richard C. Hamilton, Chris L. Heisler, Henry W. Henderson, Robert W. Hornfeck, Ashley C. Leigh, Larry F. Freshman exploded onto the field with an awesome, undefeated record. From the start the team was strong, led by Cory Roy the leading scorer. Team after team were walloped by the brutal force of the Baby Chargers. Forcing their way to the top, the freshman won every single game. Carving their names upon all who dared oppose them, the players managed to crush and inevitably wipe them all out. C

Lined up and ready to go, Andrew Walton barks out the final commands.

Another one bites the dust, Jeff Boos makes the tackle.

Ms. Bodnarz - Thanx for letting me express myself in your class. I signed on this page so not only will you remember my face but Chris Braden and Dave Freeman, too. (Heather, Hollie, Kim) I sincerely hope I am in your class my senior year - there I can express myself some more. I can't believe you're not making them do a research paper Love, Julie Solometo

Cross Country

All the Way to UVA

"Cross country is a team-sport where every individual counts;" said girls coach John Caslin about this year's cross country teams. For the first time Chantilly has scored in big invitationals, a sign of team improvement. The boys team placed at least third in every meet while the girls team average finish was among the top four teams. In the dual meets the girls went 7-0, and the boys finished the season 6-1.

The highlight of the season was the district, regional, and state meets. The girls won the district, upsetting Annandale who has been district champion for eight years. The top finishers were Amy Colvin, Sarah Colvin, Julie Guinn, and Paula Gilbert. The boys team came in second to Annandale. The top finishers were Steve Hazzard, Lance Muiz, David Patterson, and Chris Braden. Probably the most crucial meet was the regional meet. The boys team placed third and the girls team was fourth, propelling both teams to the state meet.

All the way of UVA, UVA being the site of the AAA state cross country meet, seemed to be the theme for this years boys and girls cross country teams. The boys finished third with top finishers being Lance Muniz — Sixteenth, David Patterson — nineteenth, and David Freeman — twenty-sixth. The girls team placed fifth. The top finishers were Amy Colvin — third, Sarah Colvin — fourteenth, and Julie Guinn — thirtieth.

Both teams are young and should enjoy equally successful seasons next year. C

Girls Cross Country Team: Row 1 Julie Solameto, LanVi Vuong, Thuy Nguyen, Heather Murphy, Rhonda Maier, Kyra Brown, Holly Moore, Sherri Black, Row 2 Coach John Caslin, Kerri Robilard, Amy Colvin, Paula Gilbert, Valerie Bell, Amy Hasselkus, Kim Abell, Sarah Colvin, Stephanie Hajtin

The lady Chargers prepare for the start ing fun, signaling the start of the Distric meet at Burke Lake Park. The Charger won their first district meet.

"I really like cross country because it is true team sport," said Rhonda Maier caught taking a breather after her race i the George Mason Invitational.

Lance Muniz is looking good at the two mile mark in the District meet at Burke Lake Park. Lance finished fifth helping the Chargers to a second place team finish.

Kyle Smith, Team MVP, runs hard at the George Mason Invitational. The boys team went on to take second place.

Sarah Colvin passes the half mile mark in the George Mason Invitational with a big crowd behind her. Sarah went on to finish fifth and the girls team placed third.

Team MVP, Amy Colvin, leads the Chargers to their first-ever cross country district title. Amy finished second in the race, lowering her best time by twenty seconds.

J.V. and Varsity Field Hockey

Better Than the Record Shows

"The Varsity team was better than their record showed — the team lost five games by only one point and two of those five games went into overtime." Coach Hammerle revealed.

Both field hockey teams vied for positions in the very rough Potomac District. "Our team had lots of talent, but we had lots of competition with in the district," J.V. team captain Jenny Dickson said. The Varsity team led by captain and M.V.P. Margaret Martin, finished fourth in the district. The team also placed two players, Katie O'Hanlon and Julie Dickson, on the Second Team All-District.

> "Although the season wasn't as promising as we expected, Coaches Lovejoy and Hammerle made us feel we had something to be proud of."
> — J. Thomas and D. Danko

Coach Hammerle went on to say, "Maybe they didn't have a successful season, but the kids themselves were successful." C

Varsity Golf

A Hole In One

Overall, the golf team had a very successful season. The team, having eight members, was a young one that matured through the leadership to two seniors: Ray Tricarico and Kevin Robinson. The team finished the season with 6 wins and 1 loss. They won the Potomac District Tournament for the fourth year in a row and finished 6th in the Regional Tournament. Kevin Robinson was selected as the team's most valuable player and helped lead the team to its victories. C

"Our success was due to the fact that our team was very balanced and on any given day one or more players could shoot even par" — Mr. DeHaven

Ray Tricarico takes a swing and hopes for the best.

Golfing keeps Kevin Robinson and Scott Corbett close to home.

Kevin Robinson gets his golf ball off of the grass and back onto the green as Scott O'Brian looks on.

Bruce Winesett takes a break and comically rests on the ball washer.

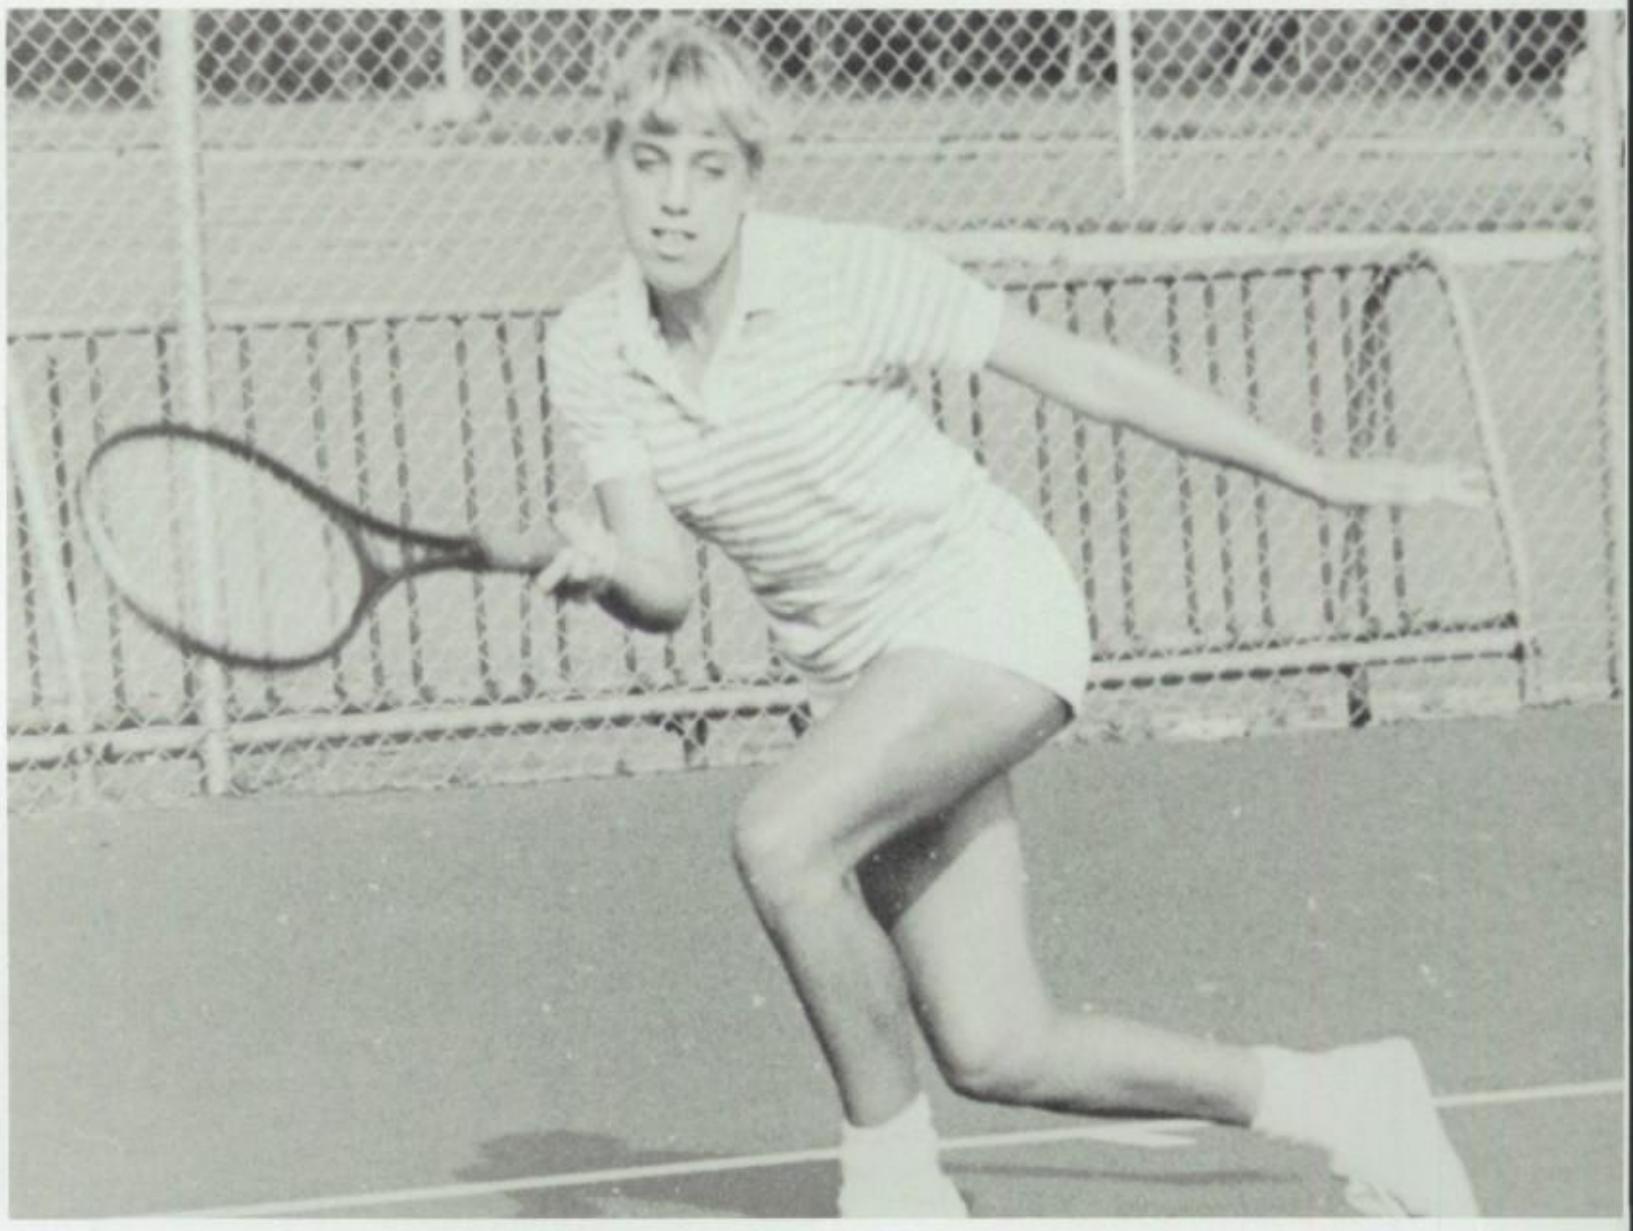
Chantilly's girls tennis team had a new coach this season. Coach Mary Williams was known to be nice and always in good spirits. She proved to help the team as they placed fourth in the district. Their record for the season was five wins and seven losses.

For the first time ever in Chantilly's history, Kristen Newell was selected for the first team All District. The Most Valuable Player for the 1985 season was Kirsten Robinson.

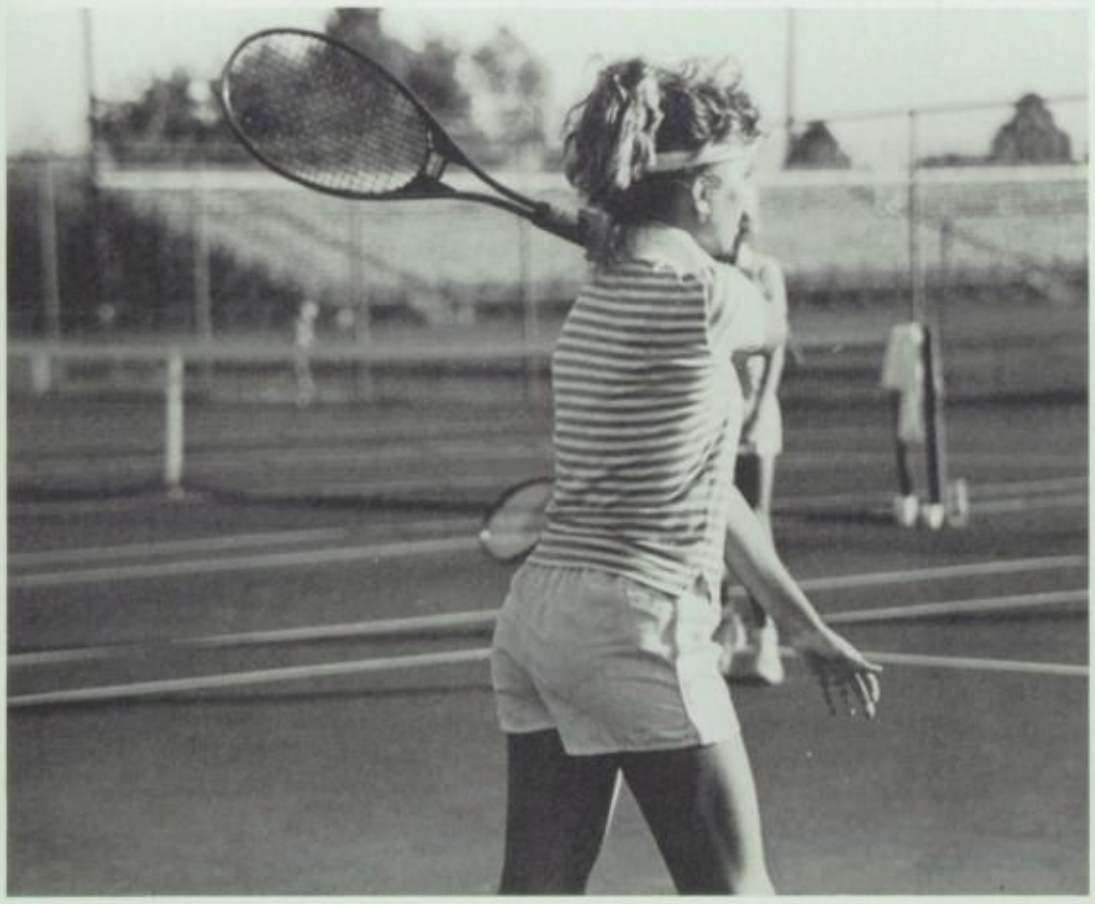
Many players from the team played in the Northern Virginia District Championship matches. Kirsten Robinson and Karen McCullough played in the singles matches. Kirsten Robinson and Kristen Newell played doubles in the district matches. Kim Garrett and Karen McCullough also played doubles.

People have always been impressed with Chantilly's girls tennis team but this year the team received extra special congratulations! C

"I think the team had a lot of potential but we were basically young. Give us two years and we will win districts." —Coach Williams

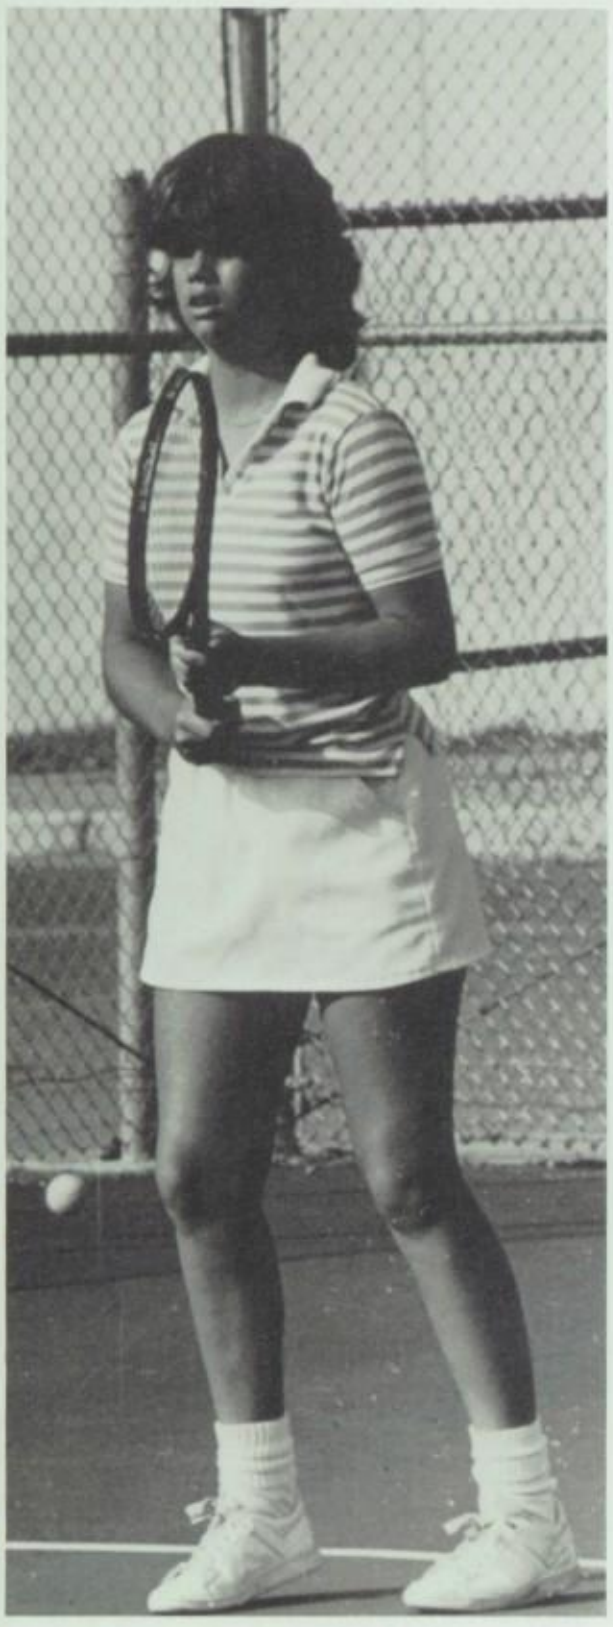


For the winning match point, Jenny Keffler smashes the ball across the net defeating her opponent.



Kirsten Robinson, MVP, practices her strokes before the match begins.

Buddies forever, Kirsten Robinson and Kristen Newell share some laughs after an exhausting match.



Awaiting anxiously, Lisa Cohn is prepared to return anything her opponent can dish out.

Struting her stuff, Kristen Newell returns a serve with expertise showing how it is done.

Varsity Girls Basketball

On A Rebound

The 1985-86 Chantilly Girls Varsity Basketball — Row 1: Kathy Cannon, Debbie Cannon, Alicia Coburn, Susan Shaw, Teresa Morse, Nancy Panaggio, Julie Cavallaro, Beth Hess. Row 2: Kim Peters, Misty Hotelling, Cydney Teal, Ashley Cole, Donna Bester.

"Frustrating" was the key word, used to describe the Girls Varsity season. It seemed like Murphy's Law ("Whatever could go wrong — would") prevailed over the team with examples of awkward situations, injuries, and inexperience. For a while it even looked as though the girls wouldn't have a coach, but then Coach Rod Apple was hired. No one quite knew what to expect from this team that had been on the edge of falling apart.

"Even though our record didn't show it, we worked hard and had fun."

— Donna Bester

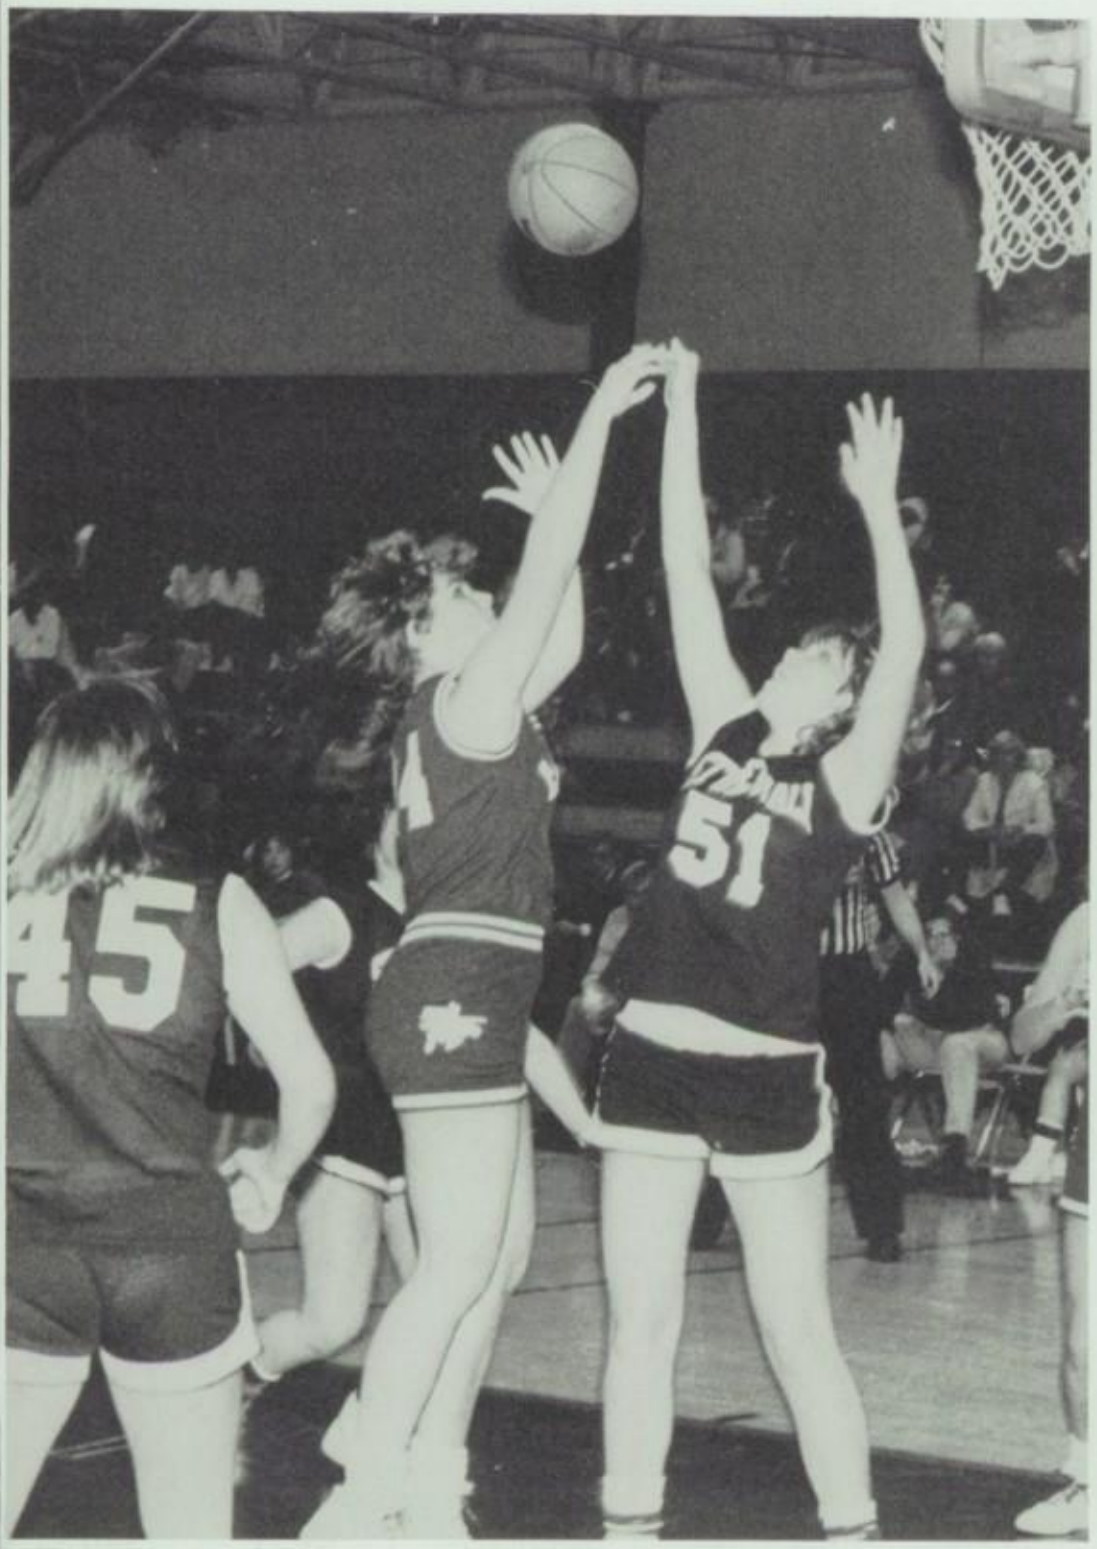
"This year was a rebuilding season & we didn't win as many games as we should have, but we'll get 'em next year!"

— Susan Shaw

Soon, the girls really began to show good character by staying determined, "sticking it out", and putting forth their best effort. They supported each other at all times, and really worked hard. They gave it their best shot, and had a lot of fun doing it — so in the end, they were successful. C

Cydney Teal explains to the camera man why she's not dressed out, while the rest of the bench concentrates on the game.

Realizing a time out is needed, Cydney Teal gives the signal to take time to read just the offense.



Susan Shaw, the varsity team's leading scorer, shows how an easy touch will do it for her every time.

Looking for an open lane to the basket, guard Kathy Cannon calls out a play to run.

After being fouled, Teresa Morse concentrates at the foul line to make her shots count.

Determined to score, Kathy Cannon makes her way to the basket.

Aggressive guard Nancy Panaggio powers up for another Charger score.

J.V. Girls Basketball

Shootin' Hoop

"Ups and Downs" — something the J.V. Girls basketball team had a lot of this year. That's understandable — what can we expect from a new group of girls that never played together before? Most of this year's talent was fresh — the majority of the players on the team were freshmen (which meant they hadn't had much experience in gamel situations.)

"Our coaches really helped us by pushing us to make ourselves better players."

— Christine Barone

"Although our team lacked in experience, I think we had a good season."

— Jenni Simons

Coaches Kirt Chase and John Keesling really worked the girls extra hard to get them into shape fast, but "It was worth it in the long run," a player responded. "We were better prepared for the games." The J.V. Girls had lots of spirit and really supported one another. They did well, and had alot of fun! C

Point Guard Jenni Simons brings the ball down the court to set up the play.

Boy's Basketball

Getting the Right Moves

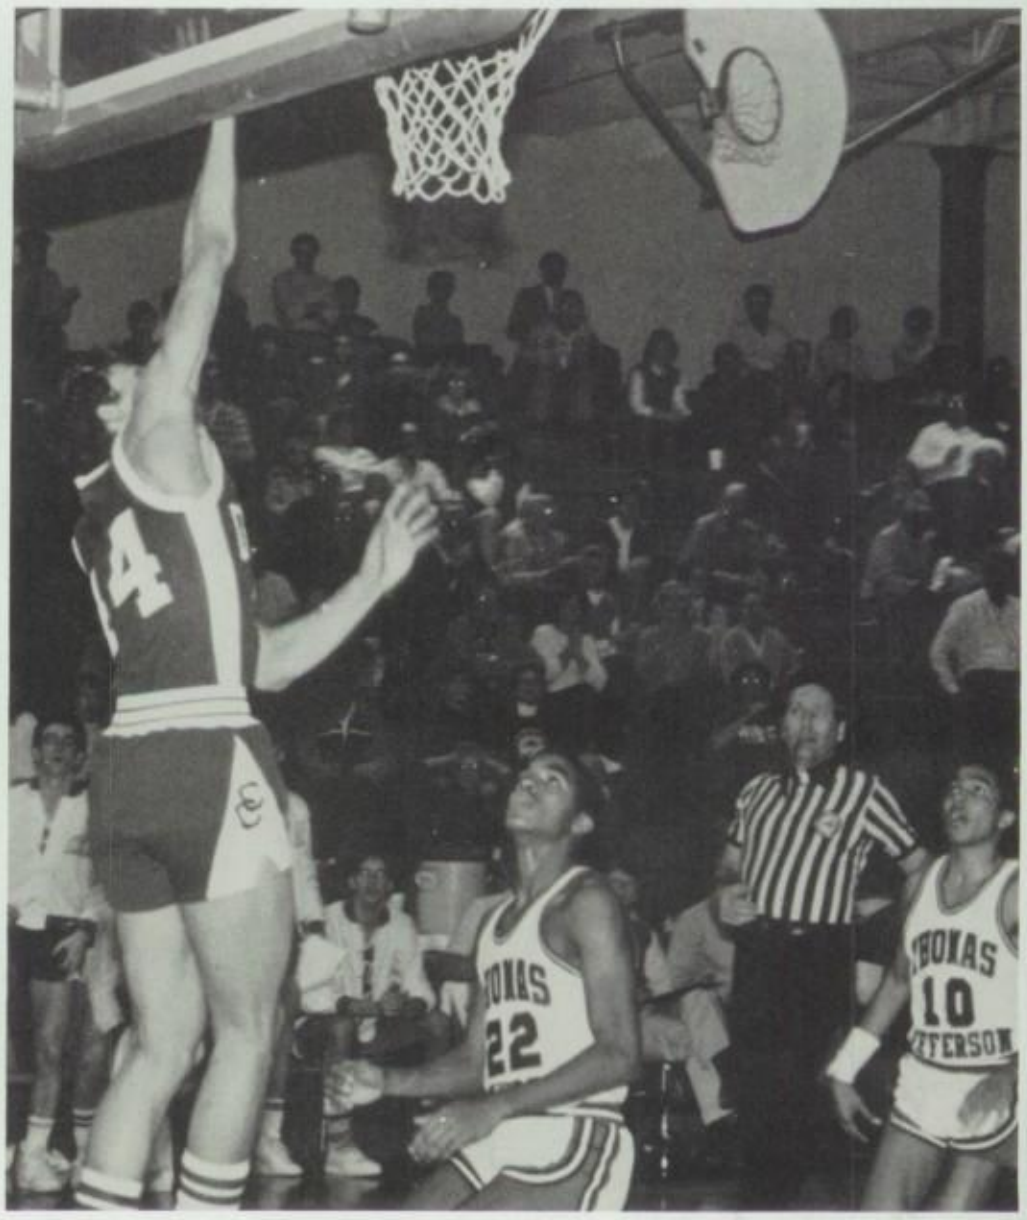
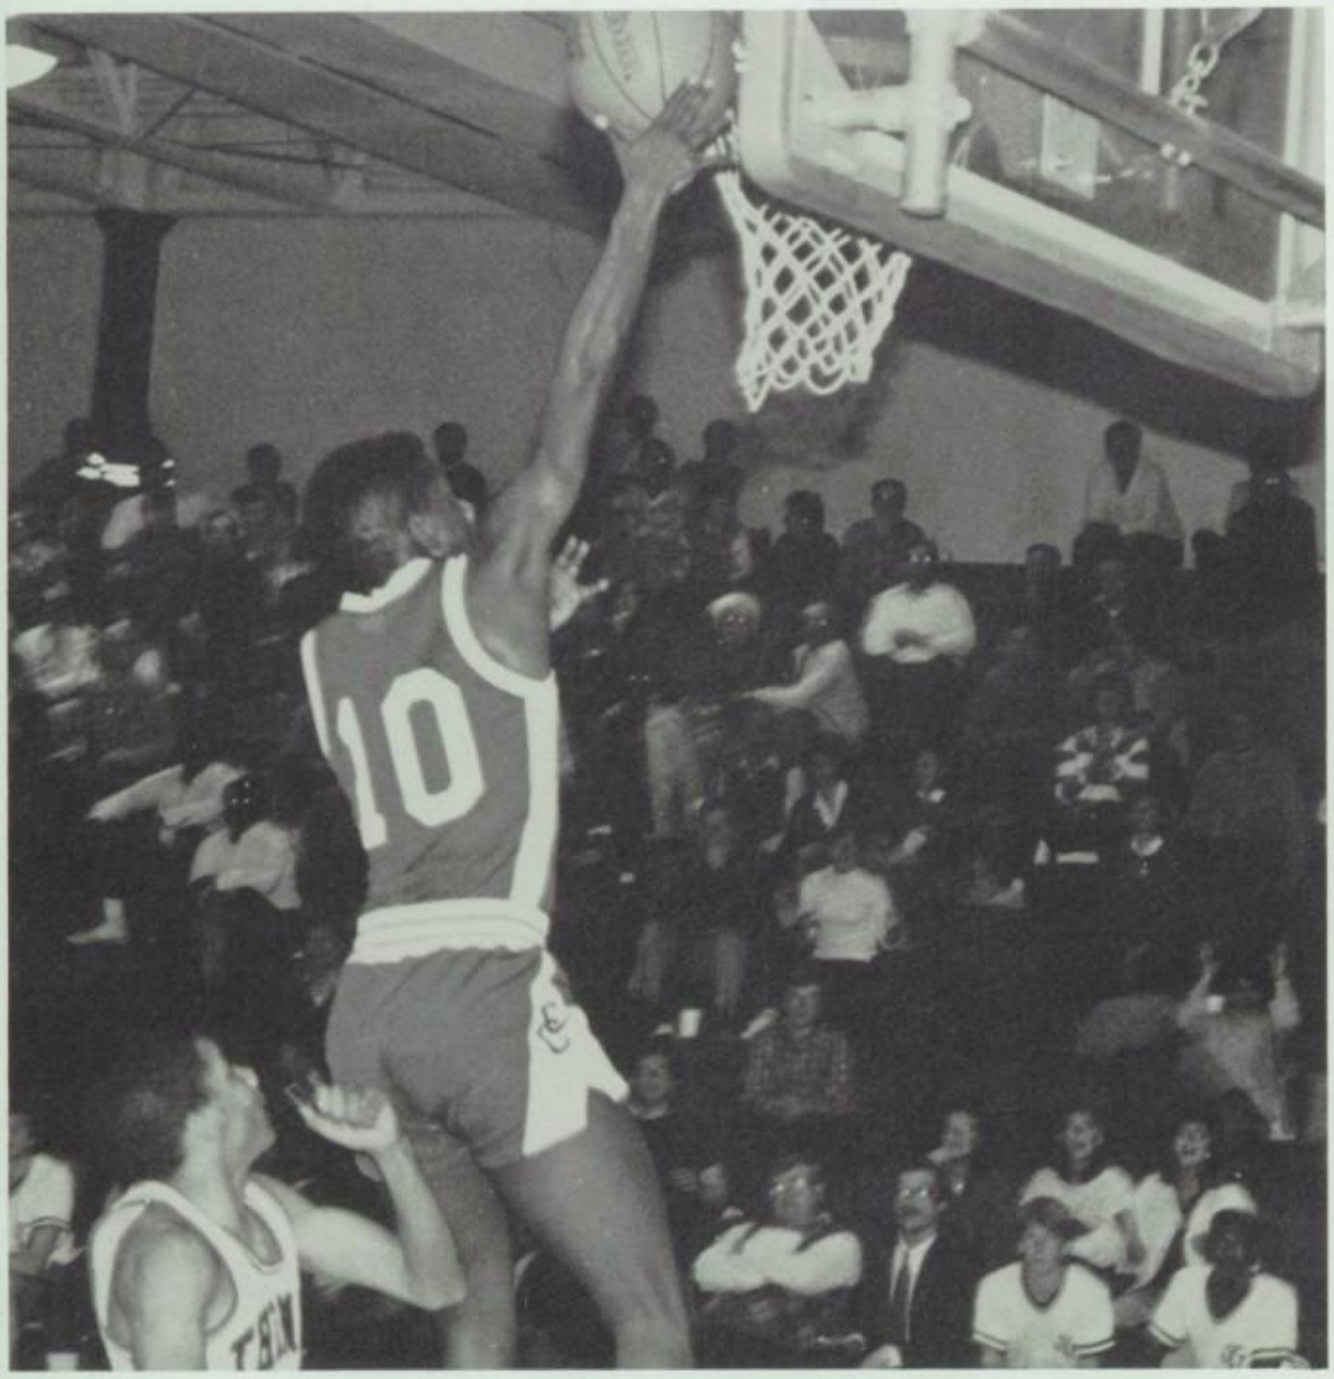
"After all the hard work during preseason . . . last place in the Christmas tournament? I guess Chantilly's Boys' Varsity team isn't going to do too well this year." That was the attitude of most of the Chantilly fans at the beginning of the season. But that didn't stop the Chargers. Led by Seniors Buster Peyton, Jeff Brown and Eric Finley, they pulled together and became more determined. Every player gave 100% to contribute to the Chargers' wins. It was a total team effort in all aspects of the game. According to the team members, "not losing a game at home" was the biggest plus during the season; it kept everyone's morale up. At the end of the season, the Chargers were named Potomac District Champs, proving to everyone (especially JEB Stuart) that they were for real. The Chargers then advanced to the Northern Region tournament to take on Mt. Vernon (That was definitely a barn burner!). When the game was over, the Chargers had established the fact that Chantilly was definitely one of the top ball clubs in the region. Although all players were important, three stood out: Dave Herbster, Potomac District MVP, Kevin Peyton, named to the 1st team in the Potomac District, and Jeff Brown, who received Honorable Mention to the All Northern Region team.

Chantilly was proud to have the Chargers end their season with a record of 14-9. C

Ed Lily hopes for a basket from a far away jump shot.

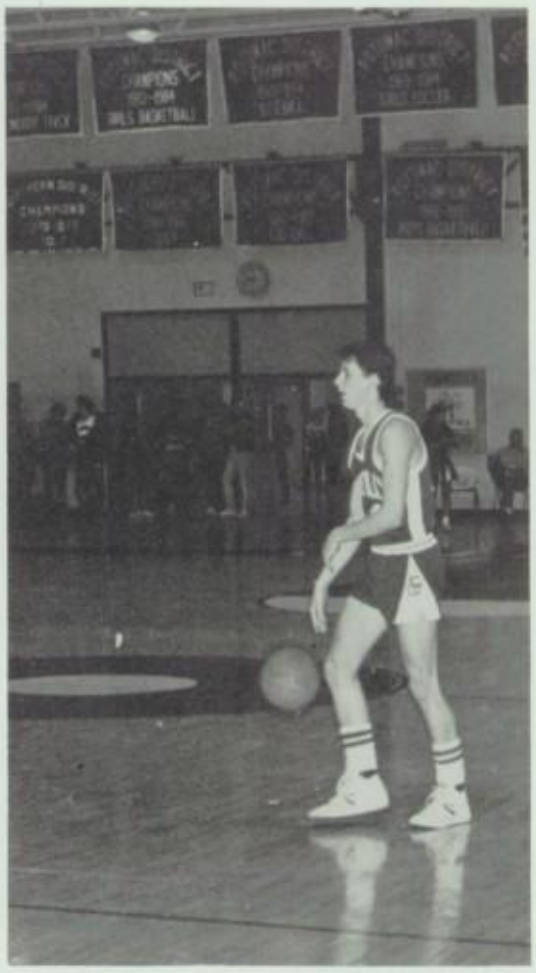


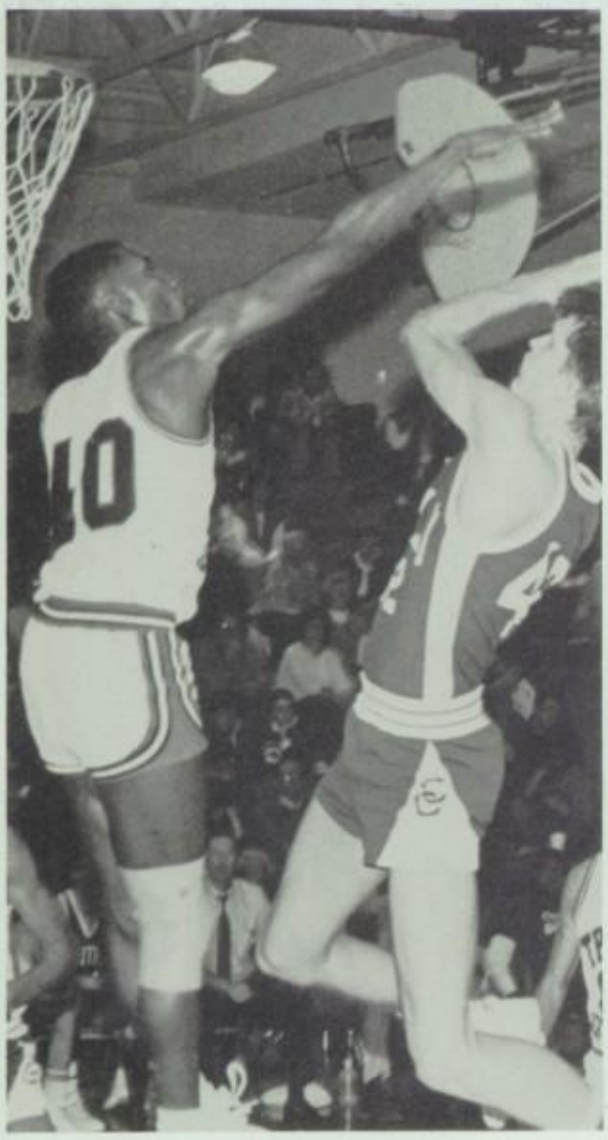
Jeff Brown intimidates an opponent by going after the ball.

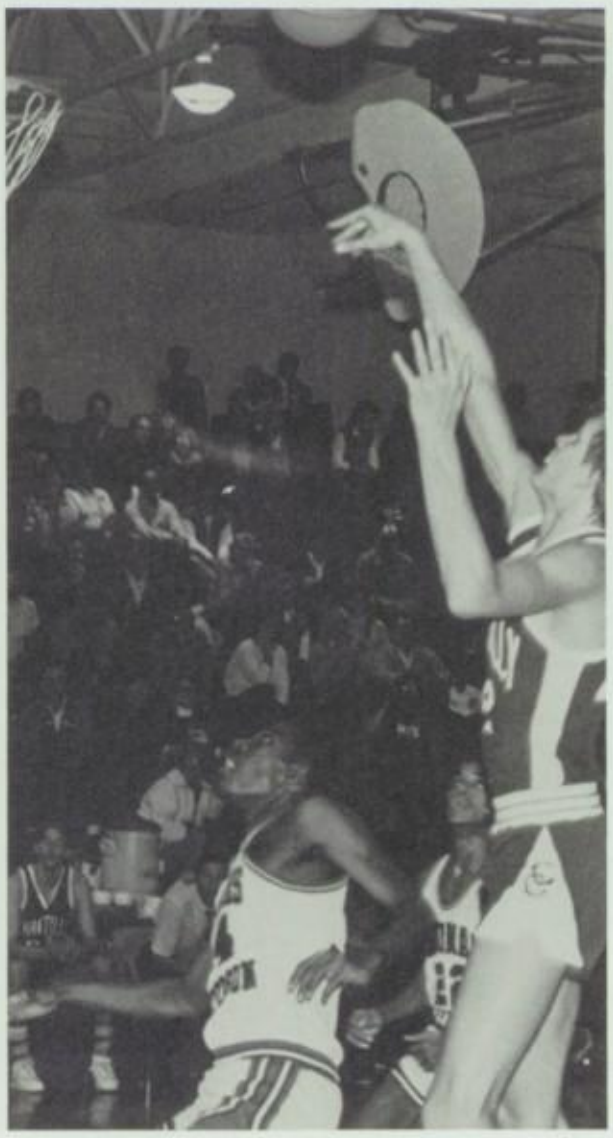


Buster Peyton does his job by keeping the offense fast-paced.

Jeff Brown waits for his other teammates to get in position.







David Herbster shows his fighting attitude by fighting for every point.

David Herbster concentrates on every aspect of the game.

Eric Finley is determined to get by his opponent.

Getting a Fresh Start

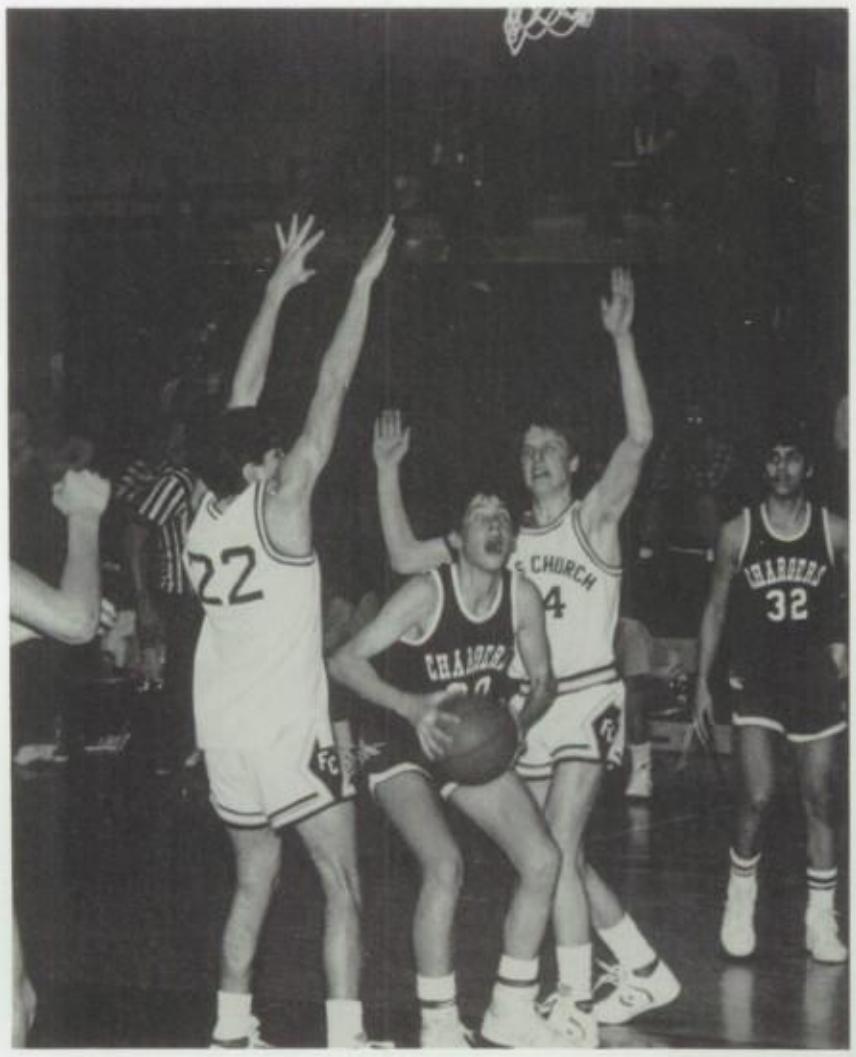
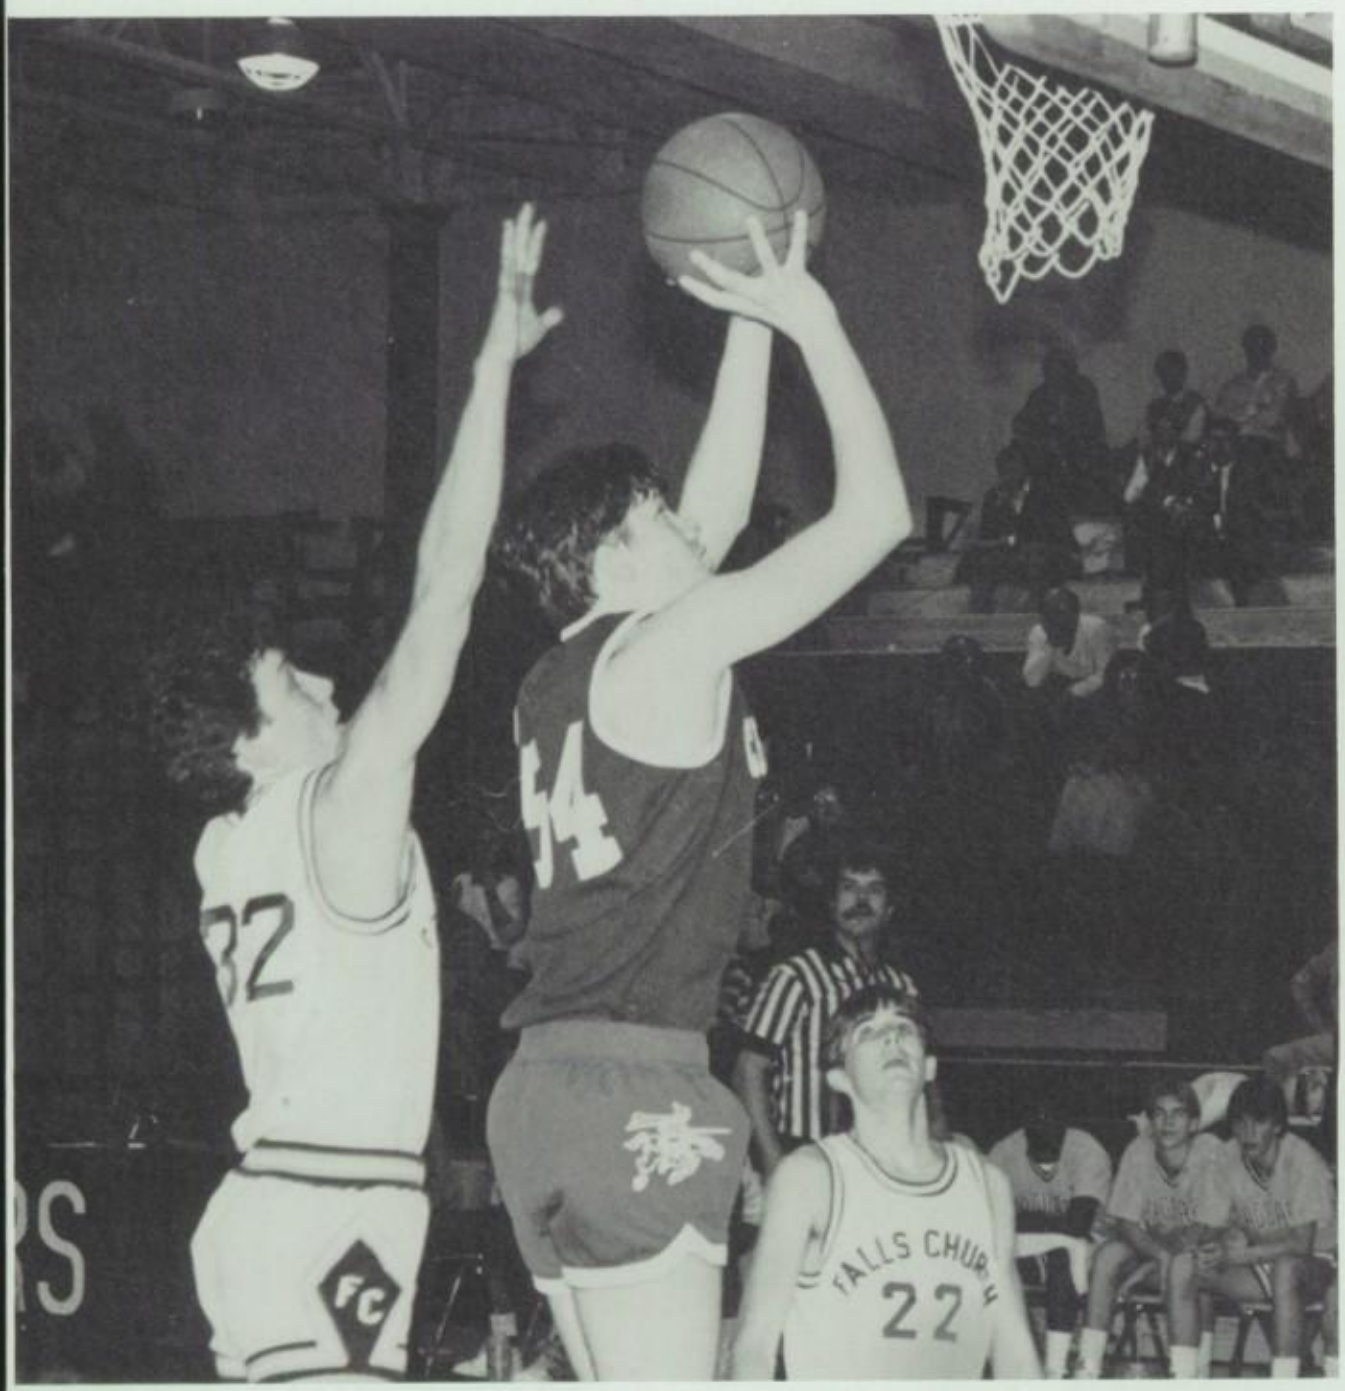
The JV basketball team had a very fulfilling, competitive season. Coached by Stan Meadows and led by Mike Brown, Jeff Boos, Greg Miller, Jeff Ryckert, and Craig Smith, the team had a series of very close games. For example, at mid-season the games that the team lost in the District were by a cummulative total of 9 points. The team concentrated on further developing their skills and game plans. The team alternated weeks, practicing at either 3-6 or 6-9 pm six days a week. They showed much determination and hard work during the entire season. A team member discussed a problem of the team, "Two of our starters were handicapped by injuries slowing down our scoring and rebounding capabilities." The JV basketball team was led by co-captains Mike Brown and Craig Smith who also led the team in scoring.

There were many sentiments about the team's season and record. The team was very young, and there were many new faces added to the team during the season. The co-captain Craig Smith summed up his feelings by saying, "This season we had a lot of new people and it was hard playing together at first. But after working on plays and practicing together, we really had a good season and worked together as a team." Besides all the district games, the team played many tough teams outside the District in the Northern Region. At the end of the season, the team had the standing of sixth in the District. Most of all the games played in the District were either won or lost by a very close margin. All the games were very fast-paced and involved many points and turnovers. All in all, the season was a building one, ending with good performances by all players. C



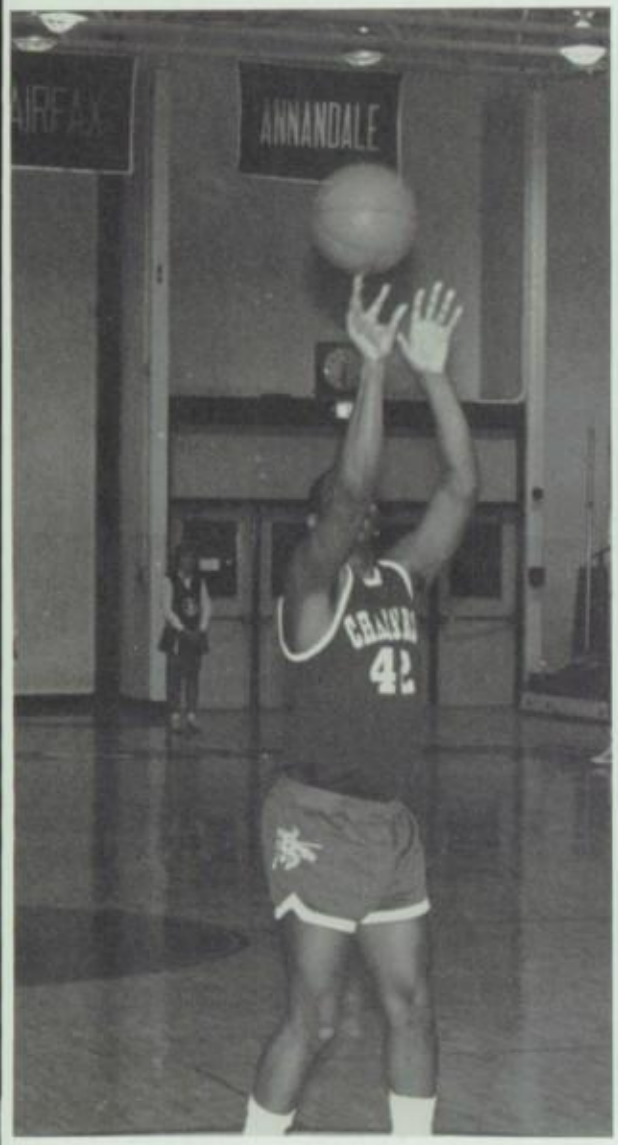
Heavily guarded, Mike Brown tries to get position in order to score.

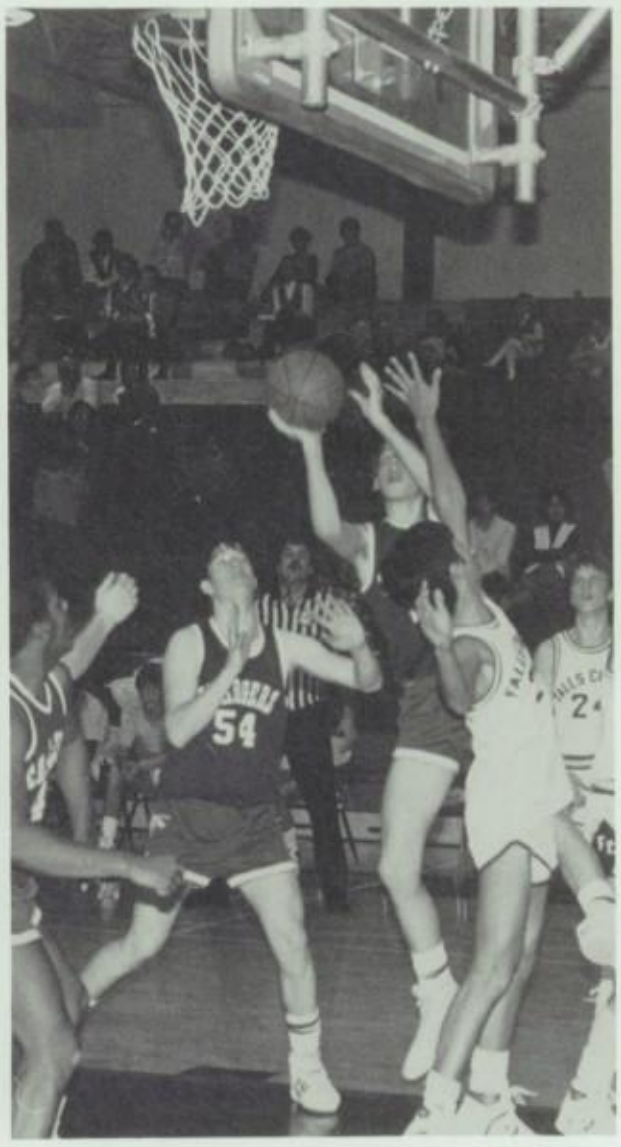
Moving down the court, Greg Miller, beats the other players down the court.



In mid-flight Brian Riley waits to see if his efforts produce a basket.

With the right opportunity, Craig Smith makes an attempt at a jump shot.





In total concentration, Lawrence Smith takes a foul shot while the team waits at the foul lines for the rebound.

In the thick of it, Jeff Ryckert, Greg Miller, and Lawrence Smith help each other.

Looking for a teammate, Jeff Boos attempts to throw the ball to another player.

Starting a Winning Tradition

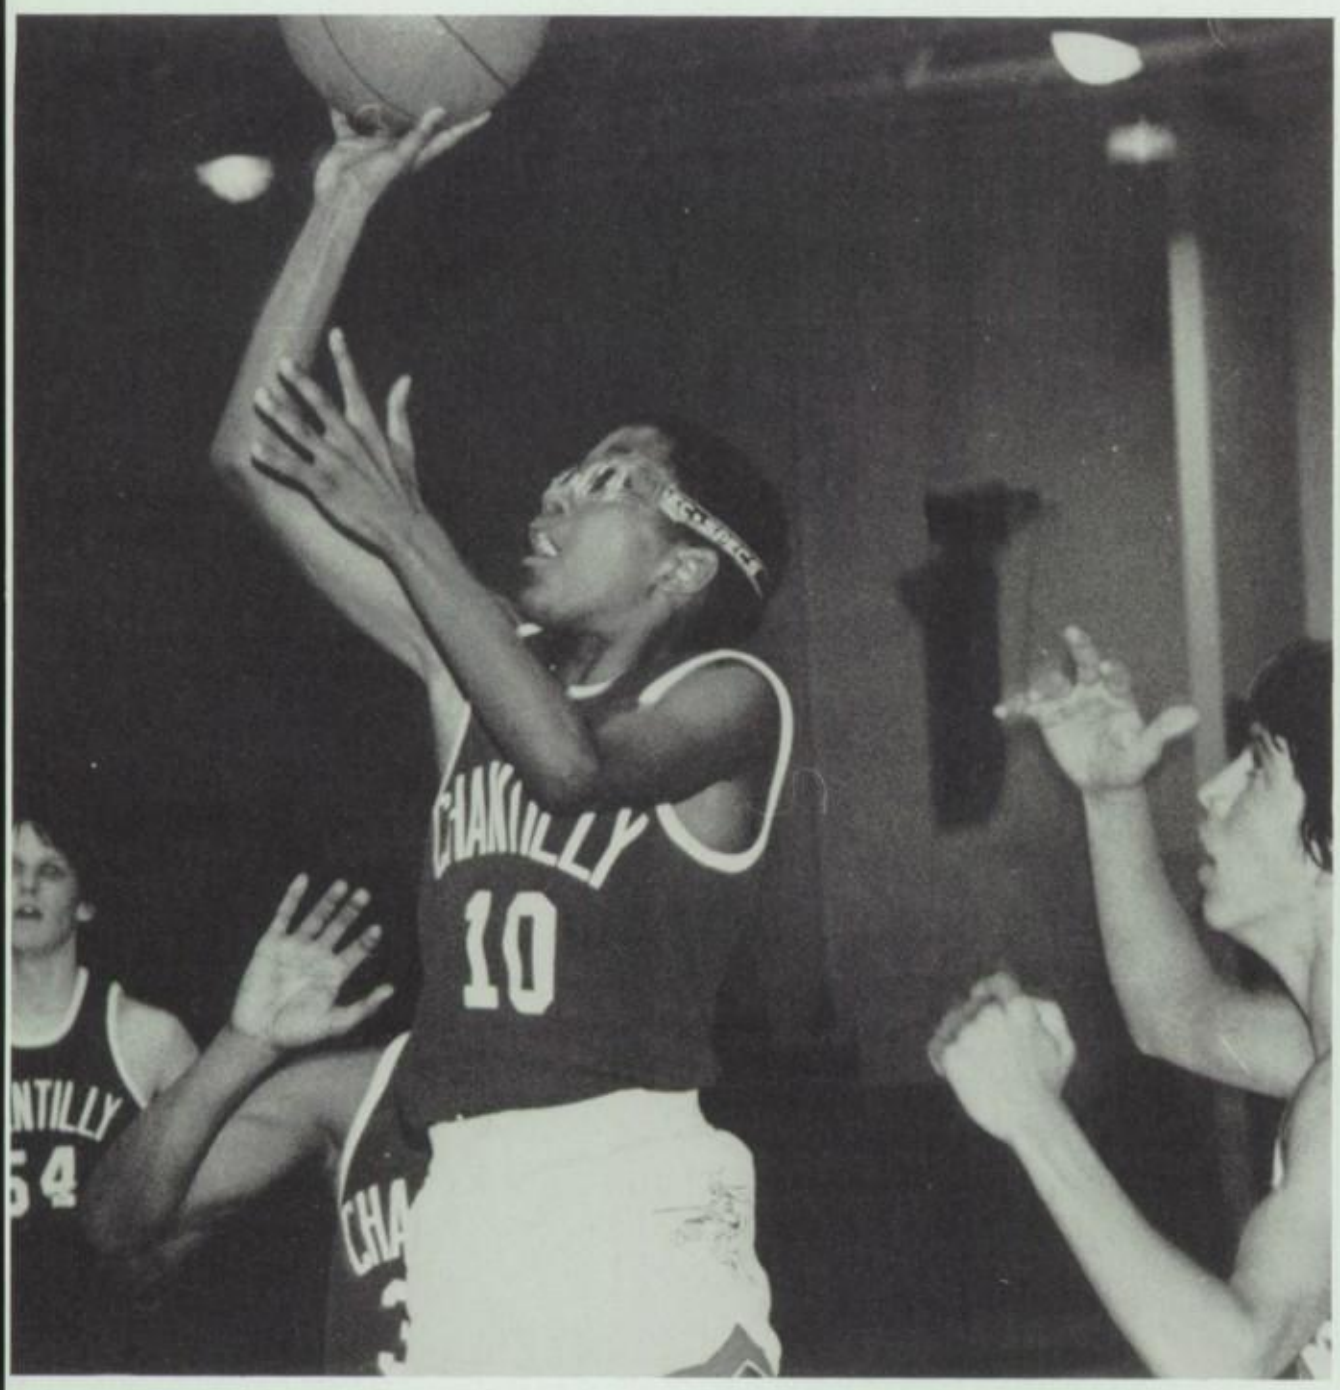
The Freshman basketball team started with a slow season, but in the end they had a very successful year. Under the coaching of Mr. Bill Reeder, at any given time, the team was able to stay in the top three positions in the District Competition. Every day after school they could be seen in Rocky Run's gymnasium going through their rigorous practices. These practices included drills and a lot of running. The team, indeed started a winning tradition. C

"The best part about Chantilly basketball is the team spirit. It is tense and emotional for the players, but it's the best feeling in the world when you come out on top." — Jon Havey

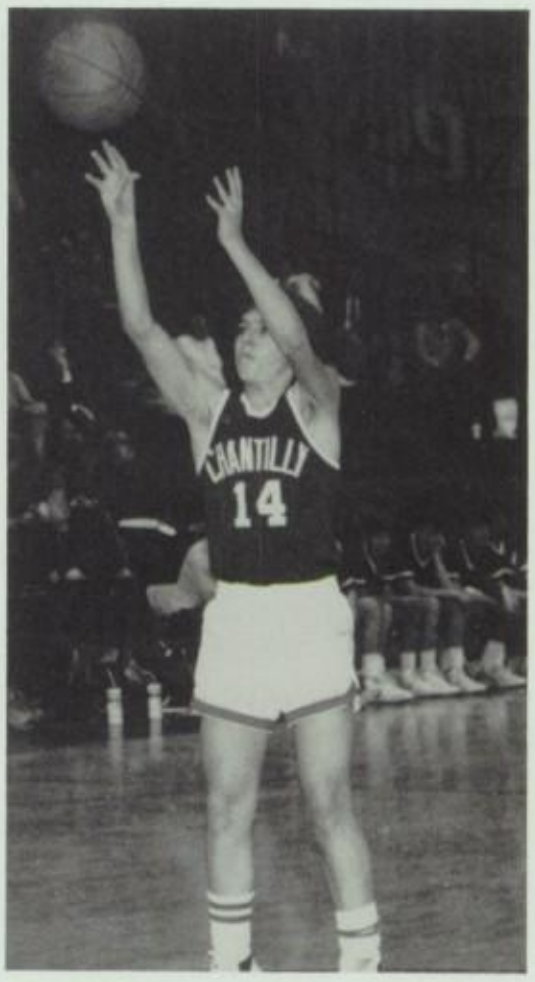
Eric Ford concentrates on passing the ball as he is blocked by an opponent.

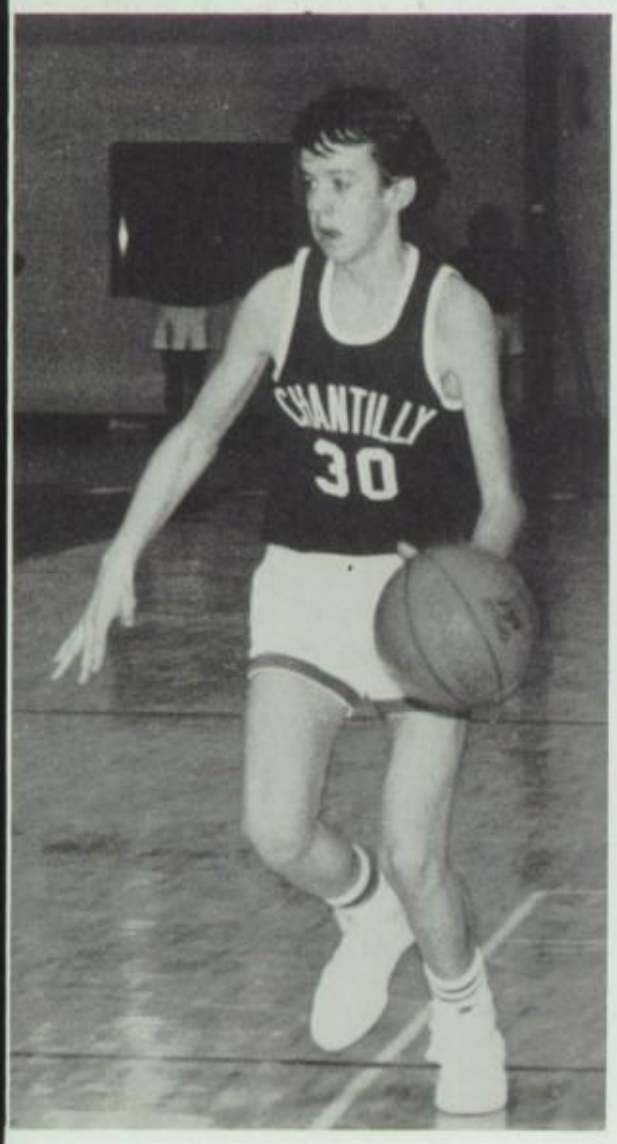
Watching the game intently, the freshman squad waits for the big play of the game.

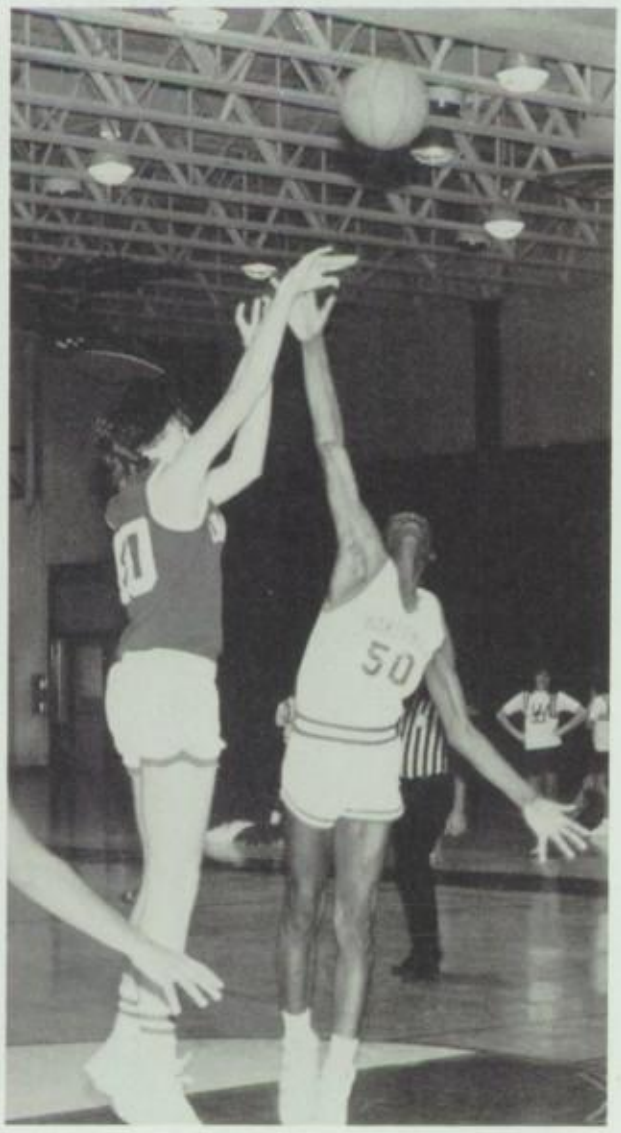


Russell Peyton rises above the rest of the players to make the winning basket.

Hoping for the best, Eric Ford shoots his technical foul as his teammates look on.







Chris Witeck dribbles down the court looking for someone he can pass the ball to.

With height to his advantage, Jon Havey easily makes the jump shot without being blocked.

Compromising Positions

Everyday at approximately 2:30, Chantilly's wrestlers started heading to the locker room. After changing, they would all meet in the wrestling room. At three o'clock the grueling workout began. After running or lifting weights, drills started. Then the live wrestling would begin. Finishing with conditioning, the practice would end approximately at five o'clock.

Chantilly's varsity wrestling season started out with a great turnout. Sixteen wrestlers qualified for the varsity level, and there were only thirteen weight classes to fill.

The wrestlers were very challenged this year not only by opponents but by their own teammates. More than half way through the season, they had only been defeated once.

One outstanding wrestler was ju nior, Alan Seymour.
Almost through the season he wa undefeated. He also placed first in th
Christmas Wrestling Tournament a Parkview.

The outlook for the team in th future is outstanding. C

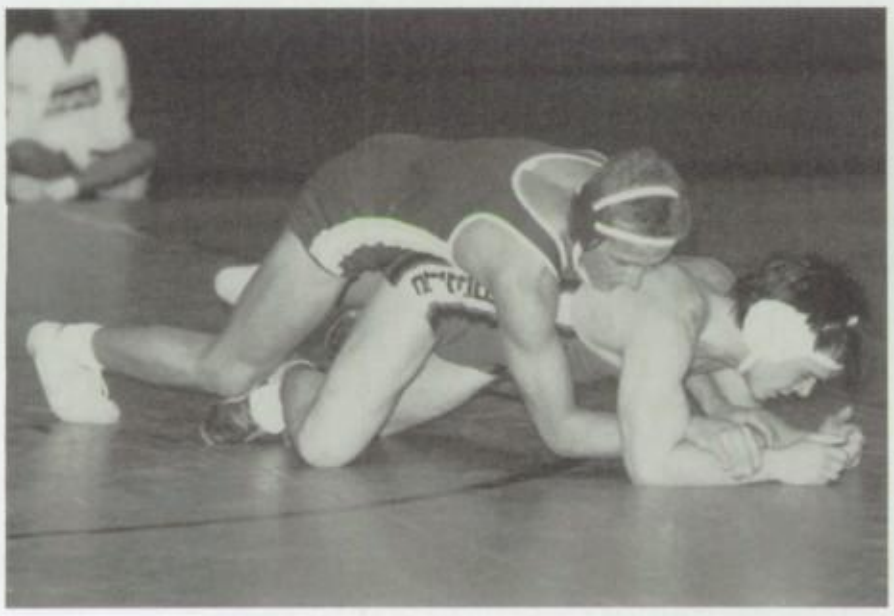
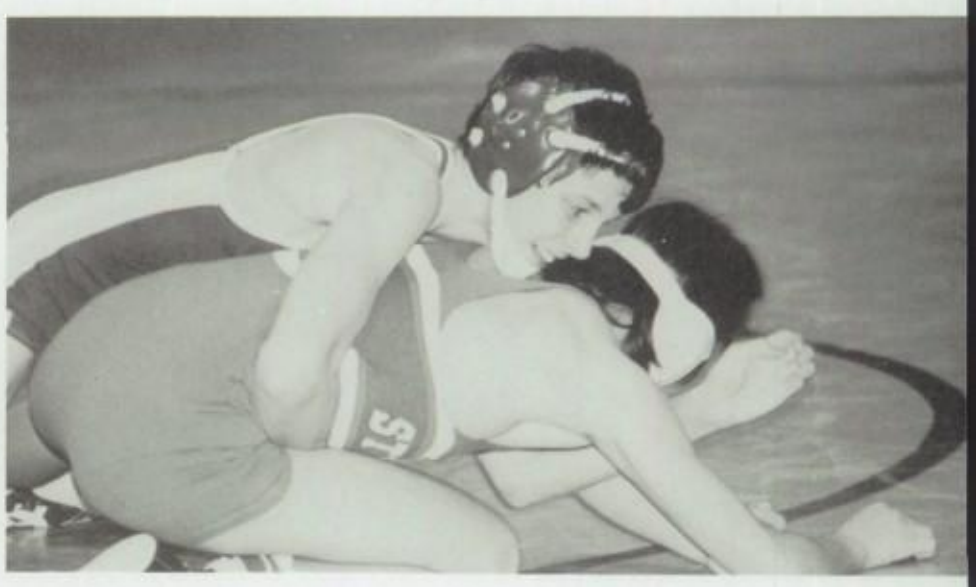
"Wrestling is a very demanding sport. For every match you have to beat two opponents — first the scale in making weight and second, your opponent."
— Coach Friend

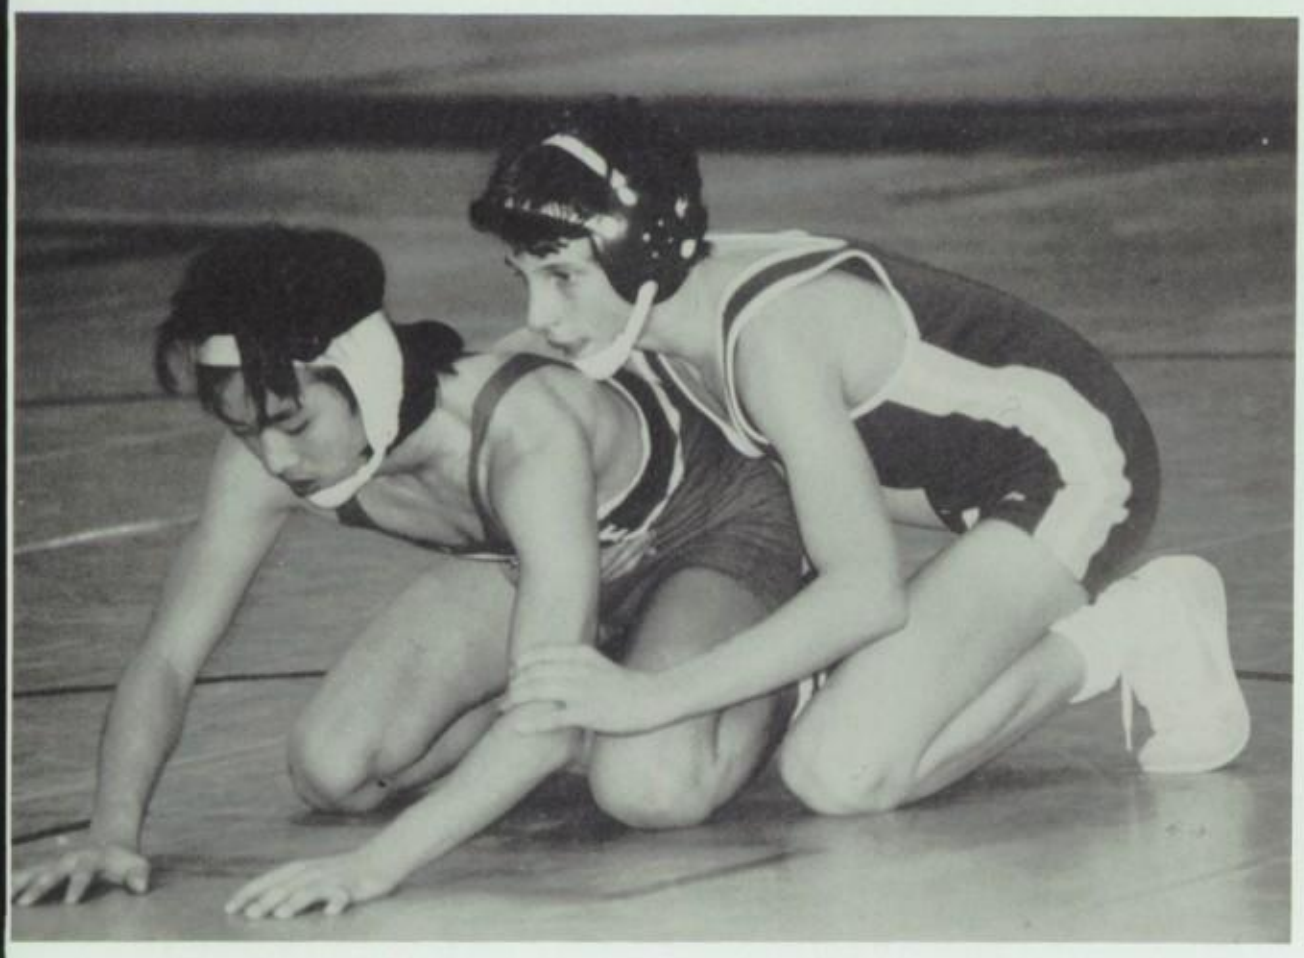


Ben Jeremiah gains the upper hand over his opponent at an important wrestling match.

Jon Gustin thinks about the upcoming match that will begin in a few minutes.

Mike Greenfield concentrates on what move he will make next.





Jon Gustin forces his opponent to the mat at one of many wrestling matches.

Mike Greenfield and his opponent wait for the signal from the referee to begin.

Bottoms Up

Rrrring! School was over but the wrestlers could not go home yet. They still had to go through two hours of practice. Even though it seemed like a lot of extra time, all the work paided off. It helped them to prepare for the 1986-87 wrestling season and the tryouts for the varsity team.

Every Wednesday plus on some Saturdays the wrestlers had matches or tournaments. These were very important events. At the matches one person in each weight class had an opponent. The object was to pin the opponent to the mat and gain points for the team. In some matches it would take less than a minute to pin an opponent. In others it would take three or four minutes. It all depended on how good the wrestler was and how good his opponent was. All the points were added up at the end of the match and the winning team was decided.

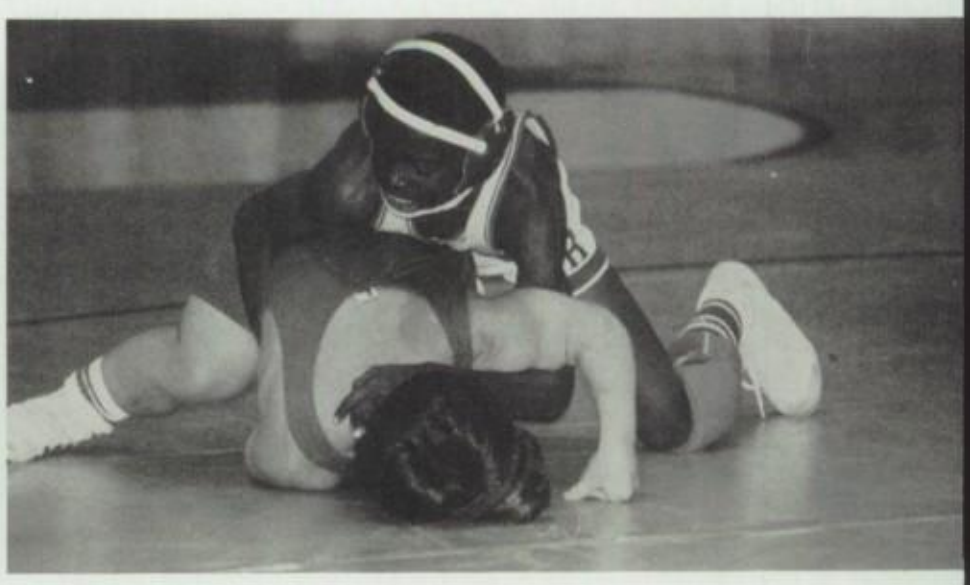
"Behind every good wrestler there is a refrigerator."
— Terry Alger

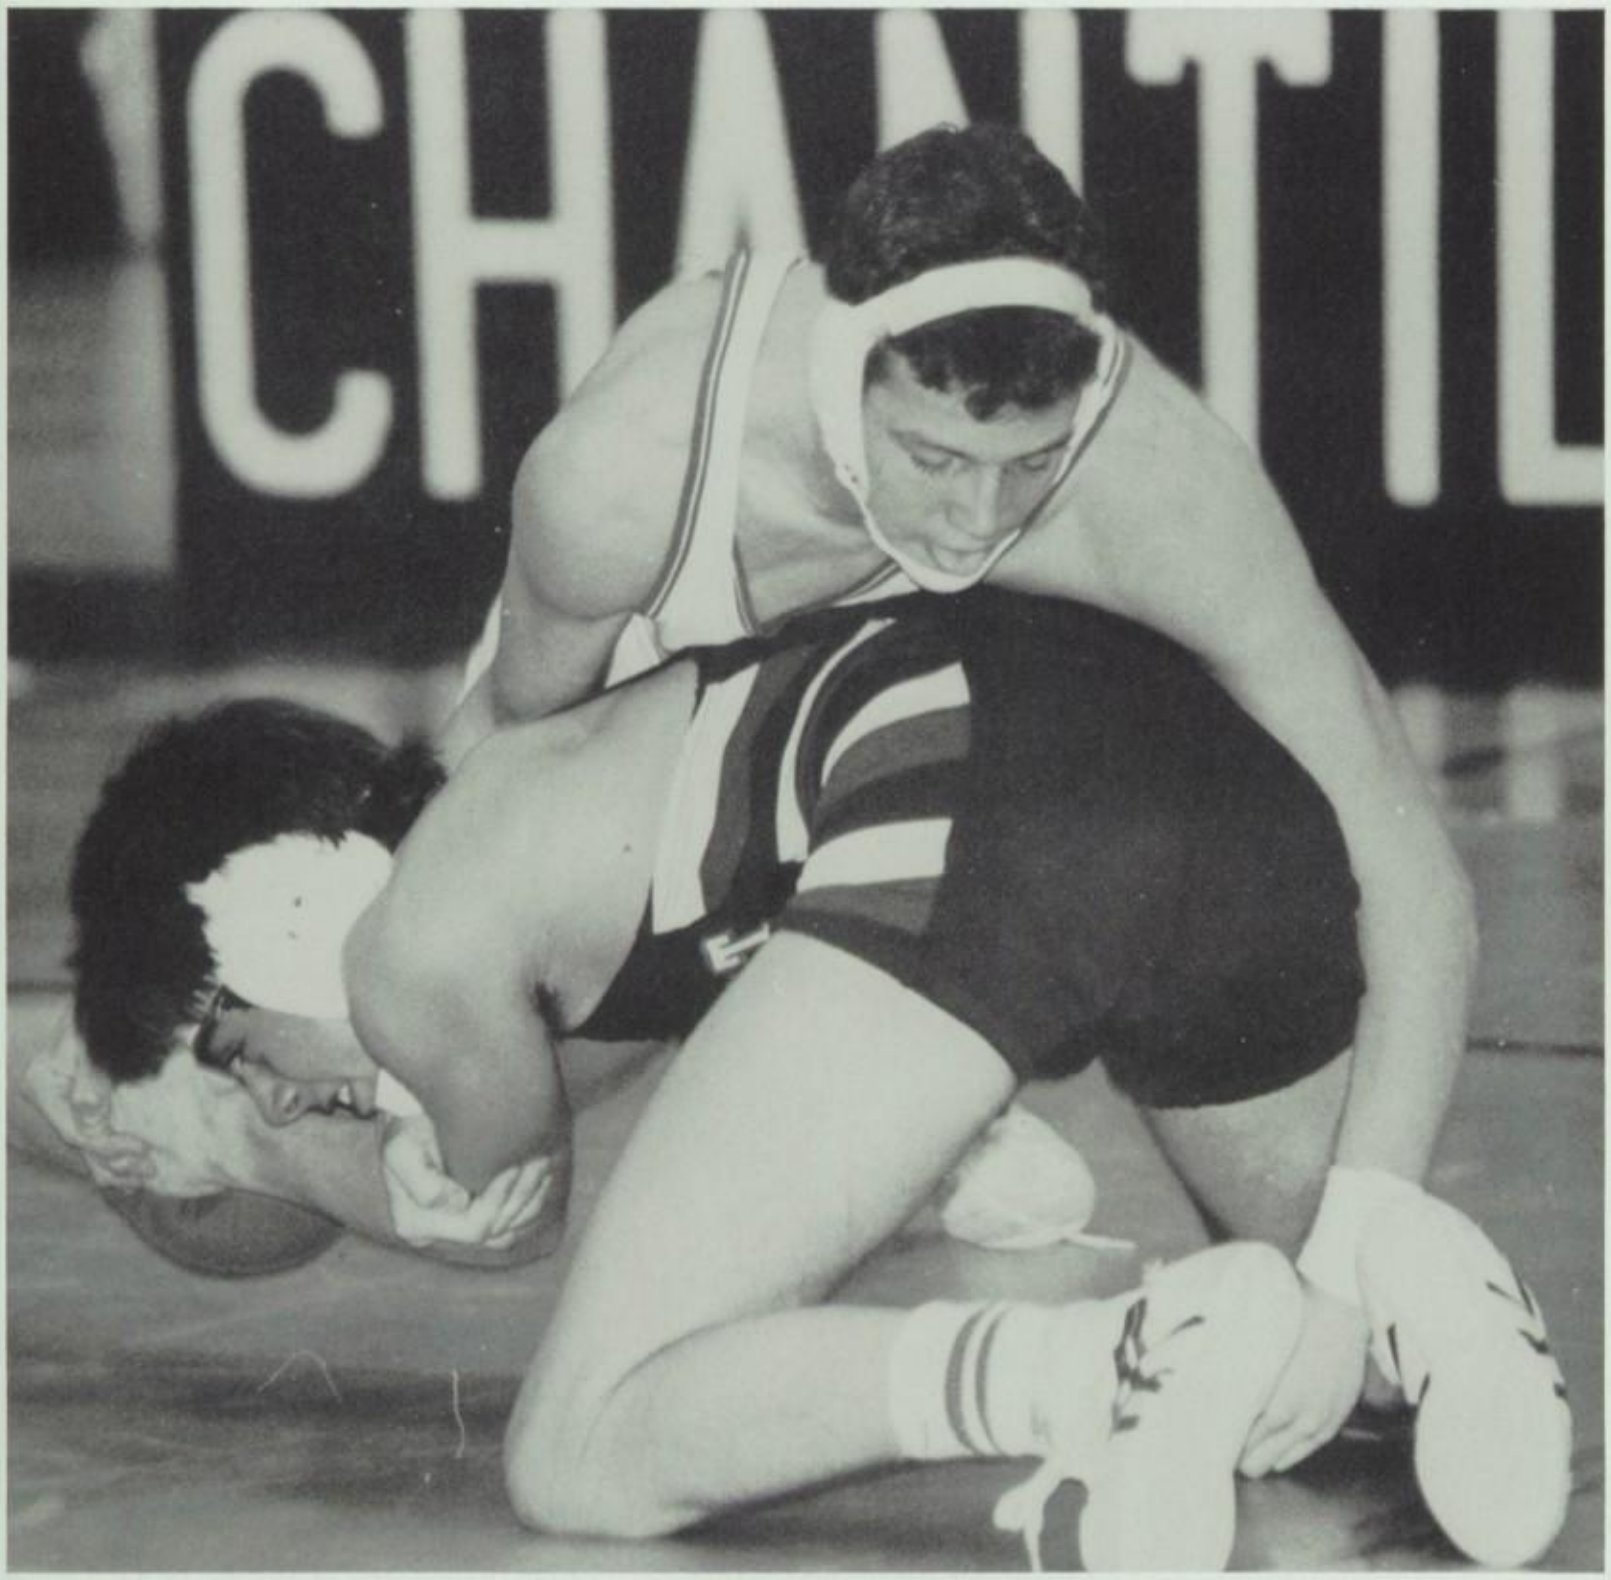
The Junior Varsity team did really well this season and the future of both the varsity and junior varsity teams are quite promising. C

Chris Agee struggles with his opponent, trying to win the match.

During a close moment, Terry Alger is able to pin his opponent to the mat.

Heading to a victory, Brian Johnson prevents his opponent from shifting positions.

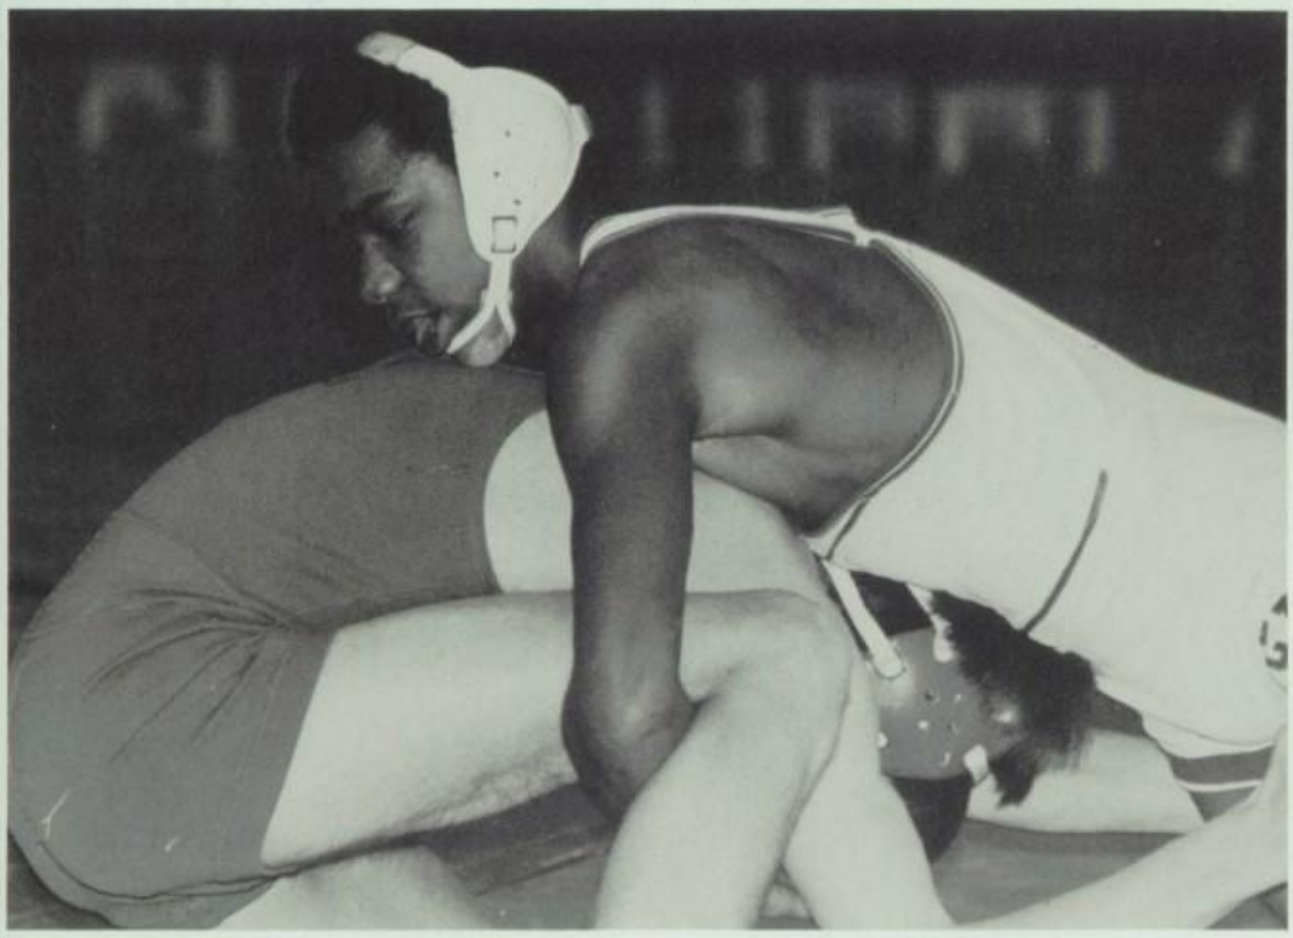




Wade Murphy gains, the upper hand over his friendly competitor.

Thinking about his next move, Tim Ewell is able to compromise his opponent during their match.

Don't these two wrestlers look like the best of friends!



Boys' and Girls' Indoor Track

On the Right Track

Bang! Bang! Bang! The echoing of the gun was common at Thomas Jefferson, Robinson, Episcopal and GMU where the meets were held. The sound signified the beginning for the Boys' and Girls' Indoor Track team. The boys team had a strong season. Under the training of a new coach, Mr. Kincaid, they surprised everyone in the Potomic District. Stuart, who had been District champions, had a tough contender to deal with this year. There were some outstanding performances by several members, such as David Patterson who set a school record (2:33). Other school breakers were Scott Kemp (55 hurdles & high jump), Derek Childress (PR shot put 45'11"), and Byrant Hatcher (55 dash). However, the girls had their own highlights. This year John Caslin, the coach, had a new addition — Dawn Platt, the asst. coach. The team who had been District Champions over the last 3 years, continued to put out excellent performances, Amy Colvin broke the GMU Invitational 1600 M record with the time 5:01. Sarah Colvin ran her PR 3:05 in the 1000 M. The sprinters scored many points for the team. Sue Bessette (9.5 — 55 hurdles) and Debbie Ganster (9.2 — 55 hurdles) contributed 4 years of hard work.

Getting to the top was not easy. They ran vigorous intervals in rain, snow, or wind. Both have brought pride to Chantilly.

To Victory

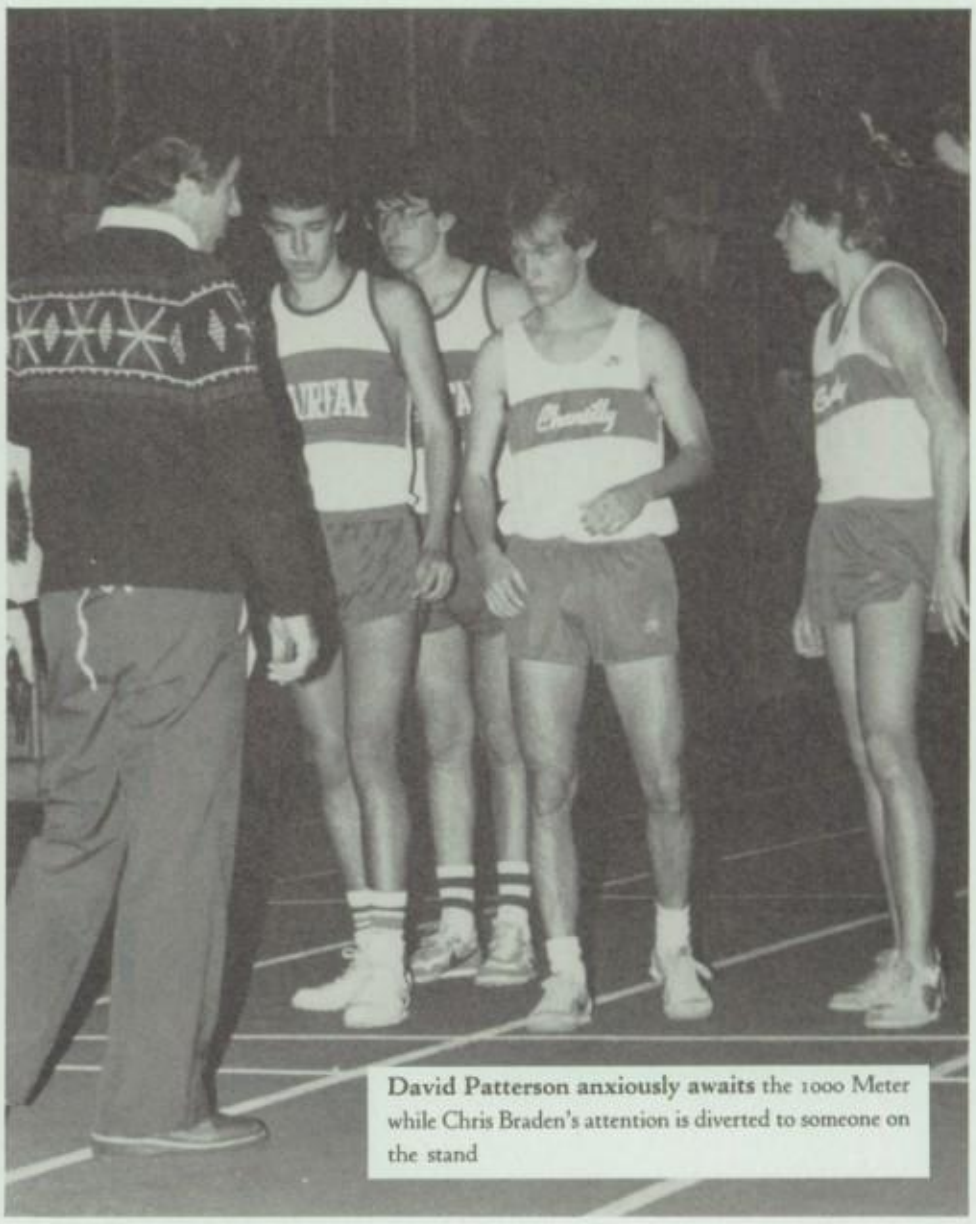
This was the year of winners for the boys and girls track team. The girls won their fourth consecutive Potomac District Championship. The boys progressed and captured third.

However, certain individuals put out excellent performances. They made it all the way to State. Amy Colvin placed first in the mile at Regional and State, where she beat top national runner, Erin Keogh. She was ranked second in the 2 mile at State and nationally. Sarah Colvin ran fourth in the region and fifth in the state in the 1000 M. Kathy Leslie finished sixth in the 55 dash at Regional which qualified her to run trials at State. When individuals were combined the result was the girls mile relay team which consisted of Sue Bessette, Debbie Ganster, Sarah Colvin, and Rhonda Maier. The team ranked third in the region and fifth in the state. Overall, the girl's team finished second in the nation. The guys also did well. David Patterson came in first in the district and second in the state in the 1000 M. Herdon Henderson got fifth in the state in the 500 M. C

Julie Gwinn, Kathy Leslie, Sarah Colvin, John Caslin, Sue Bessette, Amy Colvin, Debbie Ganster, and Rhonda Maier proudly presents the trophy to Mr. Keim

Gliding easily over the hurdles, Sara Kinneberg breezes past Kathy Moretta, Jamie Boyd, and Chrissy Storer.

Not letting up, Kevin Rubink stays on the tails of Stuart's runner.



David Patterson anxiously awaits the 1000 Meter while Chris Braden's attention is diverted to someone on the stand

It all started early in November. When everyone else turned toward the ski slopes, fifty-seven students still had ideas of breaking waves — those of a swimming pool. Under coaches Mary Huntley and Kevin Foley, as well as Bill York, the diving coach, swim team practices were held every day after school from 3:00 to 6:00. The usual workout consisted of swimming two miles, and meets were held usually on Friday nights or Saturday mornings. Team captains Doug Hamlin and Ann Secules led both the boys and girls to countless victories in their meets. Outstanding swimmers included David Free and Doug Hamlin in freestyle, Greg Holland in the all-around, Scott Santucci in the butterfly, and Drew Bilisoly in the breastroke. Exceptional girls included diver Joelle Berry, Lisa Raines in the all-around, Margaret Welch in the freestyle and breastroke, and Michelle Cyran in the backstroke. Everyone worked long, hard hours and combined their talent into a swim team to be proud of — swimming circles around the competition!

"It's a lot of hard work and takes a lot of dedication; if you're able to put up with the work and hours, in the long run, it's well worth it." Allan Crawford

HEAD over HEELS in the POTOMAC DISTRICT

1985-86 Varsity Girls Gymnastic Team
Row 1: Jennifer Chipps, Blake Ford, Sarah Dyer, Christine Johnes, Bronnie Alt.
Row 2: Debbie Levine, Kristen Pollard, Jeanine Perron, Stephanie Horn, Ashley Waligura.

After winding down a 2nd consecutive championship season in the Potomac District, Chantilly's Varsity Girl's Gymnastics team had made a very high status in regional competitions. Starting out the season with a strong finish in the South Lakes Invitational gave the team an extra incentive throughout the season. Also, winning the Washington Lee Invitational showed District and Regional teams that Chantilly was coming on strong in the sport of gymnastics.

This year's team was one of the strongest ever with four members, Blake Ford, Jennifer Chipps, Stephanie Horn, and Jeannine Perron, being all-around gymnasts. Strong performances on floor came from juniors Sarah Dyer and Debbie Levine also contributing strong routines on bars and vault. Returning freshman from last year were Kristen Pollard, with excellent beam and floor routines, and Christine Johnes. The newest members to the winning team were Heatehr Woods, Ashley Waligura and Bronie Alt, all giving excellent routines on the beam bars, and vault. Ashley Walguara summed up the team as "being a lot of fun but a lot of work"

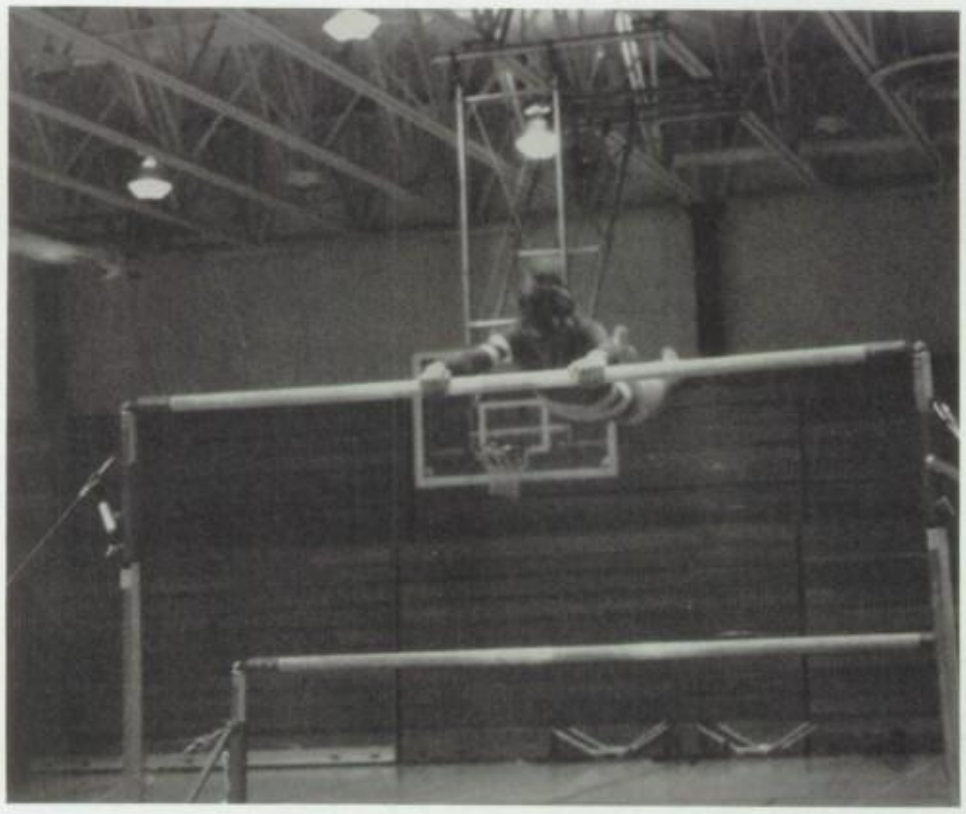
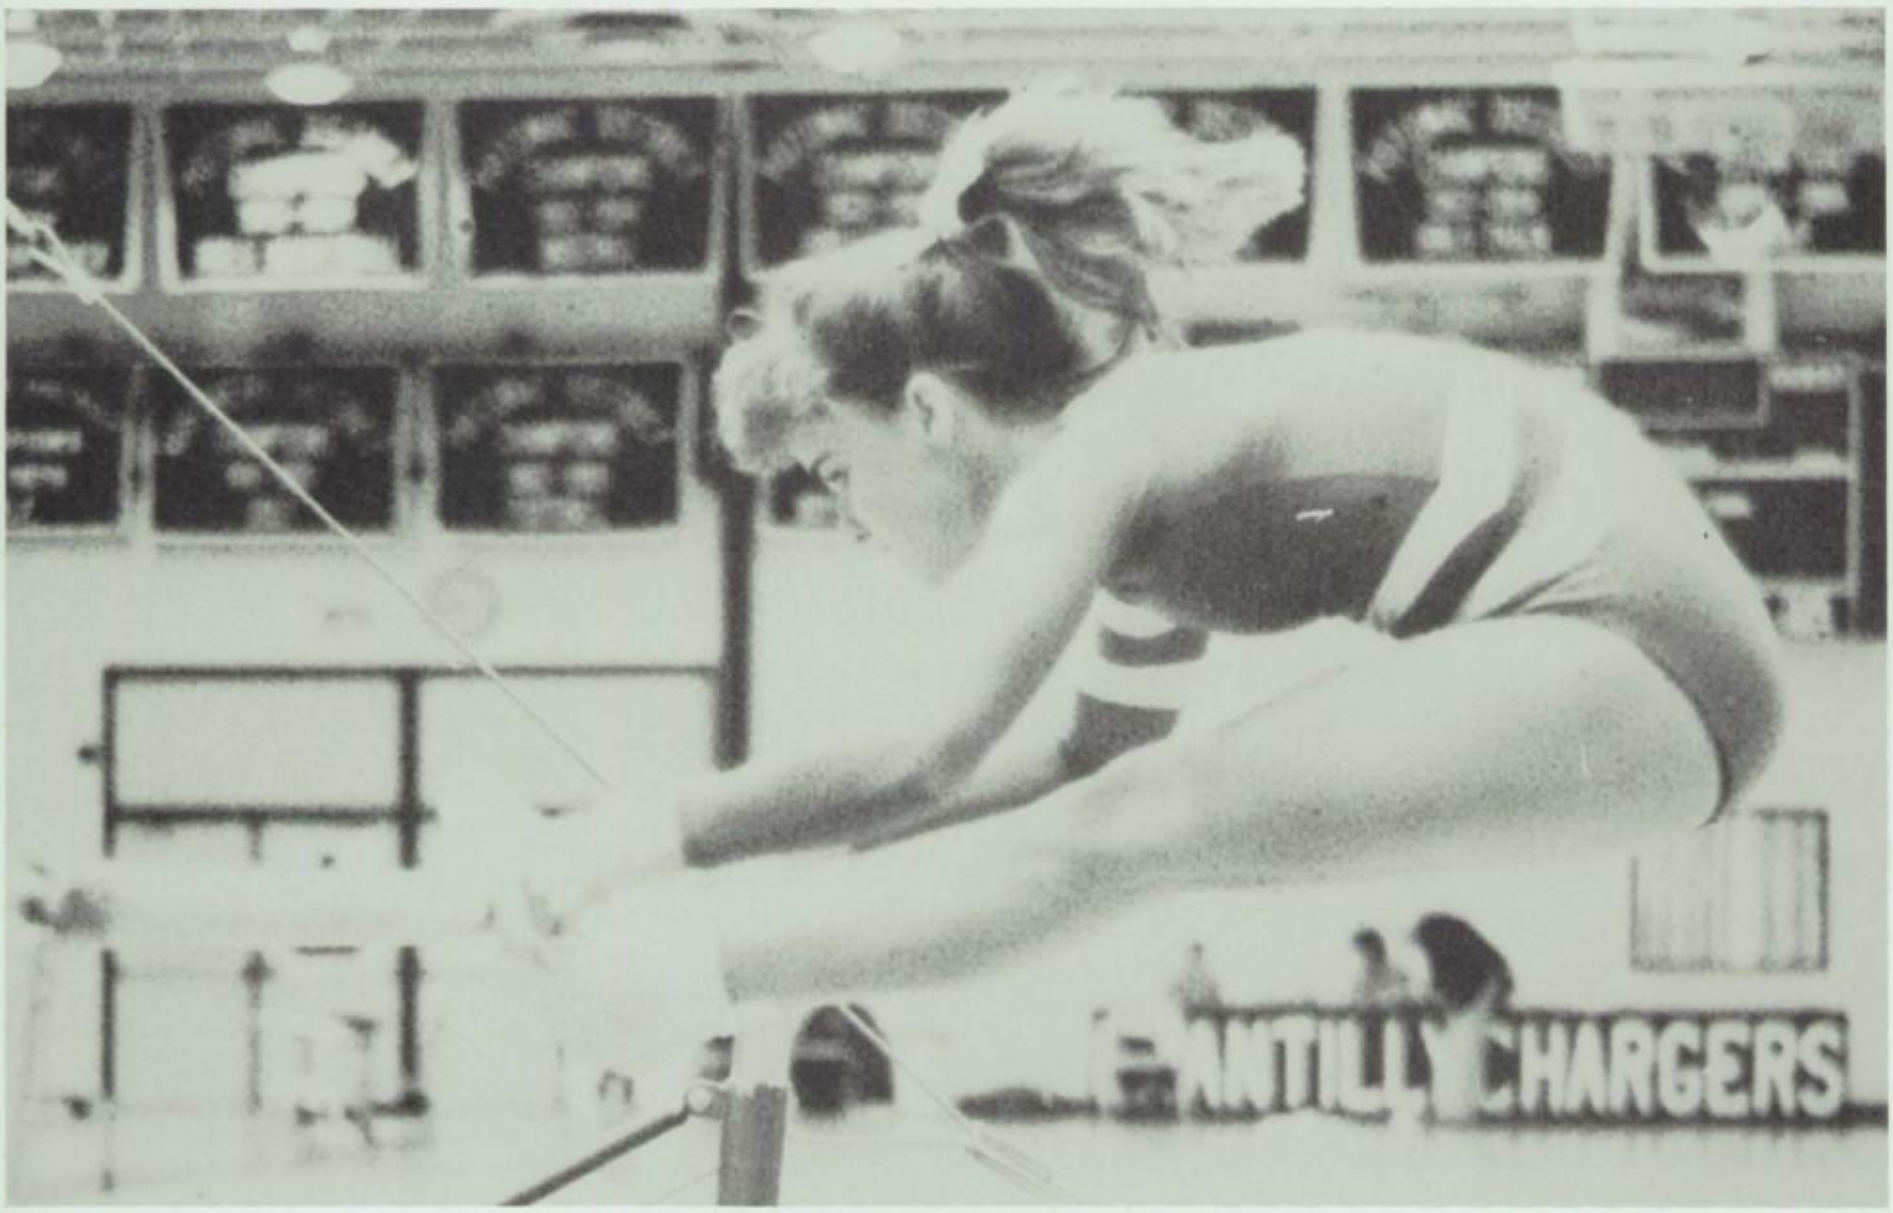
Seniors Stephanie Horn and Jennifer Chipps also agreed. C



Casting out, senior, Stephanie Horn performs a cast from the high bar to get ready for her dismount.

To walk on hands, sophomore, Kristen Pollard executes a nice handstand on floor to move on into a pirouette.



Swinging solo, sophomore, Jeanine Perron executes a Sole Circle on the low bar as a connecting move for the rest of her routine.

Outside, inside, in between, senior, Jennifer Chipps performs an in-bar kip before moving on into her superior dismount.

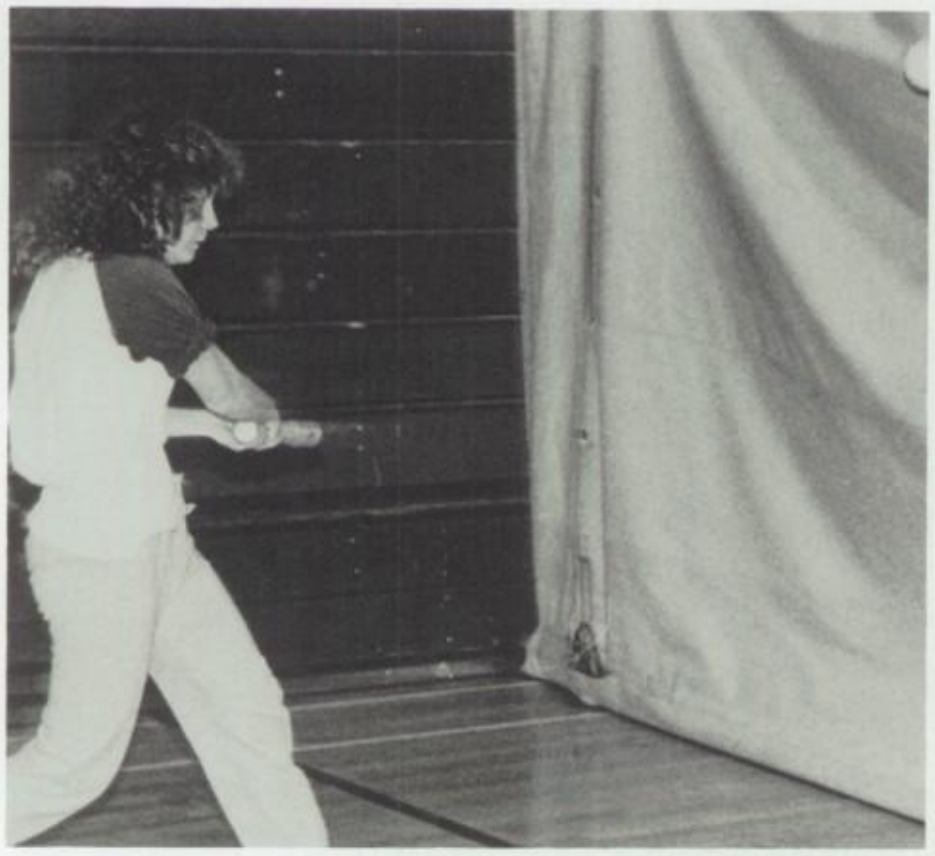
Alive and Swingin'



A Lady Charger practices her follow-through during practice. She knows that the follow-through and wrist-rolling are the parts of a swing that gives a hitter power.

The Chantilly Girls Softball season started very early this year. It was hard to always find practice space, but they managed to fine some space (be it in the lobby, the wrestling room, the hall, or the smoking court), anywhere, to get the team perpared. They got into good condition fast by doing many agility drills, and lots of running. But it all paid off. The CHS girls played hard in the District, challenging everyone in their path to the District Title. The girls really played together well as a team. Seniors keeping the team together and making many contributions were Julie Dickson, Terri Hickman, Mary Walsh, and Chris VanOster.

Other key team members were Tammy Hall, Angie Grasso, Karla Von Gonten, Donna Bester, Lisa Martinez, Tara Cox, and Heather Edwards. C

"We're a young team, but if everyone works hard and pulls together, we'll be hard to beat in the District."

— Coach Randolph

With all the talent and continued effort the girls put forth this year, the Chantilly Softball team had a very successful season.

Karla Von Gonten and Heather Edwards demonstrated how to effectively practice hitting indoors when the weather outside is bad.

Playing the Field

Players Blair Judd, Steve Grannis, Wade Murphy, Ben Jeremiah, Robbie Loder, Ian Brown, Bobby King, and Jim Fitzgerald take "time out" to pose for the camera.

As spring approached, the Varsity and Junior Varsity of C.H.S. began practice once again with Varsity Coach Womble and J.V. Coach Haas.

Through all kinds of weather, the baseball teams were working hard for two hours every day — hitting, running, and fielding — to produce a team Chantilly could be proud of.

This year's Varsity team was a veteran ball club, led by returning players Jim DeProspero, Ryan Jackson, Keith Walmsley, Matt Huling, and Terry Warren, Rick Alexander and John Fletcher were also very good this year, and challenged all able opponents for the District title. From the beginning, all the players "caught" that true baseball spirit, which continued throughout the season to help them become successful baseball teams. C

"We have most of our players returning this year, which means we have the experience and the potential to 'take it all.' Now all it depends on is how bad we want it."

— Jim DeProspero

Jim DeProspero, Carl Gryczynski, Ryan Jackson, John Fletcher, Ricky Alexander, and Matt Huling listen in as Jim "Morrison" Fitzgerald plays the revised edition of "Take Me Out to the Ball Game."

BATTER UP!

"Who's on first??" Kevin Walmsley successfully attempts to save a wild throw.

"What's on second??" Ray Tricarico winds up to throw the ball back to his partner.

"I don't know which person should be on third" — Ricky Alexander tests to see if his arm is good enough, while John Fletcher looks on.

Today a catcher, tomorrow a pitcher — only Ricky Alexander knows how true that thought is.

Batter Jim DeProspero gets ready to "show his teammates where he lives."

The end of February, girls put on their cleats and strutted their stuff. Many practices were held indoors because of snow, rain, and freezing temperatures. But despite the cold, several freshman and sophomores had the skill and quality to make the varsity team. Freshman Denise Benitez and Ruth Tait, sophomores Jenny Sizemore and Amy Watson made it. Both J.V. and Varsity teams worked long, hard hours to improve their game skills and anticipated winning the District Championship. Varsity had three Virginia State players. They were Sherrie McManus, Shannon Anderson and Ruth Tait. Leading the Varsity team with skill and long-time experience were seniors Kristi Gwin, Ann Ball, Sherrie McManus, Shannon Anderson, Kirsten Robinson, Jenny Mulqueen and Lisa Clark. Two of these players played all four of their years at Chantilly. They were Captains Shannon Anderson, and Kirsten Robinson. Also as captain was Jenny Mulqueen.

"There is a lot of spirit and talent on the team. We're hoping to take Districts this year."
— Shannon Anderson

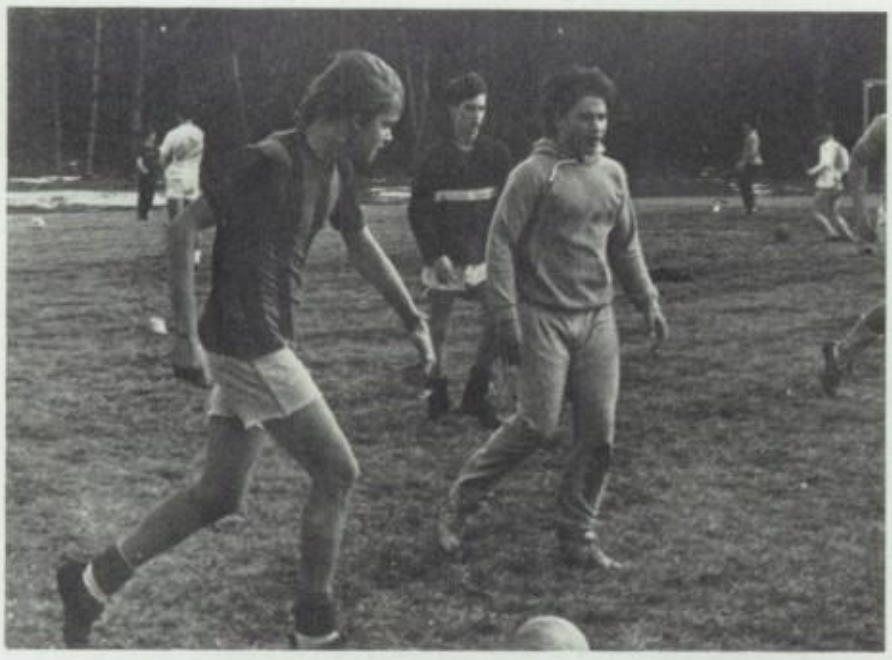
Var./J.V. Soccer

"On The Ball . . . "



The 1986 Soccer season was a year of change and transition. Key players graduated in vital positions that had to be filled. The prospects, however, looked good. Fred Pechin's 1985 varsity squad finished in the second round of the regionals which was the best finish ever for Chantilly. The players who were in key roles were: Herndon Henderson, David Patterson, Mike Tait, Pat Prater, Ted Koch and Chivon Franco.

The J.V. team also had its best finish ever in 1985. First year coach, Mark Dustin led the team to a 7-4-2 record, and second place in the District. C

Pat McLean passes to a teammate who is open for a shot on goal.

In practice, every player is given a chance to show his best.

Coach Mark Dustin gives pointers to two of his players during practice.

During practice, J.V. soccer players learn to evade opponents through dribbling.

You need a good head on your shoulders to play soccer.

"Watch your back!", one player yells to his teammate.

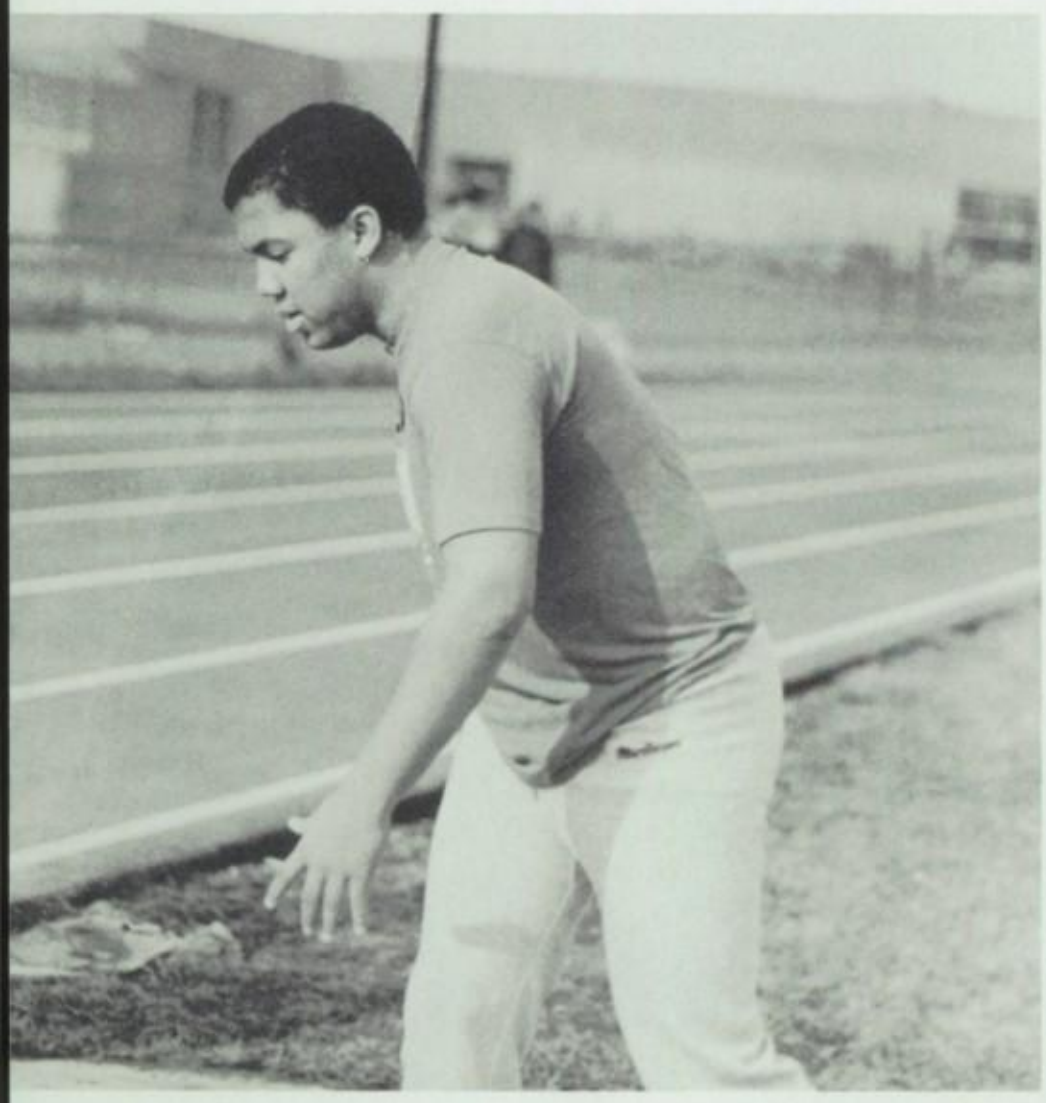
SOMETHING FOR

To some it was leaping over hurdles or jumping new heights in the high jump. To others it was sprinting down the straight away, up the track, or fine tuning and practicing techniques in the shot put, discus, and long jump. But all these people had something in common: they were all members of the Chantilly track team. Track is a unique sport in that there are lots of events and there is something for everyone. Practice began at 3:00 with twenty minutes of stretching after a mile warmup on the track. Then the team broke up into specialized groups such as sprinters, jumpers and hurdlers, throwers, and distance runners. Intervals, agilities, drills, and bleacher runs were common activities. On Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays the team hit the weight room. These sets of weights were required along with a lot of situps and pushups. As Distance Coach Caslin said, "Weights are crucial for building speed through strength." There were also three new and big plus's for the Spring Track Team. One plus was the increased number of athletes who came out for both teams. The second plus was the enlarged coaching staff which included Mr. McKinney, Ms. Maresca, Ms. Platt, and returning coaches Mr. Kincaid and Mr. Caslin. The ;arger staff provided for more personalized coaching. The third plus was the new purple-colored track. Last year when the track was being constructed, the teams had no use of a track for practice or home meets. Both teams anticipated a tough dual and invitational meet schedule, and many meets held at home on the new track.

Freshman, Hollie Moore, jogs the mandatory mile warm-up on the track to loosen up before the stretching exercises.

Members of the boys team perform agility drills. These drills include high knee and long stride drills which increase the flexibility and speed.

EVERYONE



John Williams spends a lot of time perfecting his technique in the weight events. Building strength is also important.

The boys team goes through extensive stretching exercises in order to stretch all muscles that will be used.

Larry Leslie gives it his all in the discus throw. Mr. Kincaid coaches all the throwers and they all do extra on their own.

Boys Varsity Tennis & Gymnastics

Getting the swing of things!

Both Chantilly's boys tennis and gymnastics teams started out the 1986 spring season optimistically. The turnouts for both teams were outstanding. They worked hard and set their minds to having a great season with a lot of team spirit and unity. C

— Dan Ward

Two students look on in amazement as Thearavuth Sok executes an extremely difficult gymnastics move.

Jeff Chou gives it his all when trying to slam the ball across the court.

Practice makes perfect is Matt Robinson's motto when it comes to perfecting a serve.

Just hangin' around, an agile gymnast practices some expert moves on the rings after school.

Trying to show off, a limber gymnast jumps in front of the camera.

Sitting pretty, Thearavuth Sok shows how much strength he has in his upper body by performing this stunt.

Jam Packed in Faculty

Throughout the year, an endless number of activities went on at Chantilly. The last bell of the day opened up a world of interesting, after-school activities. But the majority of the day was devoted to the students — getting grades up, taking tests, doing classwork.

But who helped the students? Who gave out the tests? When times seemed rough and grades seemed to hit "rock-bottom", who talked to the students about the classes they were taking? Who kept the school running day after day, week after week, month after month, throughout all the chaos centered around the students?

A first guess, of course, would have been the teachers. The people who tied up 100 term papers, five classes of lectures and assignments, and found time to eat lunch all in one day — they deserved the extra apple! But they didn't do it all alone. Counselors and subschool principals helped out with student grades, course selections, and college applications, and were always around when you needed someone to talk to. And how would anyone ever have managed without the secretaries? They always kept things organized, even when situations looked bleak.

And then there was the principal, Mr. George Keim, the official "Leader of the Pack". That was one face who was always seen at sports events, drama shows and musical performances. The pride that poured through Chantilly was expressed with that one person. From Mr. Keim, efficiency and effort flowed throughout the entire Faculty — to make the rest of Chantilly work! C

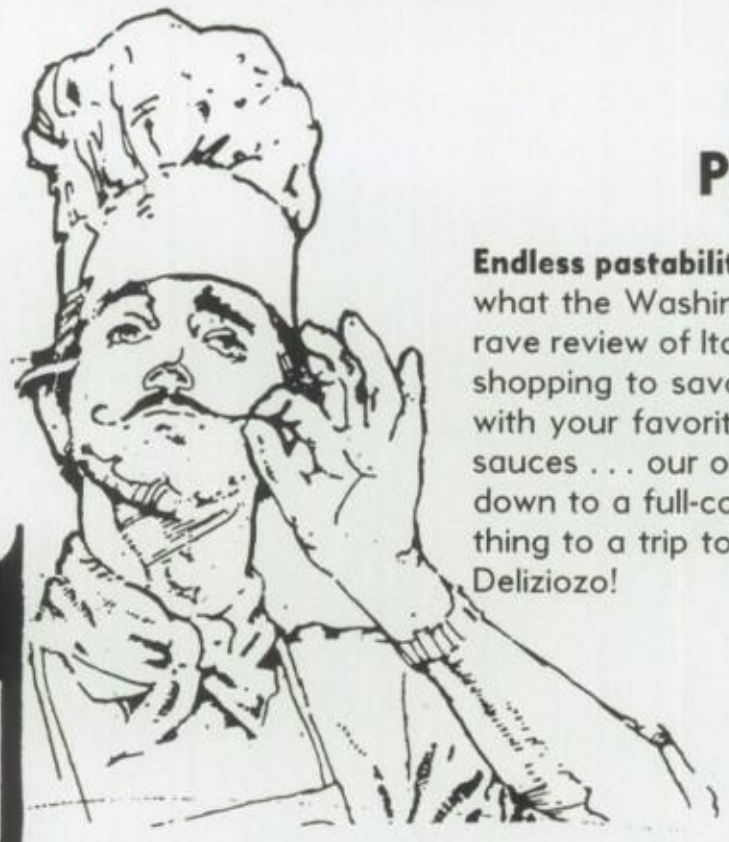
Buon Giorno!



Italian Delight Pizza Testaurant

Endless pastabilities . . . and "the best pizza" in town! That's what the Washington Post and Washingtonian said in their rave review of Italian Delight's pizza. So take time from your shopping to savor our popular Neapolitan and Sicilian pies with your favorite toppings . . . our homemade pastas and sauces . . . our over-stuffed heros. Come in for a slice or sit down to a full-course prima classe dinner. It's the next best thing to a trip to Rome.
Deliziozo!

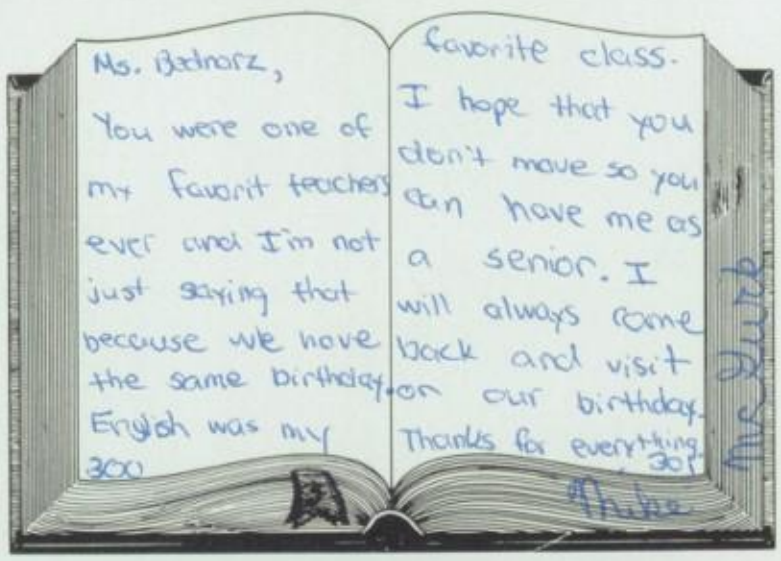
It's the world's best-selling encyclopedia.
It's understandable.



Ms. Bednarz,
You were one of my favorit teachers ever and I'm not just saying that because we have the same birthday. English was my favorite class. I hope that you don't move so you can have me as a senior. I will always come back and visit on our birthday. Thanks for everything. Mr. Burb

Ten Years of Jazzin' ...

... Let the Memory Live Again

Eight Years Ago, this would have been a familiar face on stage. She's a former Jazzin' member by the name of Pat Avignone.

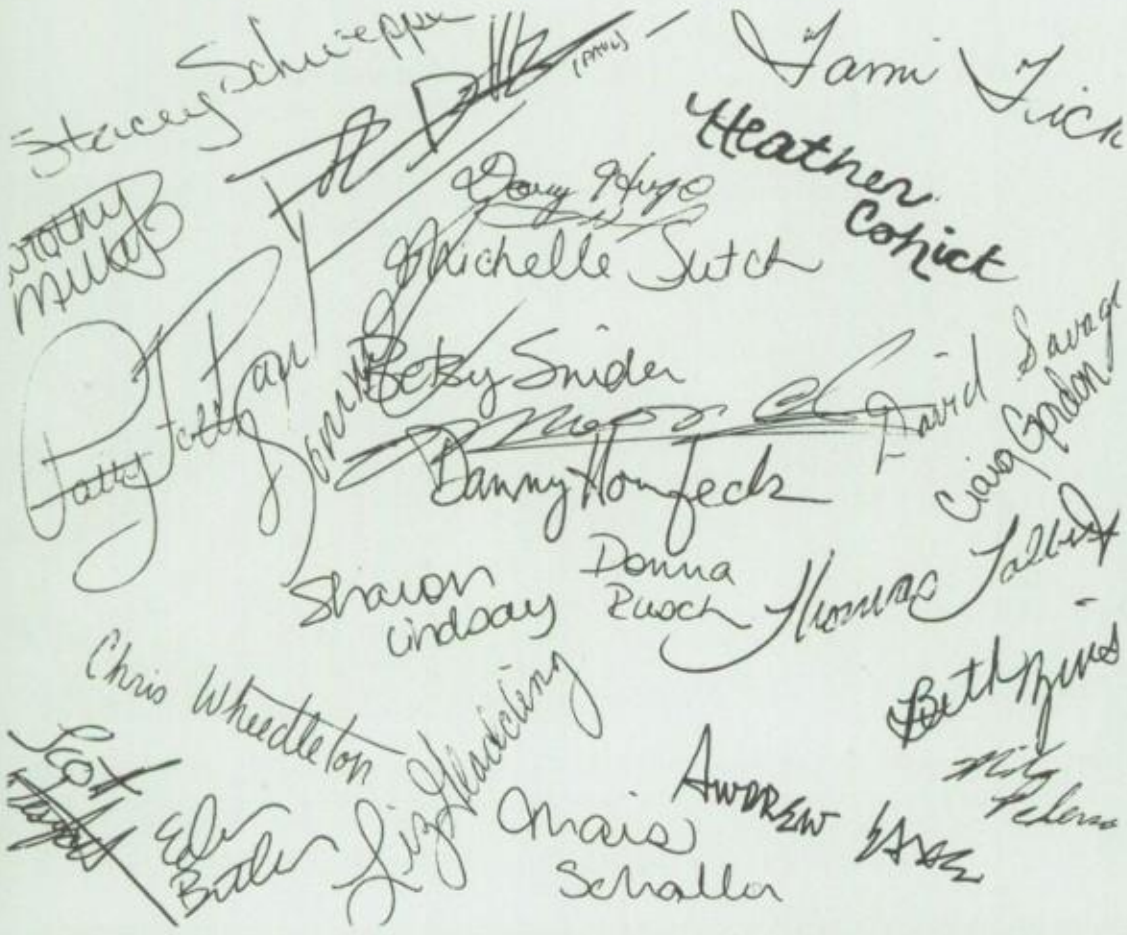
1981

Jeff Wallace and Jamie Gallagher, stars of Jazzin' from 1981, stunned the audience many times with their talent.

Petra Brown was another talented member of Jazzin' in 1981.

Special Thanks to Mrs. Elaine Wilson



Memory

Daylight, see the dew on a sunflower
And a rose that is fading
Roses wither away
Like the sunflower I yearn to turn my face to the dawn
I am waiting for the day...

... Memory, all alone in the moonlight
I can smile at the old days
I was beautiful then
I remember a time I knew what happiness was
Let the memory live again

Burnt out ends of smokey days
The stale cold smell of morning
The streetlamps die, another night is over
Another day is dawning

Daylight, I must wait for the sunrise
I must think of a new life
And I mustn't give in
When the dawn comes tonight will be a memory too
And a new day will begin

Sunlight, through the trees in summer
Endless masquerading
Like a flower as the dawn is breaking
The memory is fading

Touch me, it's so easy to leave me
All alone with the memory
Of my days in the sun
If you touch me, you'll understand what happiness is Look, a new day has begun

from Old Possum's Book of Practical Cats,
by T.S. Eliot

The Odyssey Staff

Dear Odyssey staff of 1987,

Although I was on the yearbook staff for only two years, they were the best years I spent at Grantley. There were some special moments last year, but this year I definitely saw a change in the way the staff carried itself. If I had it to do all over again, I can think of a few things that would be done differently, but I wouldn't miss it for the world if I had people like you to go through it with me!

To the Editor and staff of the Odyssey 1987, I would like to leave a few memories: Lack of layout and type sheets, McDonalds and Pizza Hut, "Toys R Us", late nights before (and after) deadlines, getting ads, "Craddock's Caption Corner", the radio, and, of course, fond memories of "Gunther".

I want to give special thanks to some people who helped out in the worst of times: Mr. Kelleher, Matt Donnelly, Kurt Hiller, Bill Whittaker, and Shelby Rainey for their photography expertise; Mrs. Glakas, Kim Bleiting, Robert Naylor, Paul Deese, and Noreen Alt for donating their artistic talent; and Michelle Keller for sacrificing speeding tickets and her own time to help out on numerous occasions. I am grateful for all that you have done to help make this year's book the best ever. Also, I want to especially thank the yearbook sponsor, Mrs. Pittman, for always being there when I needed her.

May she always have an "award-winning" yearbook and a full tank of gas!

Thanks again to the staff of 1986. You all are very talented people, and will always be special to me. The best of luck and wishes for another unforgettable year to the Odyssey staff of 1987!

Love,
Katie

Waine Craddock listens attentively to Mrs. Pittman as she gives careful instructions on drawing up a layout. Working on the yearbook takes a lot of dedication, as shown here.

"How can something this Big get into such a SMALL space?" Sarah Colvin tries to fit a picture into a layout. Fitting pictures involves knowing proportions and how to get them to fit exactly.

Discussing captions for a picture, Terri Hickman and Stephanie Horn put together another page for the yearbook.

"I know it's in here somewhere!" Kerri Lane looks through her drawer in the yearbook room for some vital information. Kerri's Senior section showed evidence of her creative ideas.

Packing Up The Crew

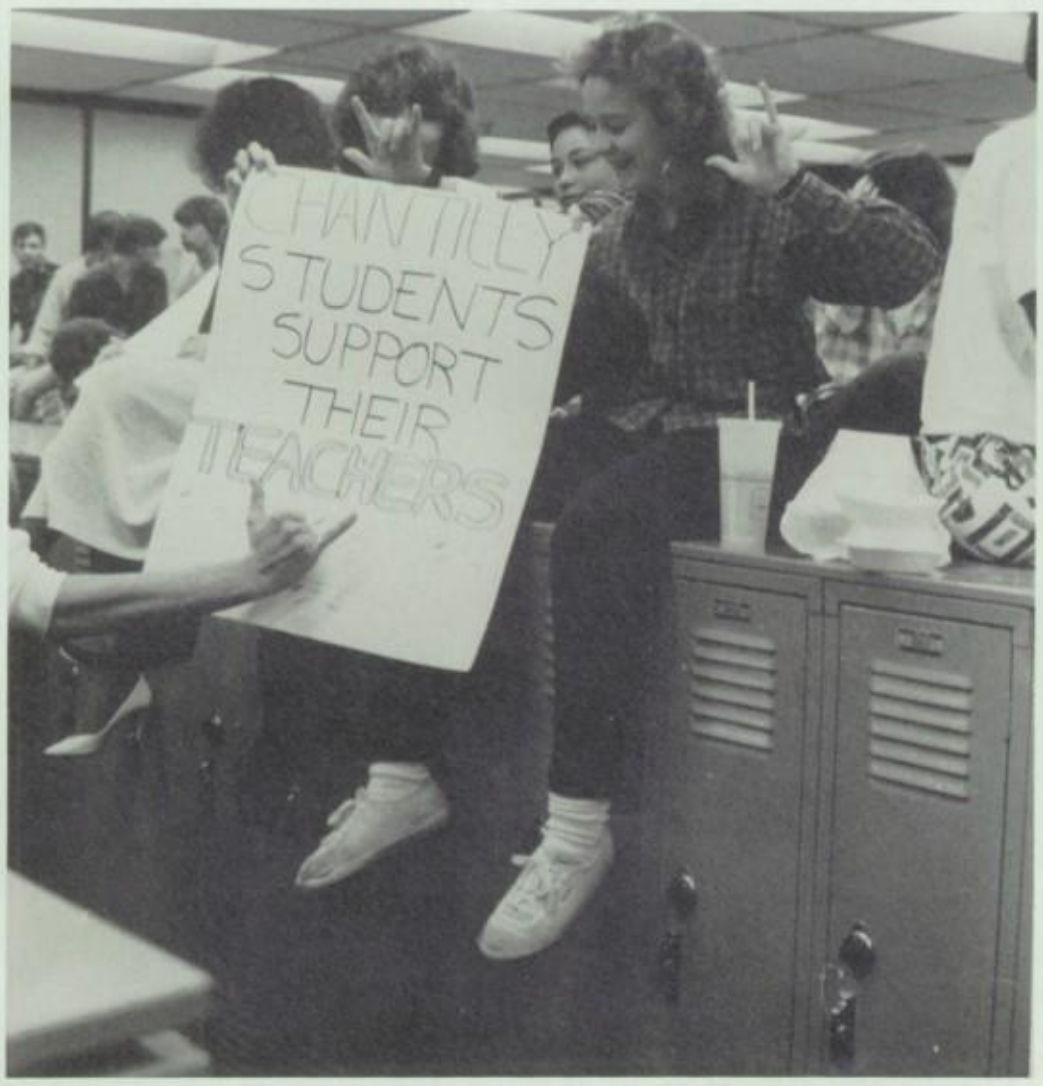
Seniors walked down the aisle, taking their seats. Underclassmen packed the bleachers of the gym — the juniors were soon to be seniors, the sophomores had gotten their driver's licenses and the freshmen had finally made it through their first year of high school.

This was a year for people to express themselves freely. Afterschool activities and expressing ideas encouraged everyone to express individuality. This school year was the first in Chantilly's history to be filled almost to the official capacity, with a total of 2,462 students. The Odyssey 1986 has been Jam-Packed with changes, good and bad — but everyone doing their best — and no less! C

A rule of thumb. Juniors here show how they have kept the "junior tradition" at a basketball pep rally.

Making the grade, David Olstein, Richard Bernard, and Alan Cole won themselves another taping for the television show "It's Academic".

Words of wisdom, Varsity football coach, Mr. Fred Welch, is seen here giving his pep talk for a Friday night football game to the students at CHS.



Camping out, Chrissy Stroyer and her drama partner read over their lines for drama while sitting outside in the picnic area.

Top support. While the teachers worked "to the rule", Kerri Lane and friend show their support for teacher pay raises at the senior sit-in 1st period.

Hey Dude!
I guess I enjoyed
English this year.
Lets meet in 20 years
I'll be 38. You will be 60
Possibly a Grandmother.
Let me know if I can book a plane, train, bus, or car for you sometime. Death to Shakespear.
Over and out

Mrs. Bednarz
"I AM SLAIN"... (PLAGH)
I'll never forget the archaine knowledge you have imparted to us over the years.
Don't forget me too soon - It's been real.

Brad Anderson

Mrs. Bednarz —

I'm really glad that I had you as an English teacher this year. I've learned more this year than ever before. (Even though you killed us with the first writing assignment). What's youre attitude of GT freshman now? I know, I know — "NEVER AGAIN!!" I still hate Charles Dickens though. I'll be seeing you around.

Love,
Theresa
Staropoli

Mrs. Bednarz,
I have really enjoyed your class. You made English quite interesting. You have made it fun, which is really easy to do. You are really a nice person, & for some reason, you are special to me. That ain't easy for a teacher to do. I'll miss you over the summer & I hope I have you for a teacher in my senior year. That would really be great! Well, have a good summer & I'll see you next year. Who knows, maybe I'll be able to aide for you during lunch or something. Well figure it out next year.

Love,
Dolley Schultz
(your other "some freshman")

Mrs Bednarz,
I've had quite an experience in your class this year with Wade, Frank and Mike. Between Wade and Frank insulting one another and Mike with his paper balls across the room it was truely exciting. I hope college will be this much fun. I doubt it. Thanks for being such an understanding teacher and tolerating us Seniors. YOU AS MY English teacher like you. Good luck with your future classes.
(God Bless)
Sabrina Jackson

Mrs Bednarz,
I enjoyed having VT
English teacher like you.
(boy o' boy) alts the first time I got good grades in English
Guy Tabern

Mrs. Bednarz, since Sabrina is my cousin (©) I'll sign under her. Its been an interesting year in this class - Humanities. Well, the field trip was fun. Thanks for everything,
Mary Beth Stevenson

MRS. BEDNARZ —
EVEN THOUGH IT DIDN'T HAVE YOU FOR A TEACHER UNTIL 2ND SEMESTER, IT STILL HAD FUN. YOU MAKE(S) COMING TO ENGLISH A RELIEF INSTEAD OF SOMETHING YOU'D DREAD. THANKS, DIANA BIRDSHILL

Well, The Year is Over And No Matter How Hard I Tried, I Couldn't Give You A Nervous Breakdown! It's Been A Great Year And I Hope I Have Given You A Sense Of Humor Right Now, Which Will Help You Symbolizes Death, But It No Longer Have A Life That Later & Thanks For Everything. Matters. See You
Jon Havey

I'll sign under her. Its been an interesting year in this class - Humanities. Has been Well, the field trip was fun. Thanks for everything, Mary Beth Stevenson

Mrs. Bednarz,
I think your a really good teacher, I've all the years I've been in school the only 2 classes I've ever really enjoyed and learned anything was yours and Mr. Kryston. No matter how hard I tried Don't give up the fight. Because your good.
Thanks,
Jaurjiana Jones

Mrs. Bednarz,
I enjoyed having you as my teacher. You have a unique way of teaching. You would sometimes get carried away but that made class more interesting. I'll never forget the day you told me that I was a unique person. Thanks for everything.
Cindy Smith

Mrs. Bednarz,
this year in english was great.
Thanks for a great fun year in english finally I think
I finally learned something in your class.

Michelle Collins

Mrs. Bednarz,
Hasn't this year been great! Don't you wish there was more! Oh well, maybe you'll have us when we're seniors (however Freshman de rule!!) well, have a great life and thanks a lot for this year!! Love,
Kristal Newell
P.S. I hated
geeds and maths!!!

Mrs. Bednarz,
I really want to thank you for the most enjoyable and successful year I've had in English throughout my high school years. I've never done so well,
You've really done a great job of making English readable.
I actually paid attention and learned the stories. Thanks again and I wish you the best of luck in the future.

Andie Dennis

Mrs. Bednarz,
I'm glad you were my teacher this year. I promise I won't egg you there -even though I do like what you did. Hope I have you for Humanities. Take Care

Your student
Mike Dennis

Mrs. Bednarz,
Thank you
so much for this year. Humanities was so much fun &
hope & get a Professor like you in college!
Good luck with all your classes in the future.

Mike Dennis

Mrs. Bednarz,
You've been a great teacher.
You've had a lot of fun in your class even though I didn't say much. You've made my enjoyable than it would have been if I stayed silent (my specialty)
Chris Zobler

P.S. I'd be out west!

Mrs. Bednarz,
I know you're going to teach never going to admit it, but I had fun, right?! Well, G/T again, but you've been it, you do consider teaching if you do consider my class. You've been G/T teach my class. ROB DIES!! great! And remember, ROB DIES!!
